HOUSE REJECTS RADICAL PLANS TO TAX THRIFTY

Beats Proposal to Hit $1,000 Incomes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—A flood of amendments, many of them radical and intended to tax small incomes heavily and virtually confiscate all salaries above $50,000 yearly, submerged President Roosevelt's tax bill late today as soon as the house concluded general debate upon the measure.

With fewer than 100 of the 435 members present, all the amendments were defeated. The Democratic leaders, nevertheless, were embarrassed as they battled to defend the bill from the onslaughts of radical members of their party seeking to redraft the measure more in line with the ideas popularized by Huey Long.

Hits at $1,000 Class.

Also beaten down by a somewhat closer vote was a proposal by Representative John Taber [Rep., N. Y.] providing for a 2 per cent surtax upon incomes of $1,000 to $2,000 a year and a gradual scale running up to the proposed 31 per cent upon incomes of $50,000.

"This amendment would make the bill a real revenue bill," Taber argued. "It is time that we began providing money to pay for government extravagances." The amendment was defeated, 52 to 31.

The bill will be jammed through the house tomorrow and made ready for a vote, which probably will be delayed until Monday, according to plans. Virtually the only major amendment which seemed certain of approval was that providing for exemption of corporation charitable bequests from their taxable net income in an amount up to 5 per cent of the latter. Adoption of this amendment will be in defiance of the President's expressed wishes.

Summary of Schemes.

A summary of the amendments offered and the voting upon them follows:

A surtax of 1 per cent upon incomes of $2,000 to $3,000 a year, 2 per cent upon incomes of $3,000 to $4,000, etc., running up to 99½ per cent of incomes above $10,000,000; would prevent any person receiving more than $52,000 a year; offered by Representative W. D. McFarlane [Dem., Tex.], defeated 50 to 11.

A surtax of 99 per cent upon all incomes in excess of $50,000 a year; offered by Representative Charles V. Truax [Dem., O.]; defeated 60 to 14.

Keep Federal Salaries Intact.

A 15 per cent tax upon all government salaries in excess of $5,000; offered by Representative Merlin Hull [Prog., Wis.]; defeated 60 to 16.

A flat tax of 5% per cent upon the incomes of all Americans living abroad; offered by Representative John H. Hoeppel [Dem., Cal.]; defeated 65 to 4.

A reduction of the maximum surtax upon incomes from 75 to 66; offered by Representative Fish [Rep., N. Y.]; defeated 62 to 35.

A substitution of British income tax rates upon incomes, running from 16 per cent of incomes above $5,000 to 75 per cent upon incomes in excess of 1 million; defeated 69 to 16.

Increase of present income tax rates for 10 per cent all along the line; offered by Representative John A. Martin [Dem., Col.]; defeated 65 to 22.

Defeated by Verbal Vote.

An amendment changing present capital gains taxation structure designed to yield an additional 60 millions; defeated by verbal vote.

A tax of 1 per cent upon gross incomes in addition to net income tax; point of order sustained.

Later consideration of some of these amendments created amusement. The Truax amendment would have imposed a total tax of 103 per cent upon incomes in excess of $50,000. The Hoeppel amendment would have imposed a tax of 112 per cent upon persons in the 75 per cent brackets. When this was called to Hoeppel's attention he remarked:

President Gets $75,000.

Very brief arguments attended the offering of the amendments. McFarlane, pointing out that the President gets $75,000 a year, contended that no one else ought to receive more than $52,000, or $1,000 a week.

In the general debate preceding the period in which amendments were offered the bill was subjected to general ridicule by the Republican minority as a political gesture on the part of the President. The radical Democrats also expressed scorn, finding the measure too mild.

It was attacked by the conserva-

LEAGUE YIELDS TO MUSSOLINI IN ETHIOPIAN ROW

[Copyright; 1935; By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Aug. 2.—The attitude to be taken by the council of the league of nations toward the Italo-Ethiopian dispute in its present stage was settled tonight among the delegations of France, Great Britain, and Italy.

The settlement will be formally submitted for adoption at a meeting planned for 10 a. m. tomorrow which, if successful, will conclude the extraordinary council session.

The settlement, nominally a compromise, accepts from beginning to end the Italian attitude. Italy is committed to nothing except renewal of the conciliation proceedings which broke down a few weeks ago in the Netherlands. The four members of the conciliation committee are to appoint a fifth member. There is no pledge by Premier Mussolini not to resort to force pending the conclusion of the conciliation proceedings.

Scope of Proceedings Limited.

The arbitration proceedings will cover only the responsibility for frontier incidents, in which each disputant contends the other was the aggressor. The sovereignty of the territory on which the incidents occurred will not be within the scope of the arbitration. This is in accordance with the Italian demands.

The attempt at arbitration must be finished before Sept. 4. At some subsequent date, not yet fixed, the whole matter will be returned to the council, according to the promise of the French and British. The Italians, however, did not commit themselves.

In the meantime there will be initiated negotiations among Great Britain, France, and Italy, as co-signatories of the treaty of 1906, which Ethiopia resents and has never recognized because it envisages dividing its territory into "spheres of influence" among the "big three."

Formula Blocks Ethiopia.

The object of these negotiations will be "to facilitate the search for a solution of the differences between Italy and Ethiopia," but they will take place outside the league.

The resolution to be submitted to the council tomorrow takes no note of these negotiations. They will merely be mentioned in the speech in which Premier Pierre Laval of France will lay the resolution before the council.

Thus, Ethiopia is blocked from protesting other than verbally. It can do nothing about the negotiations, because they will take place outside the league, even though their object is the disposition of its territory. Ethiopia can only refuse to recognize such negotiations and defend its land if it is able. Any agreement reached among the "big three" is expected to entail their mutual support of each other against Ethiopia.

Ethiopians Ignorant of Plan.

Late tonight the Ethiopian delegation had not been informed of this agreement, nor had it been made acquainted with the provisional text of the resolution to be presented to the council. The Ethiopians will hear about it at the meeting tomorrow.

The text of this resolution, which may be slightly changed before its presentation, stands tonight as follows:

"The arbitration commission shall not take into account the sovereignty of the place where the incident occurred and shall examine the other elements of the dispute.

"To determine the responsibility for an incident it is desirable that the commission shall take into account equitably the opinions which those present on both sides held with good faith regarding the sovereignty of the place where the incident occurred.

"Invites Arbitral Procedure."

"The council takes note that the two parties have declared their willingness to continue arbitration according to the 1928 treaty and invites them to pursue this arbitral procedure with all diligence, said procedure having to reach a settlement of the dispute before Sept. 4.

"The council takes note finally of the willingness of the two parties to name a fifth arbitrator."

Laval, it is understood, will present this resolution to the council. Unanimity is required for its adoption. Ethiopia is not represented in the council's votes.

The negotiations under the 1906 treaty will be announced in a joint communique by the three powers, issued from their hotels, outside the league. This communique will contain no reference to the league.

A protest from Ethiopia is expected,

MAXWELL BODENHEIM, AUTHOR, BROKE AND IN ALCOHOLIC WARD

New York, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Maxwell Bodenheim, whose verse and prose once qualified him as one of Greenwich Village's brighter lights, tonight lay on a cot in Bellevue hospital homeless and penniless.

At his feet was a sheet of paper on which was written the word: "Alcoholism."

The man, who from 1918 to 1931 wrote works which earned him a niche in the literary world, was found on the street last night in front of the apartment of a friend, who told police that he had invited the poet to spend the night with him. At Bellevue tonight his condition was described as "not serious."

Last March, declaring he was penniless and hungry, Bodenheim led a band of writers in the relief headquarters, where he was promised $15 a month for rent and $5.10 a week for food.

One of his novels, "Replenishing Jessica," caused him to be brought into court for indecency charges, but they were dropped and the book quickly became one of the best sellers of 1925.

Russian Flyer Races for Pole on Hop to U. S.

MOSCOW, Aug. 3.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—Sigmund Levanevsky and two companions took off here today on their projected nonstop flight to San Francisco, Cal., across the North Pole at 6 a. m. (about 11 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time Friday), the Tass (soviet) News agency announced.

The flyers got away in their red winged monoplane in a driving rain from the Sholkovsky airport. The plane's co-pilot was George Baidukoff. The navigator was Victor Lichenko.

Before taking off on the 6,000 mile flight Levanevsky said if all went well they expected to be in San Francisco within three days, or sometime Monday morning.

Crowd Sends Up Cheers.

The long narrow wings of the plane glistened in the early morning rain as the airmen climbed aboard. The crowd waved as the 950 horse power motor roared and the ship moved across the ground.

The plane has a closed cabin and retractable landing gear. It is equipped with a three bladed propeller.

It is entirely of soviet construction. Inside the fuselage the flyers had stowed away emergency equipment designed to provide them with food and protection from arctic cold for a period of months in the event they are forced down in the polar regions.

Route Over Barents Sea.

The route the flyers will follow carries them through an arctic zone of almost continual daylight. They will cross Kola peninsula, heading out over Barents sea about 150 miles east of Murmansk.

The takeoff of the polar ship was witnessed by high soviet officials, including Commissar of War and Navy Voroshiloff, Commissar of Home Affairs Yagoda, and Assistant Commissar of Heavy Industry Pyatakov.

1,616 Mile Hop Over Sea.

The last land sighted by the flyers before they head out over the frozen wastes of the north will be Victoria Island, near Franz Josef Land. From there the airmen will fly over 1,616 miles of sea and ice to Prince Patrick Island, off the Canadian coast. Their route will take them over Banks Land, Great Bear lake, Fort Simpson, the Rockies, and the Cascade range. From Vancouver they will head for San Francisco.

Cartoonist to make 16,000 foot hop across the Andes today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 2.—Tomorrow, when Chicago commuters are hopping trains, we expect to be hopping the Andes if the observer at the Statue of Christ peak reports the weather on both sides favorable. No flight is made if it is snowing.

Each seat in the plane has an oxygen tube for use by the passengers in the event of altitude discomfort. The height will be around 16,000 feet. We have obtained the difficult governmental permission to use a movie camera on the flight.

Every plane has two pilots, one of whom operates the radio. He receives and sends reports every quarter hour. The Panagra service was inaugurated in 1929. Since then it has made 1,867 crossings, with only two major accidents, both before the radio was installed.

In the first six months of this year there have been 1,991 pay passengers over the Andes. The eastward rush is now heavy. Three planes carried 43 on July 30. Two planes will be full tomorrow. The passengers will include Alden B. Swift of Swift & Co. and two cabinet ministers of Bolivia and Colombia.

DRENCHING RAIN SENDS MERCURY TUMBLING HERE

After another sweltering day during which the mercury climbed to 92 degrees, Chicago received relief in the shape of shifting winds and a drenching rainfall which fell throughout the entire metropolitan area and tumbled the mercury 18 degrees within four hours at the Chicago airport last night.

At 8 p. m. the temperature stood at 88 degrees. Shortly after that hour the winds began to shift to the southeast, and subsequently the rain began. Under this influence, the mercury at the airport dropped to 81 degrees at 10 p. m., to 76 at 11 p. m., and to 70 degrees at midnight. The drop in temperature was nearly as great downtown, where the reading fell from 88 at 8 p. m. to an unofficial 74 degrees at midnight.

In the meantime, the weather bureau station at the Chicago airport reported that nearly an inch of rain had fallen within a few hours. The heavy downpour was general from the Wisconsin line to the far south end of Cook county and throughout the western suburbs.

At the Englewood police station the basement lockup was flooded with three feet of water, and police had to remove the prisoners to drier quarters at the Stockyards station.

Forecaster J. R. Lloyd declared that the outlook for today is for cooler weather with moderate northerly winds, and possible showers.

Cleaning Chain Fined as Judge Assails Owner

Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher yesterday imposed a fine of $3,000 on the Peacock Cleaners and Dyers, an independent service chain, for cutting prices below the limits specified in an injunction issued on July 13 by Circuit Judge Benjamin P. Epstein.

The injunction, granted on the petition of the Cleaning and Dyeing Plant Owners' association of Chicago, restrains the Peacock cleaners and twenty-two other independents from charging less than 90 cents for cleaning and pressing a garment when called for and delivered, or less than 75 cents for the cash and carry trade.

Denounces Head of Chain.

Judge Fisher, who is hearing complaints against the injunction while Judge Epstein is on vacation, made a bitter attack from the bench against Edward Fink, head of the Peacock cleaners. The judge's outburst came after he read a letter allegedly written by Fink's father, Charles Fink, claiming to be on the relief rolls while his son has a large income.

Edward Fink's attorney, Irving Breakstone, protested that such personal affairs were not germane to the case, but the judge went on with his denunciation, calling Fink "mean, selfish, contemptible, heartless, arrogant, and defiant."

Edward Fink admitted he is the chief stockholder in the Peacock cleaners and receives an annual salary of $18,000. He told the court he had not seen his father in many years and did not know Charles Fink was a relief client.

Says Father Deserted Mother.

After the court session the cleaning company head said his father and mother separated more than 30 years ago and she divorced him. Fink's mother lives with him and neither of them has seen the father in many years, he said. The elder Fink has remarried and has a daughter by the second marriage.

Records of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission show that Charles Fink, 1221 North Leavitt street, and his wife and daughter have been on the relief rolls since April, 1933. They received $50 a month from the station at 1575 Milwaukee avenue until March 5, 1934, when relief workers went to court and obtained an agreement from Edward Fink to contribute $10 a month to the support of his father.

Last February the amount was increased to $20 a month, and another daughter agreed to contribute $5 a month. The relief station continued to grant small amounts for additional necessities.

Sentenced to Jail for Contempt.

A week ago Judge Fisher sentenced Edward Fink to serve 60 days in the county jail for contempt of court in violating the cleaning price injunction. Fink had stated that he could not "conscientiously promise" to refrain from cutting prices while the judge was investigating the Peacock records to determine whether the company could make money while charging less than competitors.

The judge has indicated he will not punish the independents for violating the injunction if they can show to his satisfaction that they make a profit while cutting prices.

Fink spent several hours in jail last Friday until his attorney posted a $3,000 bond, which acted as a supersedeas on Fink's appeal to the Illinois Appellate court from the contempt sentence. The $3,000 fine imposed yesterday is being appealed and a further bond of $4,000 has been deposited in lieu of immediate payment until the high court has ruled.

The fine is against the corporation, not Fink personally, but as he is the chief stockholder most of it would come from his own pocket. The Peacock company is still charging prices below the minimums fixed in the injunction.

Three other officials of independent cleaning companies have been cited for

BAUER'S WIDOW CALLED TO FACE DEATH SUSPECT

Through nearly 24 hours of questioning Mandeville W. Zenge, tanned 24 year old Missourian, yesterday maintained with stolid tenacity that he knows nothing about the brutal slaying of Dr. Walter J. Bauer, Kirksville, Mo., chemist.

In constant relays, prosecutors and police officials confronted the young man with question after question, hour after hour, but failed to break down his stolid resistance. About 2:30 a. m. it was decided to stop for the night and the suspect was led to a cot in a cell, but with the promise that this morning would see his inquisitors before him again.

Denies Identity for Time.

Zenge, who failed on Thursday in an effort to throw the police off his trail with a fake suicide note, was arrested in a west side taxicab garage at 3:30 a. m. yesterday. For five hours he denied even his identity, telling the truth on this point only after his father, J. Andy Zenge of Canton, Mo., had arrived and had identified him.

Thereafter, even as four witnesses stepped into the state's attorney's office and pointed to him—three with slight hesitation and one with none at all—as the man who had fled from the filling station at 71st place and Stony Island avenue where the mutilated Dr. Bauer was abandoned in his car early Wednesday, Zenge kept his surly calm.

"I don't know anything about it," was his stock answer.

Anxious to Prove Sanity.

The investigators, who have built up a chain of evidence which they claim leaves virtually no reason to doubt that Zenge committed the crime, were astonished but not perturbed by the prisoner's attitude.

They were, if anything, more anxious to establish the sanity of the prisoner than to gain admissions from him. This point was stressed especially in view of the reported plan of the attorneys engaged by the father to present an insanity defense.

As a first move along this line of action Assistant State's Attorneys Charles S. Dougherty and Alexander Napoli, in charge of the questioning, had Dr. Harry Hoffman, head of the Cook county behavior clinic, sit in for several hours while Zenge was making his sullen answers.

Dr. Hoffman said informally that he believed the prisoner sane and in full possession of his faculties.

Dr. Bauer's Widow Summoned.

Hoping that Zenge, if confronted with Bauer's widow, would weaken and tell his whole story, the prosecutors last night sent a message requesting her return from Cleveland, where she will attend the funeral of her husband this afternoon. William Bauer, a brother of the slain man, said that the request would be complied with and that he would accompany Mrs. Bauer here today or tomorrow.

There has been no change in the belief that the motive for the brutal attack grew out of the peculiar love affairs of Mrs. Bauer, the man she married and Zenge, whom she jilted. In outline the story of that strange three-cornered romance has been told; in detail there is much that is still unexplained.

News of Wedding a Shock.

Zenge, farm boy and carpenter, had for seven years been the suitor of the 23 year old Louise Schaffer, who is now night superintendent of nurses in the Laughlin hospital at Kirksville. He had bought a wedding ring and a $425 engagement ring, but when he saw the girl on July 14 to arrange for their wedding she informed him that she had been married only a few hours earlier to Dr. Bauer, 38 year old professor of chemistry in the Kirksville College of Osteopathy and Surgery.

Louise had known the doctor only a few months. In explanation of her action she gave the brief statement: "I liked the doctor better than Mandeville."

The end of his romance was an evident blow to Zenge. He went back to his work on dam No. 20 across the Mississippi river at Canton. He brooded and apparently, by fact or fancy, became imbued with the idea that Dr. Bauer was mistreating the girl he had married.

Friends Tell of Threat.

"I'll fix that doctor so he won't be able to treat another girl that way," Zenge was reported to have told one of his friends.

How much of this driving idea of Zenge's was based on truth and how much on false suspicion has not been determined. There were letters, which have been found, indicating that Dr. Bauer, who left his bride after the ceremony and departed for Ann Arbor without a moment alone with her, was suspicious of her motives in marrying him. There were others indicating that both he and Mrs. Bauer were fearful about their health.

Some of these letters were found in the hotel at Ann Arbor, the Jennings house, where Dr. Bauer was staying while he studied in a summer course at the University of Michigan. Others were in possession of Mrs. Bauer at Kirksville. One or two notes she received from the bridegroom are still being sought by the authorities.

"There seems to be something more to this case than appears on the surface," said Prosecuting Attorney Nat Rieger of Kirksville yesterday. "There is even a theory that some of the letters sent to Dr. Bauer and his wife were forged with the idea of creating strife between them. We have found no direct evidence to confirm this. I do not think, though, that the letters have as yet been given their full importance."

At any rate, Zenge chucked his job on July 23, had a last interview with the woman who had jilted him, and disappeared from his old haunts, not to reappear again under his own name until yesterday.

Hotel Clerk Supplies Clew.

Exact information on how the police learned where to find him was not divulged, but it was said a clerk in the Lindy hotel at 551 West Madison street furnished the clew. Zenge had registered there early Thursday, not long after he left his suicide note, with his coat and hat, in a taxicab in which he had ridden to the end of the Navy pier.

The guest used a telephone at an early hour yesterday and the clerk, suspecting his identity, notified the state's attorney's men. He had caught the number called by Zenge; it was for a telephone in the vicinity of Cicero avenue and Madison street, and Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for the state's attorney, and two assistants, Roy Arnold and Bert Gray, took up a watch in the vicinity.

Seized as He Telephones.

After making his call, Zenge went out of the hotel and got into a Checker cab, in which he was driven west. On the way the passenger told the driver, William Leinert of 921 East 40th street, that he wished to telephone again. Leinert said that he needed gasoline and that he would stop in the company garage at 4642 West Madison street.

While the Missourian's telephoning was in progress Capt. Gilbert and his aids arrived. When they seized the fugitive, he asked what was wanted.

"You're Mandeville Zenge," he was informed.

"My name's Orville Smith," was the answer.

Later, after he had been taken to the prosecutor's office, he said he was not Orville Smith, but Al Johnson, and that his residence was in St. Louis. He was unable, however, to tell the names of streets in that city. After a long period of verbal dodging of this nature, the elder Zenge, who had come to Chicago late Thursday and registered at a downtown hotel, was invited to the state's attorney's office.

Father and son confronted each other. Their eyes met. But on neither side was there a sign of recognition. Mandeville, as the older man was led out, still denied that they were acquainted. But the police, suggesting to the father that a persistence in such an attitude would do no good, persuaded him to confirm the identification.

"That's Mandeville," he said. "I'm going to hire him a lawyer right away."

Father Hires Attorney.

During the afternoon Mr. Zenge engaged Attorney Joseph E. Green of the firm of Green & Costigan to represent his son. Mr. Green announced that he would seek a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of the prisoner today.

Zenge, informed of the identification by his parent, ceased to deny it. He made a surly admission that he knew Mrs. Bauer, but declined to tell anything of his sentiments toward her or her husband.

For a time he even denied the ownership of the coat and hat he left in the cab, the coat with a telltale blood-stain on the right side. At length he receded from this positon. The coat and hat already had been identified as his by Mrs. Bauer before she left for Cleveland on Thursday.

Filling Station Men See Him.

First were Harold and Harry Anderson, who were in the filling station when the car containing the injured scientist rolled up and his assailant fled. They had not had a good look at the fleeing man's face, they asserted, but Zenge closely resembled him. Next Charles Mantel, watchman over a parking lot near the filling station, viewed Zenge. Zenge looked like the same man, he said.

All the witnesses had told of the man running west in 71st place to an alley and north to 71st street. Along 71st street, from Stony Island west past this alley, runs the platform of an Illinois Central suburban station. As the fleeing man leaped up on the platform he stumbled and fell and Herman Eichner, 17 years old, a newsboy, ran over to help him. The man brushed aside his help and ran across the tracks.

Identified Positively by Boy.

"I had a good look at his face," said Eichner. "The man was Zenge."

It was disclosed by John Bender, clerk at the Masterbilt hotel at 4015 Lake Park avenue, that Zenge was a guest in that hotel for a few hours on July 26.

Presumably it was from this hotel that Zenge departed for Ann Arbor. It was a man who registered there as E. L. Jones of Chicago, on Sunday, who is believed to have slain Dr. Bauer. Last night the Ann Arbor police were bringing to Chicago one Oren Amumeitta of Flint, Mich., an outpatient from the university hospital, who knew both "Jones" and Dr. Bauer. He was expected to identify Zenge as the mysterious Jones.

It was from this Ann Arbor hotel that Dr. Bauer set out on his last ride. The man Jones, he said in his deathbed statement at the Jackson Park hospital, had asked for a ride and had then produced a pistol, forcing Bauer to drive into Chicago. The mutilation was accomplished with a penknife not far from the Andersons' filling station.

Lieut. Walter Storms, deputy chief of detectives, said he had requested Michigan state police to canvass the two routes to Chicago from Ann Arbor in an effort to find witnesses who had seen Dr. Bauer and his captor riding to this city before the doctor was abandoned at the gas station. The routes would be either through Jackson, Battle Creek, Benton Harbor, and Michigan City or through Coldwater to South Bend to Gary.

ZENGE'S FATHER BELIEVES IN HIM; FAMILY TO AID

Parent Extols Son as a Model Youth.

BY EARL MULLIN.

To J. Andy Zenge of Canton, Mo., it is simply unthinkable that his son Mandeville could have committed the cruel crime of which he has been accused—the killing by mutilation of Dr. Walter J. Bauer.

"That's not like my boy," he said yesterday, soon after he learned that the son was not dead, but in the custody of the state's attorney. "He wouldn't hurt anybody, not if he was in his right mind."

The elderly Mr. Zenge, a respected and prosperous dairy farmer, came to Chicago late Thursday, after he had learned of the finding of Mandeville's strangely worded suicide note. He was accompanied by his son, Leighton, a law student, and a cousin, Claude V. Staggs.

Here to Help His Boy.

Quite without pretense the tall, weather worn gentleman from Canton, clasping and unclasping his strong hands, admitted that he was here to "help his boy." And in spite of his bewilderment at the strange surroundings and stranger circumstances in which he found himself, it was plain that he would carry on to the bitter end for the son who had expressed such strong affection for him in the letter of farewell.

"Mandeville was always a good boy," he said loyally. "There never was a better one. He worked hard when he was on the farm and just as hard after he left it. He was honest and he saved his money. He never drank or even smoked, and so far as I know he was never in any trouble. The neighbors never had a bad word to say for him, either."

Values Neighbors' Opinions.

From his statements one could understand that Mr. Zenge valued the opinions of the neighbors. All good people in small communities, where secrets are hard to keep, value them.

"The folks back home," he said, "the family and our friends, are just as bewildered as I am. People here keep asking me what my plans are. Well, I haven't got any plans except to give my son good legal advice and see that he gets justice. After that, I don't know what to do. I'll just stay here and help out all I can."

In his slow drawl Mr. Zenge declared that he knew nothing of the killing of Dr. Bauer except what he had read in the newspapers. As to the young man's love affairs, he knew little more. For seven years Mandeville had been going with Louise Schaffer, the attractive nurse who jilted him to become the bride of Dr. Bauer.

Never Indicated Deep Feeling.

The boy had often said he liked her, but he hadn't declared he was foolish about her nor indicated that he would go berserk if he lost her love.

Mr. Zenge corrected the reports that have painted his son as habitually morose. He was, instead, of a calm and generally happy temperament; anxious to please everybody and never intruding his personal worries on others.

"It was a shock to me when I learned from the police that Mandeville was arrested," the dairyman declared. "It was a bigger shock when I got out there and saw him. I couldn't say a word to him, and I guess he couldn't say a word to me. Because I wanted to help him I just said the first thing that came to my mind—that he wasn't my son."

Only a few minutes later Mr. Zenge had corrected this statement and established the identity of the prisoner.

Home Town Is Shocked.

From Canton, a quiet, tree shaded little hamlet looking over the broad waters of the Mississippi, came dispatches corroborating what Mr. Zenge had said of the feelings of the neighbors. Almost without exception they are friends of the Zenge family and they cannot understand how a member of that clan could commit an atrocious crime.

Canton is a town of southern traditions and its residents value the Zenges for their talents as well as their worth.

Many of the clan are musicians, and most of them, growing up toward manhood and womanhood, have had the advantages of higher education inside the walls of Culver-Stockton college, the ivy covered institution that crowns a forested plateau west of the town.

In the small commercial life of the town the Zenges play an important part. Two of them conduct a pickle factory. Karl Zenge, a cousin of the man under arrest here, is in the automobile business.

They are all people of strong family feeling. They gather at each other's homes in the long winter evenings for singfests. Two cousins of Mandeville, Kenneth and his sister, teach music in high schools. To the neighbors it seems strange that a man with such a gentle, kindly background could be a cruel criminal.

Romance Watched by Town.

"If Mandeville got mad at somebody," one neighbor declared, "he'd hunt him up and beat the tar out of him. And he'd follow him till he caught up. But I can't ever believe he would do a thing like this. It just isn't like him or any of his folks."

These Canton folks had all watched with interest the progress of the romance of Mandeville Zenge and Louise Schaffer.

To his friends the infrequent reports in recent months that Dr. Bauer also was going with the attractive Louise were vaguely disturbing. The doctor from Ohio threatened to break up plans of a couple dating back to their childhood. They rather hoped that the doctor wouldn't succeed.

After July 14, when Mandeville Zenge traveled to Kirksville and learned from the lips of Louise herself that she was no longer free, the neighbors noticed that he seemed changed.

When he left his home and job on July 23, he went by bus, leaving his own car at the farm. To his brother, J. A. Zenge Jr., a student at the University of Missouri, he wrote that he was going to Chicago to work.

The widowed Mrs. Bauer's father and the elder Zenge have long been the best of friends. Louise herself has for years called Mr. Zenge "dad."

BAUER'S MOTHER AND WIDOW MEET AT HIS CASKET

Bereaved Bride Agrees to Return Here.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Two bereaved women—widow and mother—met for the first time tonight over the mutilated body of Dr. Walter J. Bauer, Kirksville, Mo., chemist who was slain in Chicago early Wednesday.

Not until she learned of the death of her 38 year old son did Mrs. Katherine Bauer, 68 years old, learn that on last July 14 he had married pretty Louise Schaffer, Kirksville nurse.

Not until both women appeared at the undertaking parlor tonight and viewed the body did she meet the widowed bride. Not even yet does the mother know of the fiendish cruelty which brought about her son's death.

Received Tenderly by Mother.

There was no bitterness despite the almost completely established theory that Dr. Bauer's hasty marriage was the forerunner of his doom. Relatives who were present as mother and widow met declared that the elder Mrs. Bauer received her daughter-in-law tenderly.

Both remained in seclusion tonight, awaiting the funeral tomorrow.

In the meantime Mrs. Louise Bauer, who arrived here last night accompanying her husband's body, has been informed of the arrest in Chicago of Mandeville Zenge, her former suitor, who is the principal suspect in the grewsome slaying.

Chicago police have asked that she return to that city to confront Zenge and aid the authorities in questioning the suspect.

Widow to Return to Chicago.

Dr. Bauer's brother, William, indicated that she had decided to accede to this request despite the statement that "she shuddered at the idea of returning to Chicago."

Just when she will go to Chicago was not determined. William Bauer also declared that while his sister-in-law is near collapse from grief and the strain of her experience, there is no truth in the rumor that she attempted to leap from a Chicago hotel window to her death.

William, a salesman for a malleable iron works here, and his brother Joseph, foreman for the same concern, came to Cleveland from Chicago with the young widow and indicated that they would go with her when she returns.

The elder Mrs. Bauer lost her husband two years ago. A son, Louis, was killed in a railroad wreck 17 years ago.

PRISONER TELLS POLICE NEW WAY TO MAKE A LIVING

Ward Silver, 22 years old, 4449 North Damen avenue, confessed yesterday to police that he had made a tidy living since May of 1934 by stealing electric motors from apartment buildings.

According to the story he told Capt. John Ryan of the Fillmore station, Silver made a practice of visiting apartment houses and posing as a repairman, or perhaps as an investigator for the city department of gas and electricity.

Something, it developed each time, was wrong with the motor used for heat or refrigeration, and Silver calmly took it away, explaining he would repair and return it. That was the last the building owner or manager ever saw of the motor.

Nineteen motors and one air compressor were recovered by police, and they are still seeking the remainder of about 150 motors which Silver confessed stealing and selling.

Toledo Cleaners' Strike Averted by Peace Pact

Toledo, O., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The newly devised Toledo plan for industrial peace scored a major victory today when it was announced that complete accord had been reached in the dry cleaners' controversy and the threatened strike averted. Companies declared a holiday today to permit completion of the peace pact. Substantial increases in wages for all employés, recognition of the dry cleaners' union and a provision covering prices for retail work are included in the agreement.

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Walter E. Coen, Kingman, Kas., today resigned the chairmanship of the Young Democratic club of Kingman county and the Democratic party because, he said, he felt the "New Deal has wandered far from the fundamental principles of the Democratic party."

SIX HELD AS POLICE RAIDERS SEIZE GUNS AT UNION MEETING

Six men, two of them union officials, were arrested last night and six loaded guns of various kinds were seized when police raided the headquarters of the Painters Union, local 191, at 5444 Wentworth avenue, just before a meeting and election of officers was to take place.

Among those seized are: James Dugan, 33 years old, 3116 Lowe avenue, business agent; George Henneman, secretary-treasurer, who also gave the Lowe address, and John Gill, 30 years old, 4227 Princeton avenue, who police said had a record as a "slugger."

In Dugan's car parked outside, police found a loaded shotgun and rifle, and in Gill's car a loaded pistol. In wooden lockers on the third floor of the building the raiders found a .38 caliber pistol, a .38 revolver, and a German Lueger pistol with an attachment permitting it to fire forty bullets at one loading.

The raid was made by two squads under Sergt. Joseph Hackes, after Deputy Chief of Detectives Walter Storms had received an anonymous telephone call that arms and ammunition would be found in the union rooms. Gill and Dugan were held for the police showup, but the other men were released.

WOMAN ADMITS ANOTHER'S DEATH IN "HEX" QUARREL

Blames 'Witchcraft' of Gun Victim.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Less than an hour after Mrs. Ida Cooper, 62, was shot and killed in her grocery store today, Police Sergeant Stephen Tozzer related a confession in which Mrs. Matilda Waldman, 40, admitted the slaying "because balls of flaming fire would come rolling into our house."

"I killed her because for six years she has been bewitching me and my husband," he quoted Mrs. Waldman as saying.

The shooting occurred as the women's husbands were at the office of Assistant Police Prosecutor William J. Schneider. Samuel Waldman complained of the "hexing" and Isadore Cooper complained of the Waldmans' charges.

Refusal Is Blamed.

Sergt. Tozzer attributed the slaying to Mrs. Cooper's refusal earlier in the day to sign an agreement "releasing" the Waldmans from witchcraft.

The "agreement" said: "I, Ida Rose, or Ida Cooper, agree to release Mr. and Mrs. Waldman from the witchcraft which I have done till now, and I will never do witchcraft to the Waldmans any more all my life."

Assistant Police Prosecutor William Cohen said he would issue a warrant charging Mrs. Waldman with first degree murder.

Mrs. Waldman was overtaken by two brothers, Michael and Edward August, as she fled from the store, Tozzer said.

Held Until Police Arrive.

"A holdup man just killed Mrs. Cooper," they quoted her as saying. The brothers held her, however, until police arrived.

Sergt. Tozzer said the woman told him after the confession: "I feel better now. I'm rejuvenated now. I tried to get Mrs. Waldman to sign that paper this morning, but she refused. Then I took it over to her store this afternoon."

TWO GIRLS TELL OF STRIP POKER BEFORE SLAYING

Stories Read at Detroit Murder Trial.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Statements of two of the "party girl" associates of William Lee Ferris describing a "strip poker" and drinking party at which it was alleged Howard Carter Dickinson took part a few hours before he was slain, were read here today at the trial of Ferris and his three women companions.

The four are charged with the holdup murder, last June 26, of Dickinson, from whom they took $134 after luring him to a lonely spot in Rouge park, where Ferris fired two shots into Dickinson's body.

Party in Hotel Room.

The statement of Jean Miller, which was read by Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea, told of a party which took place in Ferris' hotel room. Participating in the party, according to the statement, were Dickinson, Ferris, and the three women.

Prosecutor McCrea sought to have parts of the statements deleted on the grounds that they would "besmirch the character of a dead man." His request was refused.

The statement of Lorretta Jackson was also read. She told of the party held in Dickinson's hotel room the night before his murder. She said Dickinson announced he wanted "gayety, music, and dancing" and insisted that the women call him "Dick."

Substantiates Former Stories.

Except for the portions which the state sought to exclude the statements were substantially the same as those made public following the arrest of the four in Fort Wayne, Ind.

The girls' story about the strip poker party was corroborated by Ferris' statement made a month ago and read into the record today.

Ferris' statement revealed that the women not only knew Dickinson was to be killed but also declared after the killing that he got just what he deserved for "being so filthy."

The statement was Ferris' second "confession," the first one having been read to the jury Thursday.

SHAPE DEFENSE FOR WOMEN IN SWAMP MURDER

Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach began yesterday to build a defense for Mrs. Evelyn Smith, confessed slayer of Ervin Lang, and for Lang's mother-in-law, Mrs. Blanche Dunkel, who has admitted she paid Mrs. Smith $100 to commit the crime.

Both women stood mute when they were arraigned on murder charges Thursday and technical pleas of not guilty were entered. It was indicated that when the case is again called Monday before Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court, Mrs. Smith's and perhaps Mrs. Dunkel's plea will be withdrawn and guilty pleas entered.

Harry Jung, Mrs. Smith's Chinese husband, who helped dispose of Lang's body, is still being sought.

contempt of court by Judge Fisher. They are George Abarbanell and Moe Halperin, officials of Abarbanell Brothers, and Emmanuel Sommers, head of the Kent Cleaners and Dyers. No sentences have been imposed on them, however, as they consented to abide by the injunction while Judge Fisher is examining their financial records.

Yesterday Attorney Alvin Stein, representing the Abarbanell company, presented a statement of the company's financial standing. He interpreted it to show that the company could make a profit while reducing prices below the injunction's limits. Judge Fisher said he was not satisfied with the statement.

Stein then announced that his clients had been losing money while they obeyed the injunction and said they would immediately begin cutting prices. Judge Fisher warned him such an action was taken at the company's "own peril."

Tells of Radio Remarks.

The judge's verbal attack against Fink came after Attorney George Lavin, representing the cleaning and dyeing association, had charged that Fink had been making contumacious statements against the court in radio broadcasts. Fink, according to Lavin, said that he didn't care for court orders and was "running his business his own way."

Fink, wearing a light blue polo shirt, was then called before the bench. The judge referred to a letter he had received, purportedly written by Charles Fink, 1221 North Leavitt street. Fink admitted that was his father. The judge questioned him as follows:

Q.—Do you know your father applied for relief a short time ago at a station at 1575 Milwaukee avenue? A.—He told me he was going down there.

Q.—Why did you let him apply for relief if your business is so profitable? A.—He didn't tell me he was going to do that. He went there on his own accord.

Q.—Isn't this letter in your father's handwriting? A.—I don't know. I never saw it before. I've been away from him since I was a child.

Q.—You have a prosperous business and he is 76 years old and on relief? [No answer].

Attorney Objects to Remarks.

Attorney Breakstone interposed to state that Fink's personal affairs were not germane to the case.

"I want to know the character of the man I'm dealing with," Judge Fisher said. "If this were a man acting in good faith, even in his violating an injunction, I would deal with him lightly. But here the court is dealing with a different type.

"He is a man with no regard for the law at all. He is just mean, selfish, contemptible, willing to go to any length to defeat his competitors and benefit himself. He is heartless, arrogant, defiant. This man has no regard for any one's rights. He is one of those, of whom unfortunately there are too many, who wants to draw out the last vestige of sustenance and give nothing in return."

Brings Fink Near Tears.

Fink, on the verge of tears during this outburst, asked the judge whether he had investigated the handwriting in the letter. The judge said he had not, but had verified Charles Fink's name on the relief rolls.

Judge Fisher then fined the Peacock company. He continued the hearing on the cases of the other independent cleaners to Aug. 8.

MOTHER TO FACE GRAND JURY FOR DEATH OF GIRL, 7

A coroner's jury at the inquest yesterday into the death of Shirley Jane, 7 years old, 2319 Winnemac avenue, recommended that the child's mother, Mrs. Irma Jane, 28 years old, be held to the grand jury on a charge of murder.

While visiting at the home of her parents last July 21 Mrs. Jane attempted to commit suicide with her two daughters by inhaling illuminating gas in the kitchen of their home at 2143 Farragut avenue. The three were found unconscious on the floor by a brother.

Both the mother and a younger daughter, Betty, 4 years old, survived, but Shirley died the following day at the Swedish Covenant hospital. Mrs. Jane refused to testify at the inquest. She was accompanied there by her husband, Harold, who said his wife had suffered a nervous breakdown recently.

Judge Refuses Bride's Plea for 'Gin Marriage' Annulment

Superior Judge Joseph David refused yesterday to grant an annulment of a so-called Waukegan "gin" marriage pending a complete investigation of alleged "wedding mill" practices in the Lake county seat. He directed Waukegan officials to appear in his court on Aug. 8 to answer charges that Lake county justices of the peace are marrying intoxicated couples.

The judge's ire was aroused at a hearing on the annulment suit brought by Mrs. Christina Webb Marti, 22 years old, 1429 North Clark street, against Joseph Marti, 24 years old, one time featherweight boxer. Mrs. Marti told the court that at the time of her marriage last May 31 at Waukegan she was "too drunk" to know what was going on. In her bill she asserts that she and her husband have never lived together.

Demands Date of Marriage.

It was at this point that Judge David interrupted the hearing and directed his bailif to learn who had performed the marriage.

"Justices of the peace in Lake county apparently are marrying intoxicated persons," he declared. "Such practices must stop. I will take it up with the state's attorney there and see that they are either indicted or impeached."

Records of the marriage showed that the license was issued by County Clerk Lew A. Hendee of Lake county and that the marriage was performed by Justice Henry F. Wallenwein in Waukegan. Judge David directed that both officials, together with State's Attorney Charles E. Mason of Lake county, appear before him next Thursday. He continued the hearing on the annulment suit until that time.

Still sputtering with denunciations of Waukegan marriages, Judge David turned to his clerk and said: "Mr. Clerk, enter an order enjoining all residents of Cook county from getting married in Lake county." The order, however, was not entered.

Cheap Annulment Method.

Reached later in the day, both Hendee and Wallenwein denied that either marriage licenses were issued or marriages were performed when the couples appeared intoxicated. "It is just a cheap way of trying to get an annulment," Wallenwein declared. Neither he nor Hendee remembered the Marti case.

During the day suit for an annulment of a marriage performed in the Marriage court at the county building here was filed in the Lake County Circuit court by Lawrence T. Clennon, Waukegan salesman. In his bill Clennon asserted that on Nov. 28, 1934, he was married here to Norma Foster Clennon following a drinking party at her home. He declared that as a result he was "too intoxicated" to know what was going on and didn't realize he had been married until five days later.

POLICEMEN BEGIN ENFORCEMENT OF NEW TRAFIC CODE

BY HAL FOUST.

Police Commissioner Allman yesterday issued an order directing the Chicago police to enforce the new Illinois trafic code which was signed by Gov. Horner on July 9. The order was effective at 12:01 o'clock this morning.

Capt. David Flynn, head of the police trafic division, assembled the city's motorcycle men and accident prevention squads yesterday afternoon for special instructions on this enforcement.

"Slow drivers," said the captain, "are now subject to regulation by the police. Any one moving so slowly as to interfere with a reasonable use of the street is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Side Streets for "Turtles."

"The motorcycle men will order these turtles to leave the center of the busy thoroughfares, to stay close to the curbs or to take side streets. Any one defiant of these instructions from the patrolmen will be prosecuted under a section of the new code that makes them liable to a fine not to exceed $100 or to imprisonment not to exceed 10 days.

"Both the accident prevention squads and the motorcycle men will arrest violators of the law that prohibits unnecessarily loud horns. There also will be arrests for failure to have an adequate exhaust muffler in constant operation.

"The new speed regulations, five miles an hour faster than under the old statute, will not make any difference in our enforcement. As in the past, we'll exercise common sense rather than the letter of the law, issuing summonses only when the speed of the car is greater than reasonable, considering the general usage of the street. We will not permit any greater speeds than we have in the past."

Park Police to Go Slow.

Michael Hayes, new chief of the park district police, said his men likewise will operate under the new code hereafter, but that enforcement of the new provisions of the state's trafic regulations "will be adopted gradually." He said that "eventually" the boulevard patrolmen will discipline slow drivers.

In order to simply trafic regulation in Oak Park, the village board at a special meeting last night adopted an ordinance to retain jurisdiction over trafic cases. Motorists violating the trafic codes in Oak Park can now be booked, tried and fined by the village police magistrate.

Week-end recreational trafic into the country today and tomorrow will encounter state police operating under the new code. There is no longer a 45 mile an hour prima facie speed limit on the open road, but any one cutting in and out of lanes, endangering life or property, is subject to prosecution under a statute with teeth.

On arrests in unincorporated areas motorists will not receive immediate trial before justices of the peace, as in the past, but will be cited by the state's attorney for trial later in a branch of the County court. This is the procedure adopted for Cook county.

Bonds in Other Counties.

In other counties defendants will be arraigned before police magistrates or justices of the peace for a preliminary hearing and then required to post bond. The cases will be referred to the grand jury, even for minor infractions of highway rules, and the trials set for later dates in County or Circuit courts.

This complicated administrative system was protested yesterday at a sectional meeting of justices of the peace, sherifs, police magistrates, and state's attorneys in Danville. It was the fourth such meeting this week called by the Chicago Motor club. As at previous assemblies, in Rockford, Peoria, and Joliet, it was decided to request Gov. Horner to include the amendment of the trafic code in his call for a special session of the legislature next month.

NILES CENTER TAVERN OWNER DIES IN CRASH

Harry Schwall, 26 years old, Niles Center tavern owner, was killed last night when his car was struck and overturned by another automobile at Crawford avenue and Dempster road, in Niles Center.

Three occupants of the other machine were injured and taken to the St. Francis hospital in Evanston. They are Robert McCormick, 28 years old, 636 Waveland avenue, driver of the car; Martin Heavey, 42 years old, 1116 Wolfram street; and William Ebbitt, 30 years old, 4541 Sheridan road.

Schwall, who lives at 3854 Jerome avenue, Niles Center, was driving north in Crawford avenue, and McCormick's car was traveling east in Dempster road. Caution lights were working at the corner.

Schwall's death and two others increased the 1935 trafic toll for Cook county to 548. Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 433 persons had been killed in automobile accidents within the Chicago city limits and 9,454 injured. The other deaths:

Sam Coy, 51 years old, of 4844 Winthrop avenue, was killed when struck by an automobile while crossing Broadway near Lawrence avenue. The driver of the car, Mrs. Roberta Nicholls, 45 years old, 444 St. James place, gave bond to appear for the inquest.

Arthur Knight, 18 years old, colored, of 5957 Indiana avenue, died in the county hospital of injuries received in an automobile accident July 31. Knight was alighting from a car near 35th street and Calumet avenue when a truck backed int of an alley and crushed Knight between the two vehicles. The truck driver, T. M. Christy, 37 years old, 5342 South Western avenue, was not held.

COUNCIL VOTES 7 MILLION MORE IN TAX LEVIES

Brings Extensions Up to "Peg" Limit.

The city council yesterday approved $7,635,337 in new and supplemental tax levies for the years 1934 and 1935. The levies bring up the totals for tax extension to the limitation set by the Illinois legislature in "pegged" levies for the city and its semi-independent agencies.

The largest levy, $5,070,286, is supplemental to that of the corporate [operating] fund of the city for 1935. Other supplemental levies included in the total are: $800,000 for the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium for 1934; $821,643 for the sanitarium for 1935; $361,408 for the public library for 1935, and $450,000 for the Chicago judgment tax levy for 1935.

Pension Levy Adds $132,000.

A new levy of $132,000 for 1935 was also included. This is to provide money for the pension fund for city and board of education laborers to be set up under authority granted in a law passed by the legislature.

Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt was authorized by the council to draw plans for new river bridges at State street, Taylor street, Canal street, and South Ashland avenue, to be built as part of Mayor Kelly's schedule of work relief projects for Chicago. The authority was given only after considerable discussion of the type of bridges to be built.

Ald. John A. Massen [48th] wanted to know if the granting of the authority to Hewitt would mean that Chicago is to have no fixed bridges. Mayor Kelly replied that he did not think so.

Mayor Favors Fixed Type.

"I favor fixed bridges," the mayor said. "The council is on record as favoring them. This order will not affect our policy. We can go ahead with the preliminary plans, and then if the war department authorizes fixed bridges we will be that much farther ahead."

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], chairman of the council committee on rivers, habors and bridges and long an advocate of fixed bridges, was not so optimistic. "The war department engineers have declared repeatedly," he said, "that there can be no fixed bridges over the Chicago river until the Calumet region is better developed for navigation. That will be at least two years from now."

The council authorized Commissioner Hewitt to spend $500 for stage alterations in the auditorium on Navy pier and $2,000 for the employment of talent to give operas during August and September. The action was taken on the recommendation of Mayor Kelly and the money will come from an appropriation of $50,000 for pier activities.

Reappointments Are Approved.

The council approved Mayor Kelly's reappointment of James H. Gateley as a member of the city zoning board of appeals, and of M. K. McGill and Michael Iarussi as library trustees.

A resolution was adopted directing the president of the board of health and the commissioner of public works to take steps to destroy the various varieties of weeds that aggravate hay fever.

The council adjourned until Oct. 2, but there will be a special meeting on Aug. 14 to act on board of education matters requiring council approval.

YOUTHS HELD TO JURY IN THEFT.

Emil Conrad, 18 years old, 4852 Justine street, and Walter Fischer, 17, of 5610 South Damen avenue, were held to the grand jury by Municipal Judge Stephen Adamowski yesterday on charges of auto theft.

BOARD OF TEN NAMED TO HEAD PERMANENT FAIR

Incorporation Papers Are Received for Project.

Eight men and two women were named by Mayor Kelly yesterday as commissioners for the projected permanent Chicago fair on Northerly Island, and the appointments were unanimously approved by the city council.

As he submitted his list of appointments, Mayor Kelly told the council members that he had received from the Illinois secretary of state the certificate of incorporation of the Chicago exposition authority. He also submitted a letter from Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the Chicago park district, announcing that the district is ready to negotiate at once a lease for land in Burnham park for the fair.

Miss O'Neill's Term Temporary.

Those named as commissioners of the exposition authority, in the order of their terms of appointment, are:

MISS BESSIE C. O'NEILL, 5749 Midway Park, secretary to Mayor Kelly, appointed temporarily to a ten year term.

CHARLES S. PETERSON, a vice president and trustee of A Century of Progress and one of the foremost advocates of the permanent Chicago fair, to serve nine years.

WALTER L. GREGORY, manager of the Palmer house and president of the State Street council, to serv eight years.

MAX EPSTEIN, chairman of the board of the General American Tank Car corporation, 230 South Clark street, and a trustee of the University of Chicago, to serve seven years.

ROBERT S. ABBOTT, publisher of the Chicago Defender, newspaper for colored persons, to serve two years.

MRS. EDITH JOYCE, 1811 West 104th street, former member of the Ridge park board before the park board was absorbed into the Chicago park district, to serve one year.

Urges Organizing at Once.

Mayor Kelly said he would ask the fair commissioners to meet at once to choose a president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer from their own number, and to organize for their new duties.

One of the first acts of the new commissioners will be the leasing of 180 acres of land on Northerly Island for a term not to exceed 25 years. Efforts are now under way to obtain federal money for the erection of the necessary buildings.

Another important consideration yet to be settled is the employment of a manager for the proposed exposition.

DANCER SEIZED; GARB TOO SCANTY, CENSOR CHARGES

"Mlle." Renee Villon of Philadelphia, who does a peacock dance which she declares is pure art, ran afoul of the law yesterday when Sergt. L. S. White of the police censor's office disagreed with her as to what constitutes art.

Sergt. White visited the early show at the Oriental theater where Mlle. Villon did her dance in a costume consisting of one of those narrow things that fasten around the waist, some plumage designed to represent a peacock's tail, and an alluring smile.

The result was that Mlle. Villon and William S. Briscoe, acting manager of the theater, were booked on a charge of giving an indecent performance. They were both released on bond and will appar in the Women's court on Monday.

For the performances between now and that time Mlle. Villon first agreed to wear a net brassiere. She did so for one performance, then discarded it with the explanation that "nothing is going to interfere with my art."

Delivery of Hospital Coal Resumed; Contract Upheld

Deliveries of coal to the County hospital by the Silver Creek Coal company, which were suspended Wednesday pending the signing of a contract, were resumed yesterday by authority of County Commissioner Peter M. Kelly, chairman of the county board's hospital committee. Assistant State's Attorney William J. Touhy advised Kelly that the contract is valid and may be signed at once. Kelly answered complaints that coal being delivered is not up to contract specifications by saying that the price will be scaled down in the proportion by which the delivered coal is lacking in the heat content required by the contract.

ALL CITY LEGAL AFFAIRS MERGED IN HODES' OFFICE

Council Acts to End Overlapping.

On the recommendation of Barnett Hodes, the new corporation counsel, the city council yesterday adopted an ordinance which establishes his office at the head of the city's legal forces. It will become effective when Mayor Kelly signs it.

The ordinance consolidates the functions of the law department into one coördinated branch of city affairs, and eliminates separate divisions existing at present. It repeals older ordinances which set up the offices of city attorney, of city prosecutor, and of attorney for the board of local improvements. When the new ordinance takes effect the functions of the eliminated offices will be performed by the corporation counsel and members of his staf.

Officials to Be Named to Staf.

At present A. M. Smietanka is city attorney, Michael L. Rosinia is city prosecutor, and Arthur A. Sullivan is attorney for the board of local improvements.

These men, according to Hodes, will become assistant corporation counsels, as is provided in the cities and villages act, and will handle whatever duties are assigned to them. The state law never empowered the city to set up the special offices now being abolished, Mr. Hodes explained.

Mr. Hodes, who framed the new ordinance, said that it embodies provisions of the statutes setting up the corporation counsel as the head of all law activities for the city.

Greater Efficiency Predicted.

Various benefits were predicted by Hodes as a result of the new ordinance. It will, he said, fix and centralize responsibility for the conduct of the city's legal business. It is expected to improve administrative efficiency, and to eliminate overlapping and duplication of legal services.

"As corporation counsel," he said, "it is my conviction that the suggested reorganization is a vital step toward strengthening our municipal corporation."

CHILD 3 MONTHS OLD UNDERGOES SURGERY IN BATTLE FOR LIFE

A delicate operation performed yesterday in the Presbyterian hospital on a 3 month old baby, Robert Lawrence Moore Jr. of 1613 North Lamon avenue, is expected to save his life. The operation, which was for diaphragmatic hernia, is the third of its kind in medical records on a child so young, according to hospital attendants.

Six weeks after his birth the child had difficulty in breathing and in taking food. An X-ray photograph was taken at the hospital ten days ago and disclosed that his intestines and heart had been displaced and that the left lung had collapsed.

The surgeons said Robert has "at least a fair chance of recovery."

State to Get U. S. Funds for Public Health Survey

Illinois will receive $425,000 of federal funds for a public health survey, it was announced yesterday by Ralph Burke, deputy state administrator of the federal works progress administration. Under the plan a house to house canvass will obtain records of chronic diseases and illnesses of long duration.

ROB PAINT STORE OF $400.

Three armed men invaded the paint store of Israel Markowitz, 60 years old, at 3538 Lawrence avenue, forced Markowitz and a clerk to lie on the floor, and escaped with $400 from the cash register yesterday.

GRANT SWEITZER AN EXTENSION IN BATTLE FOR JOB

Circuit Judge George Fred Rush yesterday extended until Aug. 20 the deadline for the filing by Robert M. Sweitzer, ousted county treasurer, of his replication to the county's plea of justification for his removal from office. Sweitzer is seeking to regain the office through a quo waranto proceeding against his successor, Joseph L. Gill.

Two weeks ago Circuit Judge Joseph Burke overruled Sweitzer's demurrer to the county's plea, upholding the contention of the county board that it was legally justified in ousting Sweitzer when he failed to turn over $414,129, the shortage shown by an audit of his accounts for the 24 years he was county clerk. Sweitzer was elected treasurer last December.

The replication will be an answer to the county's plea, setting up facts in Sweitzer's defense as distinguished from law in the demurrer. If the replication is filed a trial date for the case will probably be set on Aug. 20. I. Harvey Levinson, attorney for Sweitzer, explained that he has the alternative of standing on the demurrer and appealing the case on the legal issues involved.

HOUSE REJECTS RADICAL PLANS TO TAX THRIFTY

tives as not even attempting to balance the budget.

As if sensing the fact that the tax bill is virtually the last big measure upon which they may practice their oratorical talents at this session, many members fought for a precious few minutes out of the six hours allotted under the rule of general debate.

The fortunate ones made the most of their opportunities. There was a continual procession of bellowing speech makers. The word went out that the house was putting on one of its best shows and the galleries filled quickly. Not so the floor where only those scheduled to speak awaited their turn impatiently. The majority stayed away.

One of the high points of the debate involved the spiritual whereabouts of Theodore Roosevelt. This finally was settled along strictly partisan lines.

"T. R. Went to Heaven."

"Theodore Roosevelt advocated redistribution of the wealth," roared Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.], chairman of the ways and means committee. "And then he went to heaven."

"Not until after they read him out of the Republican party," retorted Doughton.

The Doughton act sparkled with similar witticisms. The tall mountaineer was very indignant about the "soak the rich," "tax the thrifty," and other labels attached to the bill and he triumphantly quoted Senator William E. Borah, "mentioned as a Republican nominee for President," as saying that the measure was sound and timely.

Defense Is Apologetic.

"It's true," he admitted, "that we don't get much money out of it."

"Will you tell us if the object of the bill is to raise revenue, tax mass production or redistribute wealth?" inquired a Republican member.

"It would take too long to answer that question," grinned Hill.

While the bill was ridiculed from the Republican side as a political gesture, a Democratic liberal claque badgered the leaders with questions concerning why the committee had not obeyed all the President's commands.

"Well, the committee just didn't want to go that far," declared Hill.

Talk of balancing the budget was nonsensical at this time, Hill asserted. Nobody wanted to balance the budget, he declared.

"We Republicans want to balance the budget," asserted Allen T. Treadway [Rep., Mass.]. He launched into a denunciation of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau in which he was joined by Representative Thomas A. Jenkins [Rep., Ohio.]

"At a senate hearing yesterday," remarked Treadway, "Morgenthau was asked to analyze the bill. He either was ashamed to or couldn't. I believe the latter. I never saw the gentleman analyze anything. He doesn't have any views on anything because he has none he can express."

"The secretary of the treasury has shown on many occasions," chimed in Jenkins, "that he knows nothing whatever about his job."

He added that he sympathized with the committee because it was on the defensive.

Saving Roosevelt's Chestnuts.

"If this bill is so good why did nobody even suggest such a thing until June 19, when the President sent his message?" he asked. "Either this bill is unnecessary or the house has been derelict in its duty in not drafting it months ago."

Representative Roy Woodruff, author of the minority opinion on the bill, repeated his assertion that the house committee had "merely been delegated to pull the President's political chestnuts out of the fire."

"This bill is a gigantic hoax," declaimed Representative Hamilton Fish [Rep., N. Y.]. "It is designed to bamboozle the people back home into thinking that wealth was to be distributed. It is unadulterated socialism. The President caught Huey Long and his share-the-wealth followers in bathing and walked away with their clothes, leaving them naked and defenseless.

Ten Billions Exempt.

"No one can sympathize with the crocodile tears emanating from the White House regarding the evasion of income taxes through tax exempt securities when the administration has been the main stumbling block to every sincere effort to abolish them. In two years, the New Deal has issued ten billion dollars' worth of a total of approximately 15 billions of totally tax exempt federal securities."

Fish said he knew of only two of his constituents who might qualify in the million dollar income class—Vincent Astor, the President's yachting companion, and Averill Harriman, until recently assistant director of the NRA.

"This tax bill is a farce," he ended. "The house ought to cut it to ribbons and rewrite it. However, it won't and it will jam this bill through. The senate will take a month to rewrite it so that even its authors and parents in the house won't be able to recognize it."

Tells Flaws in Schemes.

Pointing out flaws in the soak-the-thrifty ideas of many congressmen, Representative James W. Wadsworth [Rep., N. Y.] said:

"Supposing we split up the income over $5,000 of all persons and divided it among those receiving less than $5,000. The monthly income of the recipients would be increased by only $2.30 a month. If we did the same thing with the income of all receiving over $1,000 a month, the increase would be $5.80 a month."

UTILITY CONTROL BILL COMPROMISE NEW DEAL HOPE

Prefer Any Measure to None This Session.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Administration leaders today indicated willingness to accept a compromise on the Wheeler-Rayburn utility control bill rather than no bill at all.

President Roosevelt said he hoped that some form of the bill will be passed before adjournment. Senator Burton K. Wheeler, radical Democrat from Montana, intimated that he would agree to the house ban on Ben Cohen, administration lobbyist, without whom, he previously has confessed, he cannot "intelligently discuss" the bill.

Early Meeting Planned.

Representative George Huddleston [Dem., Ala.] said the house conferees would be ready to meet the senate conferees early next week if Cohen is absent and he expressed a hope, but not a prediction, that a compromise measure may be agreed upon.

"I won't say the house won't yield somewhat on the 'death sentence' provision in the bill," he remarked. "But we certainly won't accept the senate section. It is just plain crazy."

The senate section provides for outright elimination of all holding companies beyond the first degree. The house makes abolition of holding companies discretionary with the securities exchange commission.

Regulation Expected.

The probable compromise will be the drafting of a section providing for the abolition of all holding companies beyond the second or third degrees and discretionary power to regulate holding companies of the first degree.

Those close to the President asserted he would not veto any utility control bill, no matter what provisions it contained. He was said not to be so anxious for the "death sentence" as he has been represented to be by the bill's proponents.

In face of the house's emphatic vote of yesterday against the "death sentence," sponsors of the bill virtually have given up hope of including the "death sentence" in the bill.

BOY, 4, LEARNS WORLD'S BIGGER THAN HE KNEW

Bobby Riggs, 4 years old, 1182 South Clinton avenue, Oak Park, yesterday caused his family six hours of anxiety and the police department no little effort when he made an ambitious but vain attempt to "visit grandma."

Bobby left his home about 11 a. m. with no more equipment than a toy train, and no more plans than the vague impression that the elevated train would take him to grandma's house.

About 1:30 p. m. Bobby was wandering about in front of the La Salle street railroad station. A policeman turned him over to the Travelers' Aid, then to the Chicago Orphan asylum. After some hours of vain attempts to learn the boy's identity, the asylum authorities called the missing persons bureau of the police department.

Sergt. Joseph Starshak was just preparing to send out, at the instigation of Bobby's mother, a teletype message to all stations to search for him. L. R. Riggs, the boy's father, identified his son at the asylum.

Miss Collier said she was responsible for getting the contract for Cabot to appear in films.

URGE RELIEF STAF JOBS BE OPENED TO WEDDED FOLK

Social Workers Oppose Commission Ban.

Social workers headed by Prof. Wayne McMillen of the school of sociology at the University of Chicago lodged a protest yesterday over alleged discrimination against marriage in the allotment of jobs by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. Prof. McMillen and his group made their complaint at a meeting of the commission.

The IERC, under the critical fire of the recent session of the Illinois general assembly, issued an order that no two persons living in the same domicile could be employed in an administrative capacity by the relief commission.

Urges Ability as Yardstick.

Speaking of studies of government employés under President Hoover, Prof. McMillen told the commission that it was bad business to distribute jobs for any other reason than qualification.

"The government is the biggest employer in the country," McMillen said, "and the employés don't compare in caliber with the people in private industry. We want to see the quality of government workers improved to the standard in England, where the people enter the service because of their interest in it."

Investigation Promised.

John Martin, chairman of the commission, said that the order in question had been sent out because of legislative criticism and the matter would be investigated. The commission could take no action because there was no quorum present.

Leo M. Lyons, Cook county relief administrator, announced that family relief services being financed in the county by the IERC will be consolidated Monday under the Cook county bureau of public welfare. Lyons said that as the new federal works progress administration provides jobs in the future, relief cases and administrative personnel will be reduced accordingly.

FINED FOR RELIEF FUSS; ARRESTED ON FRAUD CHARGE

Joseph Ippolito, 45 years old, 1132 Townsend street, who had $300 in his pockets when he was arrested July 25 for creating a disturbance in the relief station at 54 West Chicago avenue, was fined $200 yesterday on a a disorderly conduct charge by Municipal Judge Holland.

He was arrested immediately on a second charge, that of defrauding the Illinois Emergency Relief commission by applying for relief while he still had funds, and his bond was set at $600.

Testimony was given at the hearing that Ippolito had been discharged as a conductor for the Chicago Surface lines in April, 1933, for allegedly defrauding other employés of $1,275. He did this by getting fellow employés to act as co-signers on his notes and then defaulting, it was testified. Ippolito denied this, producing receipts that showed, he said, that he had repaid $750 of the money he had borrowed.

New Dealers Swell List at Swift Pace.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—New Deal burocracy has swelled the federal pay roll to its greatest peace time strength. This was disclosed today in a report of the civil service commission on federal employment for the month of June which closed the second Roosevelt fiscal year.

For June federal pay rollers totaled 717,712. Of these 103,453 are in Washington and 614,259 are outside the District of Columbia. They draw approximately $109,300,000 of taxpayers' money monthly. The figures are exclusive of the army, navy, judicial, and legislative force.

CCC Men Not Included.

The civil service commission also does not include the 400,000 men enrolled in the civil conservation corps and 31,203 persons temporarily engaged in agricultural activities at a monthly salary of $1,219,000. These are not included because the CCC and agricultural workers are considered to be receiving relief.

At its present rate of rewarding deserving Democrats with jobs the New Deal administration promises to pass shortly the all-time high of federal employment set during the war. On Nov. 11, 1918, the first armistice day, there were 917,760 persons drawing money on federal rolls. Of these 117,760 were in Washington and 800,000 were outside the capital.

Jobs for Its Followers.

In two years the New Deal has created 154,225 jobs for its followers. When President Roosevelt was inaugurated March 4, 1933, there were 563,487 federal pay rollers, 66,802 in Washington and 496,685 outside the district. The increase to date is 27 per cent.

Of the 154,225 new employés, 36,651 are in Washington and 117,574 have posts throughout the country. The bulk of the additional jobs is due to the mushroom growth of brain trust alphabetical units.

The 36,651 new jobs in Washington are almost as many as were needed to operate the capital end of the government in 1916. In that year there were 39,442 workers on the federal pay roll in the city. In the first decade of the century there were fewer than 30,000 workers in Washington.

Democrats Are Added.

While the bulk of the growth in Washington has been in New Deal units, the ten regular departments added about 17,000 Democrats. Outside the District of Columbia the ten regular departments have added about 53,000 of the party faithful.

Only three departments reflected the economy pledge in the Democratic platform and in President Roosevelt's campaign speeches. These are the postoffice, justice, and state departments.

The postoffice department has had the greatest drop. At the beginning of the New Deal the total force was 272,550 and at the close of the fiscal year, June 30, the number dropped by about 14,000 to 258,783. The decrease principally represents consolidation of rural routes, according to the department.

Decrease Due to Repeal.

The department of justice dropped from 9,022 to 7,310 employés. The decrease was due to repeal, the department losing its huge prohibition enforcement staf. The state department had a modest decrease of less than 200 employés.

At the beginning of June it was thought that the New Deal would have its first pay roll drop as the Supreme court put the 4,010 NRA, the 133 Federal Alcohol Control administration, and the 24 railroad retirement board employés out of jobs. But the dropping was slow. The NRA cut only 340, the FACA 21, and the railroad retirement board was swept clean of its 24.

And the New Deal hurried to find places for those dropped.

PLEADS GUILTY TO KIDNAPING RICH ONTARIO BREWER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 2.—Michael McCardell, who recently was arrested at Crown Point, Ind., today pleaded guilty to charges of participating in the kidnaping of John S. Labatt, rich brewer. The defendant will be sentenced on Aug. 16. On that day Jack Bannon of Detroit will be asked to plead. Bannon was arrested several days ago as a suspect in the kidnaping.

McCardell, who was arrested in Crown Point on a hijacking charge, was brought to this city last night. The prisoner suffered a broken arm in a scuffle with a newspaper photographer who snapped his picture. It was reported the prisoner was the "brains" of the kidnap gang and wrote the $150,000 ransom notes. He is a native of Huron county, Ontario. Kingdom "Piccolo Pete" Murray of Covington, Ky., also is being held here in connection with the kidnaping. David Meisner, former Cincinnati gambler, was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary in February on the abduction charge.

Roosevelt Relative by Marriage Loses.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Katherine McNider Drier, a relative by marriage of President Roosevelt, was disclosed today to have been denied the right to sue the German government for $600,000.

The denial came in a decision by Justice Owen J. Roberts, umpire of the German-American mixed claims commission.

Roberts held that, in view of previous commission awards of $298,000 to Mrs. Drier for seizure of her property near Dresden by the German government after the United States entered the world war, the case could not be reopened.

With this decision the claims commission disposed of the last cases before it growing out of war and post-war claims by the United States and American citizens. However, 189 alleged sabotage cases are still pending.

Sabotage Cases Pending.

Final disposition of the sabotage cases hinges on the mixed claims commission's final award in the Black Tom and Kingsland explosion cases. Attorneys for both governments are still preparing evidence in those cases, but no date has been set for the next meeting of the commission.

During the thirteen years of its existence the mixed claims commission has handled 20,400 cases growing out of world war claims and has made awards to American claimants in 6,841 cases totaling 274 million dollars, of which 138 million has already been paid.

Mrs. Drier, then Miss McNider of Montpelier, Vt., went to Dresden nearly forty years ago to study music and while there, in 1889, married Baron George von Rosenberg.

Leave When War Begins.

The baron died in 1911 and bequeathed to his widow Bonnewitz castle at Pirna, Saxony, near Dresden.

In 1913 the baroness married John C. L. Drier, then in the American consular service in Dresden, and when the war began they were forced to leave their home and come to the United States.

The German government took possession of the property, treated it as belonging to an enemy alien, and it was finally sold by an administrator for 570,000 paper marks, then valued at $15,000.

$100,000 ST. LOUIS BLAZE DESTROYS ODEON THEATER

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Fire early today destroyed the Odeon theater, which for many years was the scene of the St. Louis Symphony orchestra concerts.

When the fire was discovered this morning the interior of the theater was entirely ablaze and flames were shooting from windows and through the roof.

Police said there was a show rehearsal in the theater last night and that the fire may have started from a dropped cigaret. A janitor in a part of the building used for offices said he heard an explosion shortly before discovery of the blaze.

The theater, which had a seating capacity of about 3,000, had been used in recent months for motion pictures and vaudeville programs. Fire Chief John J. O'Boyle said he was unable at the time to place an estimate on the damage, but other sources estimated it at $100,000.

AVERS NEW DEAL BETRAYS TRUST; HITS ROOSEVELT

Rep. Halleck in Thrust at Administration.

Lake Wawasee, Ind., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Acquiescence in every proposal of President Roosevelt "has ceased to be a virtue," Representative Charles A. Halleck, lone Republican congressman from Indiana and one of the youngest members of the house of representatives, told the Indiana Republican Editorial association here tonight.

"It is time to call a spade a spade and to put the blame for halting recovery right where it belongs," Representative Halleck declared in the course of a biting arraignment of the President and his "brain trust" administration.

Democrats Are Chagrined.

Calling upon the press of the country to continue its efforts to preserve American liberty and independence, Mr. Halleck, directing his attack at the President, asserted he had embraced the Socialist platform, has betrayed the confidence of the American people and has violated his oath of office by "insisting that congress enact legislation without regard to doubts as to its constitutionality, however reasonable."

Real Democrats are chagrined over the "bare-faced" breach of promise of the New Deal head to keep faith with the Democratic party's platform upon which Mr. Roosevelt was elected, Halleck said. He commended Democrats who have revolted against the New Deal leadership. They are men, he said, "who have put their country above their party."

"Is it any wonder that young Democrats all over the country are revolting and leaving their party?" Congressman Halleck said. "They shudder at the taxes they will be required to pay in the years to come as a result of this reckless and unnecessary spending of federal money. They want jobs, not doles. They will not follow a leader who pursues a course which is absolutely destroying their opportunity to ever have a job except on the government pay roll."

Dreamers Due for Jolt.

Responsibility for the fact that there are more people unemployed and on the relief rolls today than ever before, must, he asserted, be placed squarely upon the President. To add to the country's confusion and the deliberate attempt, he charged, is being made to prevent recovery, the speaker assailed the Roosevelt tax pregram which, he said, was designed by the President to "try to steal Huey Long's thunder." He described the tax bill as a "face saving" device.

"What a jolt some of our dreamers are going to get when they wake up and find out that Santa Claus is just a myth," Mr. Halleck said to the editors. "To soak the rich will hardly raise enough each year to provide the spending money for the youth of the land which the President is going to give them. Mr. Average Citizen is going to take it on the chin before we get all these bills paid."

WPA TO ESTABLISH OTTAWA OFFICE TO SPEND EASY MONEY

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Establishment of an area office at Ottawa to direct WPA activities in southern counties of Illinois district number one of the Works Progress administration will be the next administrative step in the drive for work projects in La Salle and neighboring counties.

Meanwhile, David Trunck, field engineer from the Rockford office, is in La Salle county on special assignment to help local officials in promoting WPA jobs. Four La Salle county projects were the first in the entire northern Illinois district to receive final sanction from President Roosevelt.

They are: La Salle county highway improvements, calling for $2,500 federal and $690 in local funds; city of Mendota sidewalk improvements, $10,020 federal and $4,684 local; city of Mendota waterworks survey and improvements, $2,880 federal and $3,506 local; city of Streator sidewalk improvements, $29,119 federal and $8,784 local.

RISE TO DEFENSE OF CONSTITUTION IN WARRENVILLE

Citizens Form Club; Hear New Deal Assailed.

BY PERCY WOOD.

"Just as the ten commandments of God often have been broken by people throughout the ages, so have most of the ten commandments in the bill of rights been broken by the New Dealers in Washington," Attorney Charles W. Hadley, former chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, declared in a speech at Warrenville, Du Page county, last night. He spoke before the first meeting of the Warrenville Constitution club, an organization which plans to form a compact county group which will line up 100 per cent behind the constitution.

Plan to Distribute Literature.

When this organization and its affiliated groups get under way, they propose to obtain and distribute all of the literature in support of the constitution they are able to get.

Attorney Hadley was a concise and earnest keynoter for the Warrenville group.

"It has been said," he declared, "that the denial to a people of their constitutional rights is always followed by a disregarding of the ten commandments of God.

"In what way has the so-called New Deal broken those commandments? What about the action of the United States government in the gold clause repudiation? Why does the administration seek the passage of a law denying, to those who have suffered loss through this unconstitutional procedure, the right to seek redress?

"Is it not an admission by the administration that it has broken the commandments of the bill of rights, which says that 'e government must not deprive the people of their property without due process?

Recalls Decision on NRA.

"The adequacy of the constitution has been challenged by the President himself, who, after the Supreme court decision in the NRA case, explained to the American people that the constitution belonged to the horse and buggy age.

"We who believe in the constitution accept that challenge. For all time will we drive from America's skies the Blue Eagle and its kind, harbingers of dictators."

The ten commandments in the bill of rights which the New Deal has been so thoughtless of are, Mr. Hadley said, as follows:

"1. Thou shalt not abridge freedom of the press or speech."

"2. Thou shalt not disarm the people."

"3. Thou shalt not forcibly quarter soldiers on the people."

"4. Thou shalt not be guilty of unwarranted search or seizure."

"5. Thou shalt not steal, that is, deprive the people of their property without due process of law."

"7. Thou shalt not deprive the people of trial by jury."

Essential to Liberty, He Warns.

"9. Thou shalt not deny or disparage any rights retained by the people."

"10. Thou shalt not seize or encroach upon any powers not expressly given up by the people or by the states."

"It is as essential to our freedom," Mr. Hadley said, "that the United States government keep these ten commandments as it is necessary that the followers of God observe the ten commandments of the Almighty.

"Is it not significant that the most voluble of those who most viciously attack our constitution belong to that Russianized group of radicals who declare that God and His commandments are outmoded? If there is nothing sacred about the constitution there is nothing sacred about freedom."

PRESS FREEDOM DECLARED RIGHT OF PUBLIC, TOO

Angleton, Tex., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Freedom of the press was presented as a privilege of the public as well as of newspapers in defense arguments today at the hearing of six Houston newspaper men cited for contempt of court in a murder trial.

"It should not be restricted by the judiciary or any law making body," said John H. Crooker, attorney for the Houston Press.

At issue was the violation of an order by District Judge M. S. Munson against publication of testimony in the trial of Clyde Thompson, retrieve prison farm convict, on a charge of slaying Everett Melvin, a fellow prisoner. Thompson was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment last week.

Judge Munson said printing of the proceedings would make it difficult to obtain juries in the subsequent trials of Convicts Raymond Hall and Ed Ebers, also accused in the killing.

Frank Liddell, representing the Houston Post and Chronicle, said "The citizens of the state have a right to know what goes on behind those walls" at the prison farm.

"Any curtailment of the freedom of the press in this case," he said, "might be an entering wedge which might in time bring us back to the old star chamber proceedings."

A ruling was set for 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Safe Cracking Releases Tear Gas, Routing Bandits

Tear gas, released when they attempted to crack a safe, routed three burglars early today from the Union Linen Supply company, 4131 Ravenswood avenue. The trio broke in a side window, overpowered William Summers, 39 years old, the night watchman, and began work on the safe. But as they knocked off the combination with sledge hammers the gas bomb was released.

78 MILLION PAID ON STATE SALES TAX IN 2 YEARS

$5,000,000 Gain in the Second Period.

Illinois collected $78,515,084 from retailers during the two years' operation of the 2 per cent sales tax, State Director of Finance K. L. Ames Jr. announced yesterday.

From Aug. 1, 1933, to Aug. 1, 1934, the collections totaled $36,630,331.67. The next twelve months brought $41,884,752.89. Directors Ames attributed this $5,000,000 increase to two factors: better business and more efficient methods of collection.

About 140,000 retailers are now paying the tax, roughly 10,000 more than were paying it a year ago.

Collections for Two Years.

1933-'34.
August	$ 2,211,133
September	2,078,377
October	3,044,046
November	3,022,386
December	2,985,184
January	3,522,989
February	2,820,445
March	2,742,470
April	3,142,722
May	3,208,638
June	3,332,207
July	3,549,727
Total, 1933-'34	$36,630,331
1934-'35.
August	$ 3,176,960
September	3,223,909
October	3,347,902
November	3,330,663
December	3,210,172
January	3,945,378
February	3,173,080
March	3,164,041
April	3,531,251
May	4,070,026
June	3,675,838
July	4,034,047
Grand total	$78,515,084

The sales tax was increased to 3 per cent, effective last July 1, but merchants have until Aug. 15 to file returns for July. Thus no records of the returns from the higher tax are now available. The figures shown in the table for July, 1935, include the taxes on sales made in June.

On the basis of the returns from the 2 per cent tax during its second year the new 3 per cent tax would yield the state $62,827,128.

Explains High May Figure.

Director Ames called attention to the May, 1935, figure, explaining that it was high because of the $421,000 lump payment by coal dealers who withheld payment of the tax until ordered to do so by the Illinois Supreme court.

Because some comparisons were drawn by members of the legislature between the number of registered retailers in Ohio with those in Illinois—Ohio has about 20,000 more—Mr. Ames explained that Ohio requires returns from each unit of a chain store system, whereas in Illinois one return is made by the company for all its stores. Ohio has about 600 employés in its sales tax department, while Illinois has 350. Ohio taxes services such as shoe repairing and the development of photographic films; Illinois does not.

SUE TO COMPEL TAX COLLECTING UNDER NEW LAW

A petition for a writ of mandamus to compel County Judge Jarecki and County Treasurer Gill to put into operation a recent act of the legislature providing for payment of back taxes in instalments and the waiving of penalties was filed in the Circuit court yesterday on behalf of two taxpayers.

The new law, known as house bill 783, would permit property owners who have paid their 1933 taxes to pay their delinquent taxes for previous years in seven annual instalments. They would be charged 6 per cent a year interest and penalties for the back taxes would be waived.

Judge Jarecki has declared that he believes the law unconstitutional because it would allow the treasurer to enter into agreements on the back taxes and would be beyond the scope of that office's administrative powers. Hayden N. Bell, county attorney, also has advised Judge Jarecki that he regards the law as invalid.

The petition yesterday was filed on behalf of Mrs. Louise T. Clark and Irene T. Bruns, owners of a building at 1125 Throop street. They owe $399 in taxes for the years 1930, 1931, and 1932, and the accrued penalties amount to $100. The case will be heard before Judge Harry M. Fisher early next week.

STATE SALES TAX QUIZ DIGS DEEP IN STORES' BUSINESS

Merchants Are Queried Under New Law.

Applications for certificates of registration under the 3 per cent state sales tax law were received by many Illinois merchants yesterday. Under the terms of senate bill 535, introduced "by request" by State Senator H. S. Burgess [Dem., Fairfield] and passed late in the recent session of the legislature, all retailers must obtain certificates of registration or be considered unlawfully in business and subject to fines and imprisonment.

The law fixed July 31 as the deadline for obtaining registration certificates but the applications were placed in the mails only two days ago.

By the terms of the law applicants must state their names, addresses, and places of business and whether they operate any other places of business in which they engage in the business of selling tangible personal property at retail.

Other Facts Demanded.

The application blanks, however, demand more information than answers to these three questions. They inquire whether all taxes and assessments "which are due as required under the [sales tax] act" have been paid.

Other questions demand the value of stock in corporations, the average monthly gross sales at retail, number of employés, monthly rental, date the business was begun under its present title and ownership, number of square feet of floor space it occupies, and similar facts.

Armed with this information the state finance department intends to act against any "chiselers" who may have evaded payment of the original 2 per cent sales tax, which was raised to 3 per cent for relief purposes by the recent session of the legislature.

May Revoke Permits.

According to the terms of the Burgess bill the department may, after a hearing, revoke the registration certificate of a retailer who violates any of the provisions of the act. The accused person must be given notice at least 20 days prior to the date of the hearing of the charge against him.

At the hearing the director of finance may summon witnesses, administer oaths, and procure by subpena "the attendance of witnesses and the production of relevant books and papers."

Failure to comply with the registration provision is punishable, upon conviction in the Circuit court, by a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $500 and imprisonment in the county jail for not more than six months.

REVEALS NAMES OF GRASS ROOTS CAMPAIGN HEADS

Spangler Tells Aims of Chicago Parley.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The personnel of the Republican Grass Roots committee from ten central west states which is to meet Monday and Tuesday at the Edgewater Beach hotel to organize its campaign against the New Deal was announced last night by Harrison E. Spangler, Iowa national committeeman, at Cedar Rapids, Ia.

The committee, which was created by the June Grass Roots conference at Springfield, is composed of five members from each of the ten states. As reported by Mr. Spangler, 42 members have now been appointed, and the remaining names are expected by the time the meetings start.

Names of Committeemen Listed.

ILLINOIS—Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, Philip W. Collins, C. J. Doyle, Edward A. Hayes, James H. Douglas Jr.

INDIANA—Will G. Irwin, Felix McWhirter, W. L. Hutcheson, George A. Ball.

KANSAS—John Hamilton.

MINNESOTA—Harry E. Rasmussen, Mrs. G. R. Walters, Mrs. C. Montague Irwin, Thomas M. McCabe, Word F. Senn.

MISSOURI—Arthur M. Curtis, Grover W. Dalton.

NEBRASKA—Sam R. McKelvie, Clinton Brome, Lyle Jackson, Margaret Melville, Lloyd Kain.

OKLAHOMA — Fred Coogan, Raymond Fields, Mrs. Alethea Conner, L. L. Roberts, Myron Humphreys.

SOUTH DAKOTA—M. Plin Beebe, Harvey Fleming, Mrs. E. R. Doering, Harry Atwater, W. C. Allen.

WISCONSIN—Arthur B. Fontaine, Mrs. Harry E. Thomas, J. Charles Pile, Arthur E. Schmidt, Roland J. Steinle.

Mr. Spangler, who is chairman of the group, declares that the meetings will be devoid of any discussions of candidacies, and that the object is to evolve a plan of organization to carry on the Grass Roots movement vigorously.

Precinct Battles Contemplated.

The intention is to extend it into every precinct in the ten states and to organize by congressional districts and counties on the basic issue of "Stand by the Constitution."

"Undoubtedly," said Mr. Spangler, "the New Deal's efforts to wreck the constitution will be considered along with ways and means of forestalling the New Deal attack upon America's form of government and its free institutions.

"We cannot ignore the New Deal's waste in government, its failure to balance the budget, its failure to reduce burocrat employés, or its efforts to put the government into business. These are issues the people themselves are formulating for the coming campaign."

POLICE BATTLE 100 N. Y. REDS IN CITY HALL PLAZA

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Police fought communists in the city hall plaza at noon today following an earlier attempt on the part of three ringleaders of a so-called workers' delegation to force their way through a police cordon to present their grievances to Mayor La Guardia as he arrived at the hall.

There was a savage mêlée for a few minutes when the ringleaders, having presented their case to the mayor in his office, went outside to their hundred or more followers in the plaza and attempted to hold an indignation meeting.

Mrs. Sarah Santer, 50, went down in the mêlée. A youth in a yellow polo shirt, apparently to aid the usual communist cry that women were being beaten, held her on the pavement. A policeman's foot, size 11, pushed him out of the picture.

The mêlée followed a warm meeting in the mayor's office at which the communists concluded their interview with the mayor with an "O, nuts!"

The mayor responded smartly with another: "O, nuts yourself!" And "if you continue that sort of stuff I'll throw you out the window!"

MRS. BLACKLIDGE ASKS BANKRUPT PLEA REHEARING

Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, former collector of internal revenue in Chicago, who has been ordered to pay $7,500 for stealing the affections of Policeman Norman Nottingham from Mrs. Susanne Nottingham, appeared certain of at least ten more days of freedom yesterday as her attorneys petitioned for a rehearing of her plea that, as a bankrupt, she cannot pay the judgment and should not go to jail. Attorney Herbert M. Wetzel filed a petition for a rehearing of Mrs. Blacklidge's case yesterday with the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Attorneys for Mrs. Nottingham have ten days in which to answer. It is probable that the hearing will not be held until October.

ROOSEVELT TOLD VOLSTEAD ACT IS STILL A STATUTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today expressed himself astonished when he learned that the Volstead act was still a federal statute.

At his press conference the President was told that Representative Hatton W. Sumners [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the house judiciary committee, had announced that the act was still a law of the land. Sumners has before his committee a bill to repeal the act.

"Is it?" the President asked, raising his eyebrows and throwing back his head in laughter. Asked whether he would place the repeal measure in the class of "must" legislation, the President said that he was for anything that Sumners would want.

Discusses Works Program.

The President devoted most of the conference to the discussion of his works relief program, asserting that there will be a decided pickup of employment under the 4 billion dollar fund during September and October.

He said the goal was still to reach the peak by Nov. 1, although the seasonal unemployment trend might show a greater number of persons actually at work in December, January, and February, the months which find the employment cycle at its lowest ebb. There has been no change in the Nov. 1 objective, however, he added.

The President was asked whether he hoped that his program will take all employables off the relief rolls. He said the question was hard to answer in one didactic sentence, because a certain number of employables in every state will probably continue on relief.

95 Per Cent His Goal.

These, he asserted, will be only a small part of the total of employables. If his program can put 90 to 95 per cent of the employables to work it will achieve its object, he said.

The President announced that he will leave the White House tomorrow afternoon for his week-end fishing trip. He will motor to Rappahannock, Va., where he will board his yacht Sequoia. He will return Sunday evening.

CONFESSES HOLDUP SLAYING.

Joseph Tharms, colored, 47 years old, was shot to death, yesterday by a robber he resisted at 50th street and South Parkway. Later Nathaniel Akins, colored, 44 years old, 4553 South Michigan avenue, was arrested and confessed the shooting.

MOSCOW TO KEEP HANDS OFF RED ACTIVITY ABROAD

Noninterference Policy Is Voted at Convention.

MOSCOW, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Delegates to the seventh communist internationale solemnly moved today to refrain from participation in domestic activities of national communist parties.

Instead of interfering in the programs of individual parties, the executive committee henceforth must concentrate on matters affecting the international workers' movements in a broad sense, the congress decided.

Seek to Remove Suspicion.

The delegates adopted a resolution intended to remove suspicions that Moscow is actively directing communist movements in other lands, advising "arbitrary transfer of experience from one country to another" should be avoided.

Foreign observers here said the enunciation of the noninterference principle was of major importance, and of special significance in the light of the expected assembly next week when the congress will formulate its program of action.

Urged to Organize Strike.

Some apprehension had been aroused over a possible policy of interference, as a result of a recent speech by Sam Darcy of San Francisco, American delegate, who suggested the communist internationale organize international support for striking longshoremen in the United States.

The congress ordered removal of bans within the party to a rapprochement with Social Democratic workers and approved an appeal to the second, or Ambersterdam, internationale to join the movement.

Couzens Reported Gaining After He Has Operation

Rochester, Minn., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Senator James Couzens of Michigan was reported "convalescing satisfactorily" tonight at a local hospital. Couzens underwent a minor operation yesterday. This followed a major operation several weeks ago.

MEXICO'S PRESIDENT STARTS NATION-WIDE DRIVE AGAINST LIQUOR

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Comment in the capital was aroused today over a call by President Lazaro Cardenas for a nation-wide campaign against alcohol, while elsewhere Mexico's turbulent political sectors were quiet.

Expressions of sentiment for and against the proposed campaign followed publication of a dispatch reporting the president, in an address before feminist organizations in the state of Michoacan, had said that, "if necessary," laws prohibiting the manufacture and sale of liquor would be put into effect.

The president, long an opponent of "the vice of alcohol," recently increased taxes to curtail the consumption of alcoholic drinks. He is touring the nation to study agrarian problems, the root of many recent demonstrations against prominent political figures. In many states the agrarian population is awaiting federal investigations of their charges against the administrations of state officials.

OPEN SWIFTEST AIR ROUTE TODAY TO KANSAS CITY

T. E. Braniff, president of Braniff Airways, arrived in Chicago yesterday en route to his home at Oklahoma City. Mr. Braniff announced that his airline today is inaugurating two new schedules to provide Chicagoans with the swiftest transportation ever offered to Kansas City and the southwest. With new Lockheed Electras, twin motored airliners capable of a speed of 220 miles an hour, the company will fly three daily round trips between Chicago and Kansas City, on a two hour and forty minute schedule, Mr. Braniff said. Also the elapsed time on the two daily round trips between Chicago and Brownsville, Tex., via Corpus Christi, Oklahoma City and Wichita, has been cut from 13 hours to 11 hours and 15 minutes, he said.

NO ACTION TAKEN BY PRESIDENT ON "WHISPER" DRIVE

Apparently Changes Mind Over Night.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today dismissed the "whispering campaign" revelation before the senate lobby committee yesterday with the statement that he was probably the least surprised man in the country at the testimony.

The President referred to the testimony of E. P. Cramer, a New Jersey advertising man, who told the lobby committee that he had suggested the instigation of a whispering campaign questioning the sanity of New Dealers and President Roosevelt. The suggestion was made in a letter to the Electric Bond and Share company, of which Cramer was a stockholder.

Decides to Forget It.

After the testimony was brought to the White House yesterday the President was urged to act decisively against Cramer as a means of halting the whispering campaign. The President summoned Attorney General Homer S. Cummings to a conference on the subject.

The attorney general indicated the President would have an important statement to make today. When the President dismissed the subject White House aids reported that the President adopted other counsel to forget the incident during the day.

Says Testimony Was Distorted.

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Edwin P. Cramer denied today that he had made an out and out admission before the senate lobby committee yesterday that he had tried to organize a whispering campaign to the effect that President Roosevelt is mentally unsound.

In a statement made at the West Orange offices of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., where he is employed as an advertising assistant, Mr. Cramer said that the lobby committee asked him questions which could not be answered without giving a distorted picture of the situation.

THE ETHIOPIAN: PROUD, BEARDED, AND BAREFOOTED

Claims He Is Descendant of Queen of Sheba.

This is the second of a series of letters from Mr. Barber, The Tribune's staf correspondent, depicting Ethiopia and life in the African empire.

BY WILL BARBER

ADDIS ABABA, July 11.—[By Mail.]—If you ask the Ethiopian people who they are and whence they came, they are quite ready to trace their origin back to Adam and Eve and to Noah's ark. They will not fail, of course, to tell you about the queen of Sheba, who with Solomon founded the imperial line of Ethiopia, a line so ancient that it makes European kings look like upstarts.

Their Bible is the same as ours, just as their 1,500 year old Christianity differs but slightly from the Greek orthodox faith. Their written history is sketchy, so their account of their origin for all practical purposes is about as good as you can get.

They claim to be the grandsons of Ham. European historians, who have studied their characteristics, customs, and languages, confirm the Hamitic origin through the Cushite strain, as well as through the Semitic language they speak. The race has been corrupted by intermarriage and concubinage with the Negroes from the Sudan and from the countries lying south of Ethiopia. The Amharic tongue is the ancient geez [now spoken only by priests, most of whom don't understand a word of it] corrupted with many words from the Egyptian Coptic.

King Has Olive Complexion.

Your correspondent is still on the lookout for the pink faced men and women who are said to live in the northern mountains as the last survivors of the original Ambara race. He hasn't had any luck so far. Nevertheless, it is no uncommon sight to see women with complexions ranging from the olive of the Mediterranean races to the yellow of the Chinese. It is rarer to see complexions so light in men, but Emperor Haile Selassie, who is a good representative of the original strain, has a distinctly olive complexion. It is thrown into relief in daylight by his dark eyes and black beard.

The "black empire" is a title often given to Ethiopia, but all Ethiopians feel insulted if you call them black. It is true, at least in Addis Ababa, where peoples from all parts of the empire mingle, that brown is the prevailing color. It ranges from the light brown of the Hindu te the deep brown of the mulatto. In many faces is a reddish flush that gives air : a pinkish tinge to the cheekbones. Noses and lips are thin and the form of the eyes is much like our own.

Black, though oddly it is the color of rank and honor, is a name they reserve for the Sudanese and the southern peoples, whom they call by the general name for slave—shankalla. The Galla people, who inhabit the plateaux against Italian Somaliland, are black. In them is a distinct strain of the Bantu, from the south, not yet removed by intermarriage with the brown and olive mountaineers. The Somalis also are black, but their features are thin like those of the Arab, and their eyes, like those of the mountaineers, are entirely different from the bulging eyes of the west African black men.

Sharp Noses, Thick Eyelids.

Some of the people in the streets of Addis Ababa have distinctly Jewish features except for the brown of their faces—sharp noses, thick eyelids and oval faces. There are 50,000 people in the north who still practice the ancient Jewish faith. They keep to themselves and are not of the Semitic type seen in Addis Ababa.

Beards are all the rage and most men sport one as soon as they can. They are not the luxurious beards made famous by the French, for instance. Indeed they are scraggly affairs with more desire than hair. Styles and cuts range from goatees to the Van Dyke, such as the emperor's. Hair is worn pompadour and occasionally is smeared with butter that has seen better days, not to say rancid. The women have a way of dressing their hair with a sharp line across the forehead that makes them look as if they were wearing wigs.

Small boys, especially of the lower classes, have their heads shaved with a two inch wide swath of hair running from the forehead to the nape of the neck, such as orn by Americ Indians as scalp locks. Barbers, by the way, have a very easy time in this country; all they have to do is to buy a bottle, drink its contents, break it and use the jagged bits for razors. They do a good job if you like Ethiopian haircuts.

Trousers Are Odd.

Tailors, too, don't have much to do, for the dress of the Ethiopians is very simple, with the exception of the funny trousers, which have seats big enough for a man and a boy, and legs that fit almost skin tight. Otherwise a shirt as long as a nightshirt, worn outside the trousers à la Chinese; a rectangular piece of cotton—most of it cheap Japanese stuff, but some of it fluffy Ethiopian cotton—to be worn draped from the shoulders like a Roman toga, and a surcoat of white cotton drill, falling to the knees, compose the business suit of the Ethiopian man in the street. Shoes he has none, for every one goes barefoot.

The toga—chamma they call it—is rather a ceremonial bit of wearing apparel, and requires no little dexterity to handle. Ordinarily it is wrapped around the body and over the shoulders. The outer edges are then folded back over the shoulders so one's arms are free, but on a ceremonial occasion Ethiopians wrap it around the body, under the armpits and over the right shoulder, so that the left arm alone is free. That is a mark of respect for a superior.

Another trick they have with the chamma is to wear one end of it wrapped across the mouth and nose. Visitors at first think it is to protect the wearer from the chilly wind and dank air of Addis Ababa, but they are informed that it is simply a bit of swank. When a man so dressed greets a superior he removes the chamma from his face with his left hand and sweeps off his hat with the right. It is a custom not much different from a medieval knight's lifting of his vizor to salute a woman or a superior.

Work, Sleep, Eat in Toga.

A chamma starts life pure white—nobles of high rank may wear black—but it isn't long before the chamma becomes a greasy khaki, for the poorer people work, sleep, and eat in it for many months. The very poor go in rags. No one seems to mind if half the seat of a man's trousers is lacking or his toga is in shreds. Small boys and girls wear nothing but khaki shirts. Very small children don't mind a bit if they have nothing on at all or their shirts fail to button.

The women of the poorer classes are dressed in one piece dresses gathered in at the waist and falling in many folds over the legs. It makes them look like a couple of full bags tied together. But women of the wealthy and noble classes disport themselves well when they ride forth on mules followed by armed servants as bodyguards. They wear dresses of fine cloth and soft chammas, veils over their mouths and noses, almost in the old Turkish custom, with gray sombreros on their heads. Rain or shine they carry little parasols of woven straw, whose manufacture constitutes one of the few crafts of this primitive land.

Wealthy or well to do men also do themselves proud, and some of them even wear sandals or western shoes. These days, for summer is chilly in Addis Ababa, the men wear poncho-like cloaks with monkish hoods to keep off the heavy, dull, and almost unceasing rain. Their mules too—horses are at bargain rates, because one needs a mule to struggle through the mud of the roads in the rainy season and to negotiate bad paths when it is dry—are gaily decked and the more silver thalers, or dollars dating from 1780 and bearing the effigy of Maria Theresa of Austria, a man has jingling from his mule, the bigger he is.

Parasols Look Funny.

Parasols! They sound funny and look funnier in a land where every one is sunburned from birth, but the sun at noon is almost directly over head in these latitudes and its rays are deceptively powerful. Hence all sorts of precautions to protect oneself from the sun. You might say, for instance, that the proper wear for summer in Addis Ababa is a good, stout overcoat and a sun helmet. People wear both.

The policemen—they carry rawhide whips instead of clubs, because mules, donkeys, horses, and sheep form the chief impediment to trafic—wear blue military mackinaws and once white sun helmets. Their feet are of course bare. Your correspondent thought such dress rather outlandish, but last evening he saw something better—a small chieftain, a two gun man at best, wearing a poncho of blanket thickness, a balaclava woolen cap that left only his eyes, mouth, and nose free, and over that warm cap a sun helmet. Bare feet, with his big and second toes forked over the mule's stirrup, completed the picture, plus a breechless small boy trotting behind with a gun.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 2.—"Le roi le veult." In these four words of old Norman-French, uttered in the house of lords today by Lord Chancellor Viscount Hailsham, the fate of India perhaps for generations was settled. Viscount Hailsham spoke for King George V.

This formula made the India bill law and the next step is to begin the immense task of building up an administration to work it. The bill, which provides for a government with a greater measure of freedom than heretofore of India's 350,000,000 people, is the bulkiest ever passed by the British parliament. It contains 478 clauses, 16 schedules and 455 printed pages. It took eight years to prepare.

The law sets up an all-India federated parliament, linked with eleven British Indian states with their own subordinate legislatures and such native states as decide to come in. It separates Burma and Assam from India and gives them also a large measure of self-government.

but it is not likely to count for anything. The council is not even waiting to hear the result of an inquiry sent to Addis Ababa regarding the Ethiopian government's attitude toward the proposal at large.

Italy Plans Mass Flight.

ROME, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Plans for the greatest mass flight in history, with at least 50 bombing planes flying to Africa, were disclosed tonight by aeronautical circles shortly after authoritative assertions had been heard that Italy would not let the league of nations compromise its program in Ethiopia.

The flight of the bombing fleet to Africa would exceed both in distance and number of planes the longest hop made by Italo Balbo's squadron in its mass flight of 25 planes to Chicago in 1933. The longest hop on that flight was 1,500 miles, from Iceland to Labrador.

The planes, it was understood, will take off from southern Italy early in September and fly without armaments, thereby averting any questions of a political issue with any neutral countries over which the armada might pass. The planes were described as being of the latest tri-motored design. Armament for the planes, it was said, has been shipped to East Africa.

Among Fascist circles tonight were circulating what was purported to be the hitherto undisclosed text of Mussolini's speech to a Black Shirt division on July 6. Excerpts included: "You will conquer Ethiopia. You will have the whole of it. We shall not be content with a partial settlement. You will have formidable arms, which no one suspects. You are strong, invincible. You will see five continents bow and tremble before Fascist power."

Two Italians Die in Wreck.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Aug. 2.—Emergency precautionary measures to keep open the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railway line, this capital's only outlet to the world, were taken today after two Italian subjects, natives of the Dodecanese Islands, were killed in an unexplained wreck.

Emperor Haile Selassie and his advisers were authoritatively reported ready to impose martial law in the capital, if need be, to guarantee order, guard against espionage and control the wild tribesmen rushing to answer yesterday's call for recruits.

A protest by the Italian legation was understood to have followed the death of the Dodecanesians in the train derailment, which tied up trafic along the somewhat rickety line all through the day. Stones on the rails caused the wreck.

Determined to keep intact Ethiopia's channel to the sea, the emperor detailed picked troops to guard bridges spanning the enormous chasms along the way to Djibouti.

Reports of the assassination of Lidji Farada, acting governor of the province of Tchertcher, excited government officials, but it was not believed the slaying was connected with the Italo-Ethiopian situation. Farada's standing was not regarded as important.

Russian Girls Jump from 26,000 Feet; Claim Record

MOSCOW, Aug., 2.—(AP)—A new world altitude record for women parachutists jumping without oxygen was claimed today for two 20 year old Russian girls, Anna Sismariova and Galina Tiashetskaga, who jumped from 26,000 feet at Khimke, near Moscow. The Sismariova girl said she passed through four layers of clouds on the way down.

JAP NAVY REVIEWED BY MIKADO; HEADS FOR PACIFIC MANEUVERS

TOKIO, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Japan's symbol of sea power, the combined first and second fleets, headed for the northwest Pacific and annual maneuvers tonight, while a noted Japanese diplomat hinted a possible tri-power naval parley in 1936.

Before leaving the Japanese coast today, the combined fleets passed in informal review before the Emperor Hirohito, who watched through binoculars from the imperial summer villa Hayama. Sixty vessels steamed out of Tokio bay to participate in the maneuvers.

The assertion that the British attitude toward Japan was improving in naval matters was made by Ambassador Tsuneo Matsudaira, home after nearly seven years of continuous service at London. His statement said Britain's attitude had "improved" after gradual recognition of Japan's position in the Manchukuan incident.

FIRE IN CATHOLIC CHURCH CAUSES $8,000 DAMAGE

Damage estimated at $8,000 was done last night by fire which broke out in the sacristy of St. Charles Roman Catholic church at 2100 Roosevelt road.

The entire church had just been redecorated for the golden jubilee to be celebrated next month, and a quantity of paints and oils were stored in the sacristy. It was believed possible that these were ignited by lightning.

The flames were first seen by the Rev. Mathew Canning, the pastor, from the nearby parish house, and he turned in a fire alarm before rushing to the church. It was impossible to save many vestments and holy articles, but Father Canning did carry the Sacred Host from the altar in a small chapel off the sacristy.

The main altar of the church was not reached by the flames, but the interior of the auditorium was blackened and damaged by smoke. The fire itself was confined to the sacristy.

Germany Plans New Air Mail Service to N. America

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—German airmen plan to make a bid for air mail service from Europe to North America. The Lufthansa is planning a trial flight over the North Atlantic next autumn, using the two floating aerodromes, Westfalen and Schwabenland. The vessels now are used in the South Atlantic service.

Police Wait Clew in Theft of Dynamite; Hold Ears

GIRL'S ESSAY ON ENGLAND STIRS UP DEBATE IN HOUSE

M. P.'s Spend Hour on Inspector's Criticism.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The last day of parliament usually features some silly debate, but all records were surpassed today when nearly an hour of parliamentary time was wasted on Maud Mason, 13 years old, a Manchester school girl who has been made something more than a movie star by a sensational London newspaper and a Conservative member of parliament.

It began a month or more ago when a school inspector was holding a periodical inspection at the girl's school. He happened to pick up an essay written by Maud. The essay began, "England is only a small country, but it is better than any other country because it has a good king and queen to reign over it."

Inspector's Casual Remark.

The inspector, a former soldier who won a commission in the world war from the ranks, remarked to the teacher:

"That's pretty sweeping, isn't it? It reads like old-fashioned imperialism."

The teacher defended the child while the inspector laughed and dropped the subject. The instructor, however, complained to the rector of the parish. He passed on the complaint to Sir Gerald Hurst, Conservative member of parliament for the district. He raised the question in parliament, demanding the inspector's head and declaring that there is far too much subversive teaching in the schools.

According to his story, the teacher, the rector, and Maud had been publicly rebuked by the inspector. According to Oliver Stanley, minister of education, who has investigated, the remark was made casually and jokingly to the teacher as the children were leaving the classroom.

Teacher Is Defended.

Stanley defended the teacher's right to hold any opinions as long as he did not try to infect the children with them. He pointed out that this case has no relation to wild charges of subversive teachings.

Finally after six members had spoken their pieces in parliament, the matter was dropped. Meanwhile, Maud, who had been brought from Manchester by the London paper, sat in a gallery with her mother. When it was all over she said:

"It made me feel all funny inside to see that gentleman in a top hat reading my essay."

The schoolgirl was then rushed off to the hotel to prepare another essay for the newspaper.

HOLDS TWO AS COUNTERFEITERS.

United States Commissioner Walker yesterday held to the federal grand jury Elmer Chrzanowski, 23 years old, 4712 West 13th street, and John Valaitis, 19 years old, 1500 South 48th avenue, Cicero, on charges of passing counterfeit $5 notes.

FRENCH POLICE HUNT NAZI SPY RING; FOUR SEIZED ON RIVIERA

NICE, France, Aug. 2.—(AP)—A huge German spy ring was being sought along the Riviera tonight after the arrest of four alleged members accused of prying into the secrets of France's Mediterranean fortifications. The band, police said, is suspected of spying on forts and the big naval base at Toulon, using Monte Carlo as the base for their operations.

Authorities would divulge the identity of only one of the four arrested. He was Eugene Hahn, said to be of German nationality, who described himself as a retired capitalist. Hahn had been living with his mother at Monte Carlo since 1931, the police said, presumably feeling safe from French police because Monaco officially is foreign territory.

Hahn's visitors and his frequent voyages put the French intelligence service on his trail. They occupied his apartment at Beausoleil, just outside of Monaco, intercepted correspondence, and arrested the other three. The authorities said Hahn conducted the espionage ring's "postoffice," other members bringing information to him which he coördinated and forwarded.

Germany Jails 3 Priests for Attack on Nazi Rule

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—Three Roman Catholic clergymen, Father Hoppe of Mehlsack, and Fathers Schulz and Sauermann of Bransburg, were sentenced to prison today on a charge of "referring to matters of state during their church service in a manner endangering the public peace." They also were accused of spreading false reports about a police officer who had investigated a meeting of Catholic workers. Father Schulz nailed a copy of a letter deriding the officer on his church door. He was sentenced to 8 months in prison. The other clergymen received six and four months' sentences.

Monaco Orders Chicago Flyer to Halt Recruiting

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, Aug. 2.—Hal Duberrier, former Chicago aviator, was formally called before the Monaco secret police today and threatened with expulsion if he attempts to recruit help for Ethiopia here. Police officials told him they were not concerned about his statement that he is going to fight for Ethiopia, but that they will not tolerate his soliciting anybody else to join him.

GERMANS BEGIN DRIVE TO SILENCE FOREIGN WRITERS

Swiss Correspondent Is Ousted; Others Warned.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—(AP)—A new and wider definition of treason, start of a campaign to restrict foreign correspondents and a statement from the propaganda ministry that it is "self-evident" that in Berlin and the entire reich "there is complete order" marked the first anniversary today of Adolf Hitler's rise to supreme leadership in Germany.

On a half dozen fronts the Nazi government's actions included these developments:

A campaign by the German propaganda ministry against foreign correspondents who incur its displeasure claimed as its first victim today Ernst Klein of the Basel, Switzerland, Nachrichten, a Protestant newspaper. He was ordered out of Germany within five days.

Honor Von Hindenberg.

Pilgrims from all parts of the reich flocked to the Tannenberg memorial to pay on the first anniversary of Paul von Hindenberg's death their respects to the war time marshal's memory.

A new definition of treason was outlined by Roland Freisler, state secretary for the ministry of justice. It was complicated but apparently to this effect: That any opposition to the Nazi party, by direction or indirection, by commission of acts or omission of acts, amounts to the crime of volksverrat, or breach of faith with the community. Freisler said it applies specifically to Germans who owe allegiance, but added that foreigners who offend in the same respects expose themselves to severe penalties.

On their day of remembrance, which is also the day of Adolf Hitler's assumption of supreme leadership, the Nazi leaders not only asserted there is peace and order, but also took steps to preserve it against "state enemies," against offending Germans, if any, and against foreign misunderstandings.

Foreign Writers Warned.

The foreign correspondents generally were in agreement that their situation is becoming increasingly difficult. The Klein case was the first expulsion, but many foreign correspondents who have been in Germany more than a dozen years received warnings that their reports on the German situation were displeasing.

One Dutch correspondent, called to task about his description of the economic situation was told:

"You will probably have to say good-by to quite a number of your foreign colleagues, for we are going to do some house cleaning."

Several dailies have started a feature under the caption, "Daily Lie," wherein some foreign report is branded as erroneous. A large French agency editor [Havas], for instance, was pilloried therein for reporting under a Vienna date line that a Vienna paper claimed Oberammergau would abandon the Passion Play and bring instead a performance depicting a Germanic girl seduced by a Jew.

"German Pope" Takes Office.

Hans Kerrl, dubbed the "German pope" by the rank and file of the people, started functioning today as minister of religious affairs by depriving the Hanover Lutheran church of its financial independence. He decreed the establishment of a special finance department, headed by Dr. Carsteb of Kiel, a Nazi German Christian.

At Koenigberg, the chief of police strictly forbade "wild actions" against Jews. His order said, "There is danger that all sorts of dark elements will mix in with the hope of fishing in troubled waters and even bring us discredit and foreign political complications."

Denies Police Precautions.

New York, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The Berlin bureau of the Associated Press today transmitted to New York a denial by the German propaganda ministry of a Berlin Associated Press story of July 31 concerning extraordinary police precautions against possible trouble there. The story was obtained from reliable sources.

AUSTRIA ARRESTS 24 YOUTH BODY MEMBERS FOR NAZI AGITATION

VIENNA, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Twenty-four members of the patriotic juvenile organization, "the Austrian League of Youth," were arrested today for anti-government activity.

Those arrested all belong to the Floridsdorf section of the youth league. Floridsdorf, a little more than one year ago, was a Socialist stronghold, and, as such, was heavily bombarded during the February civil war.

Government investigators said they discovered that boys and girls there who, presumably, had been won over to a pro-government attitude, were only using their membership in the youth league as a camouflage for Nazi agitation. The youngsters set the police on their trail by scattering swastikas on the pavement while marching in a church procession.

BRITISH PREMIER EXPLAINS VISIT BY J. P. MORGAN

LONDON, Aug. 2.—(AP)—A Labor party member's question as to why J. P. Morgan, American financier, called on Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin was answered in the house of commons today by Baldwin himself.

"The member is under a misapprehension in thinking J. P. Morgan paid an official visit to 10 Downing street," said the prime minister in a written answer. "Mr. Morgan is an old personal friend of mine, with whom I have stayed in New York. He always comes to see me when he is in this country. I hope he will continue to do so."

The question was asked by J. McGovern, Glasgow Laborite, who said he thought that, inasmuch as Morgan's visit to the prime minister had been reported in America, the house of commons ought to know all about it.

'ZARATHUSTRA' TO BE TREAT OF MUSIC FESTIVAL

Will Be Played by Concert Band for First Time.

Tickets on Sale!

Tickets for the Chicagoland Music Festival may be bought at Tribune Public Service offices. Reserved seats are 50 cents each.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

For the first time on any stage Richard Strauss' mightiest composition, the tone poem, "Thus Spake Zarathustra," is to be presented by a great concert band. The composition, written for a symphony orchestra, is being arranged for band so that it might be played in the Chicagoland Music Festival on Saturday night, Aug. 17 at Soldiers' field.

The presentation will be one of the many brilliant features on the program of the festival this summer. The general musical director of the festival, Victor Grabel, will conduct.

"Thus Spake Zarathustra" is a famous work. It takes a high place in the repertoire of all the great symphony orchestras. Strauss, a native of Munich, who is not related to the waltz king, Strauss of Vienna, wrote it in 1896. It had its first American performance in Chicago on Feb. 5 and 6, 1897, when Theodore Thomas and the Chicago orchestra presented it at the Auditorium. Since then Thomas and his famous successor, Frederick Stock, have conducted it some eighteen times. In recent years it has been almost an annual feature of the symphony programs, and this by public demand.

Controversy Caused by Title.

Strauss gave to the piece the same title that Friedrich Nietzsche had given to his own lengthy and abstruse philosophical work. When the musical composition came out it aroused so much controversy that Strauss was obliged to write this as his explanation:

"I did not intend to write philosophical music or portray Nietzsche's great work musically. I meant to convey musically an idea of the development of the human race from its origin through the various phases of evolution, religious as well as scientific, up to Nietzsche's idea of the superman."

Certainly those who listen to it with open mind will not get entangled in a philosophical maze. On the contrary, it is a dramatic, colorful bit of musical magnificence, to which the appended quotations from the Nietzsche work here and there throughout the score make suggestive subheads.

Greatness Easily Apparent.

The glories of the work are apparent at the very beginning, the section that tells how Zarathustra got up from his bed on the mountain top to greet the sunrise for the last time before going down in the world to begin his teaching. Out of a murky gloom of music there suddenly shoots a bright ray of a trumpet call, another call answers it, and another and another. In a brief time there is a triumphant climax, a veritable sunburst of tone, of gleaming, lambent, searching trumpet notes.

From here the band passes to the next episode of Zarathustra's wandering, the section named in the score "Of the Great Yearning," and of which the Nietsche subhead begins, "O my soul, I understand the smile of thy melancholy," a long breathed, widely extended phrase for the lower instruments, singing over a trembling, quivering foundation of still lower notes. It is a marked contrast to what has gone before.

Shortened for Festival.

Unfortunately "Thus Spake Zarathustra" is somewhat too long for its complete inclusion in a program like that of the Chicagoland Music Festival. Too many other brilliant events must be included in a brief time. Wherefore Mr. Grabel has chosen to go no further in his transcription, but turns at once to the conclusion. Here there is a reintroduction of the murky, long roll of bass drum and low, sustained bass tone that begins the piece. Again the trumpet call flames against the darkness. The trumpets are answered by trombones and horns, and an increasing roll on gong, cymbal, and tympani builds up to a final, tremendous climax.

Mr. Grabel sends word that the score requires an unusually large band for performance, including an organ, harps, three oboes, English horn, three bassoons, and contra-bassoon, all with independent parts. It has every indication of opening a new page in the art of band playing.

The men choristers are the Meistersingers of Two Rivers, Wis., directed by Thomas Leland Bailey and sponsored by the Two Rivers Reporter, published by Mark R. Byers. The Michigan group is the Holland American Legion band, directed by Eugene F. Hester.

Musical groups and individuals anticipating entering the festival contests this summer are cautioned concerning the deadline for entry, which is Monday night at 6 p. m.

CHORUSES, BANDS AID IN ROCKFORD MUSIC FESTIVAL

Program Will Continue Tonight, Monday.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—With rain preventing for a second time an open air program, the Rock River valley three day music festival was opened tonight in Abraham Lincoln Junior High school auditorium. Hundreds of persons who went to Rockford High school stadium despite threatening skies were directed to the school.

Musical organizations and singers from Winnebago, Stephenson, Carroll and Ogle counties were represented. Church choirs, bands and Swedish choruses prepared to present a program of sacred music, Swedish melodies and works of the great composers.

Sponsored by the Young Men's Association of Commerce of Rockford, the program is the first event of the type ever attempted here. It will continue Saturday and Monday nights in the Rockford High school stadium.

Festival Queen Named.

Miss Marian Anderson, winner of a popularity contest conducted in conjunction with the contest, was crowned festival queen at ceremonies preceding the opening of the musical program. Miss Linnea Carlson, runner-up, was her maid of honor.

Mrs. Mentor Wheat, Freeport, guest soloist on the program, selected a group of numbers that included a Handel aria, "Let the Bright Seraphim," from Samson, "A Dream" by Grieg, and "Lovetide of Spring" by Glazounow-La Forge.

The Sveas Soner and Svithiod Male choruses of Rockford had chosen "Attonen," by Schaffer; "John Peel," by Andrews; "Land Du Valsignade" and a medley. "Creation Hymn," by Rachmaninoff, and "The Angelus," by Lleurance, were the selections of Second Congregational Church choir of Rockford.

School Bands Heard.

The Tri-City Girls' band of Lanark, Ill., the Lanark Concert band, the Pecatonica, Ill., community band and school bands from Forreston and Chadwick, Ill., were other musical organizations heard tonight.

Other features included a Maypole ballet by 150 Rockford children and a demonstration of camping skill by Rockford Boy Scouts.

Lawrence Salerno, W-G-N radio baritone, will be the guest soloist Saturday night and Harlan Parkhurst, Rockford, will be the soloist Monday night.

BAKERY STRIKE IS SETTLED AT DES MOINES, IA.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Settlement of the three week old strike of union bakers and trucker salesmen in six major bakeries here was reached late today when union members voted to accept a compromise employment contract.

The contract was drawn up by John Connolly Jr., union attorney, and George Comfort, counsel for the Master Bakers' association. Agreement on the new terms brought to a close a full week of mediation efforts.

Informed of the union action, Comfort said the bakeries will recall nearly 700 employés Sunday night and reopen to the public Monday.

SUMMER'S HEAT INCREASES NEED OF ICE DONATIONS

Suffering Told in Pleas from Poor Families.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Out of the sapping heat in Chicago this week has arisen, among the poor of the city, a crying need for ice.

This may be seen in the scores of letters received daily by THE TRIBUNE free ice fund which, supported solely by readers of THE TRIBUNE, makes it possible to answer many of these written requests.

Here is a request that came yesterday. Whether or not it is answered will depend upon the amount of future contributions, for it is merely one in a long, long waiting list.

Deserted by Husband.

"I wonder if it is possible for me to get some ice," wrote a mother. "I have seven children, the oldest 13, the youngest 8 months. I need ice badly. My husband deserted me nine months ago, three months before our little girl was born.

"It is terrible," she adds, "to be reduced to such circumstances, and I have tried to get along without asking for anything, but where there are small children, it is very hard. If you can possibly get ice for me, I will appreciate it very much."

Six contributions to the fund were received yesterday. These were:

J. Peterkin	$10.00
Sarah Budwin	5.00
M. B. H.	2.50
"The Blue Heron"	2.00
Jean Hemmes	1.32
From a reader	.50
Total	$ 19.32
Previously acknowledged	$885.02
Grand total	$904.34

Contributions to the free ice fund should be addressed to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower. All contributions will be acknowledged in the columns of this paper.

Nine Day Stand

Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey combined shows will open a nine day stand this afternoon in Soldiers' field. This is the first time in three years that the show has appeared in Chicago. This city was skipped purposely during the World's Fair years. It also is the first time that a circus has exhibited in Soldiers' field. Although inside the field the show is to be under canvas.

The Chicago park district traffic engineers have arranged free parking facilities for 1,500 automobiles near the field. These areas are at the east end of Field museum, along the drive curbs east of Soldiers' field, and large areas contiguous to the 18th street car terminal in Grant park at Columbus drive.

The circus animals will begin swarming through the Illinois Central railroad yards at the foot of Randolph street, starting at dawn today. Four silvered trains were required to bring the circus to Chicago. Their freight included 1,600 persons, seven herds of elephants, 700 horses, and 1,000 menagerie animals, as well as the tents and tinseled wagons and other trappings of the big show.

SECRET SERVICE SMASHES RING OF COUNTERFEITERS

Several arrests, seizure of equipment and spurious money were described in the announcement.

William H. Moran, chief of the service, said a special squad had taken into custody Ugo Albano, Albert Ravone, and Carmine Coppola, all of New York, at High Nalls in Ulster county, and had confiscated a number of plates designed for the manufacture of $1 and $5 bills. In addition, he said, the agents seized $554 of finished money and $774 of unfinished bills.

Moran said the ring filled specific orders for counterfeit money and that this accounted for the small size of the seizures.

REROUTE TRUCKS TO QUIET NORTH SHORE PROTESTS

Howard T. Willett, president of the Willett Trucking company, yesterday acceded to the demands of north shore residents in a hearing before the Illinois Commerce commission and agreed to reroute his trucks over a number of roads instead of using a single highway.

Under the agreement one set of trucks will operate between Chicago and Evanston only. Another will serve towns between Evanston and the Lake county line, operating in Green Bay road. A third will serve towns lying north of the county line as far as Lake Forest, using the Skokie valley road. The fourth route will serve all points between Lake Forest and Waukegan, operating on Waukegan road.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Ducks 'Adopt' Grebes.

Aug. 2, 1935.

THE three grebes [helldivers] that are enjoying the seclusion and safety of the ponds on the Wheaton farm apparently are quite intrigued by the society of the Muscovy ducks. If you will approach the ponds very quietly these days like as not you will see one or more of the grebes paddling around with the Muscovys as if they were members of the same duck family. But just as soon as these wild birds see you they dive quicker than a wink and that's all you will see of them.

Being very expert underwater swimmers the birds swim under water to the edge of the pond and there they slyly stick their heads into the weeds and hide. With three ponds to visit the grebes have plenty of chances to fly around and hunt food.

Other visitors to the pond where the Muscovys are located include big blue herons and black crowned night herons which must make life miserable for the frogs and small bullheads.

A mighty proud guinea hen strutted into the poultry yard the other evening. Rawlings was putting out feed for the chickens when he looked around and there was a clacking old guinea hen leading her family into the yard for the first time. He counted twenty young ones around this guinea hen—all just a few days old. She had built a nest out in the field somewhere, hatched out her family and then decided that it would be pretty nice to take the brood back to the old boarding house where free meals are being served.

The guinea hen that nested in the thistle patch not far from the sheepfold stepped out of her well protected nesting site with nine chicks early this week, and now Rawlings has discovered another guinea hen setting among the willows near the poultry yard. This one believes in big families. She has an even thirty eggs in her nest.

The ten Bob Whites which were hatched out on the Wheaton farm by a bantam hen are scoffing at three foot wire fences these days. The chicks set sail without any trouble and fly right over the fence, much to the distress of the fussy little bantam foster-mother. But the little ones do not go very far from the coop or the bantam. The plan is to turn these cute little fellows out in the garden when they are a little older.

A Barred Rock hen did a dandy job with her clutch of fifteen pheasant eggs. She hatched fourteen little ringnecks out of the fifteen eggs and now is cooped up near the rest of the game birds in the orchard near Carl's house. The five Chukar partridges, which are not common in this country, are getting along fine with their special diet. Among other things to eat they get a ground grain mash mixed with egg custard.

Binks, the little smooth haired fox terrier, had a real adventure yesterday. A visitor, who came to the Yorkville farm to look over the place, brought a pet raccoon with him. The visitor and his pet were sitting down on the edge of the water tank when Binks came along and decided to investigate the furred visitor. He was warned to keep his distance, but what terrier can resist a four footed animal the size of a raccoon?

Binks tried to get real chummy with the animal and before he knew it the pet had grabbed Binks by the foot. The dog was so surprised that he fell into the water tank. Binks got out, shook himself, and went his way apparently quite chagrined by the way the four footed visitor outwitted him.

Ketcham Is Held to Jury in Fatal Tavern Shooting

Thomas Ketcham, 27 years old, 5562 Quincy street, was held to the grand jury on a manslaughter charge yesterday by the coroner's jury investigating the fatal shooting of Armond [Jack] Holbrook, 29 years old, 425 South Oak Park avenue, a newspaper circulation truck driver. Holbrook was found dead early Sunday on the lawn of the County hospital. Ketcham admitted leaving the body there after Holbrook was accidentally shot while Ketcham was trying to wrest a revolver from him in a tavern at 1136 West Grand avenue.

PEARSONS FACES JAIL UNLESS HE PAYS ALIMONY

Harry P. Pearsons, former mayor of Evanston, was threatened with jail by Superior Judge Joseph B. David yesterday unless he pays part of the $8,955 back alimony he owes his estranged wife, Elizabeth Schmitt Pearsons, 316 Ridge avenue, Evanston.

Pearsons was not in court when his case was called. Judge David issued a writ of attachment for his arrest. While deputies were seeking Pearsons to serve it he informed the court that he would appear on Aug. 8, and the writ was withdrawn.

Judge David was aroused when Pearsons' lawyer, Lloyd G. Whitman, announced that it was upon his advice that Pearsons had not paid up because of the new state law which specifies that separate maintenance payments cease after two years. Pearsons was ordered to pay $40 a week when Mrs. Pearsons won a separate maintenance decree in July, 1932.

"If the new law interferes with previous orders of this court," Judge David said, "I'll hold it unconstitutional. And I'll throw Mr. Pearsons into jail if he doesn't make a substantial payment."

First Army Will Travel to Camp in Taxi Fleet

New York, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The First army of the United States, accustomed to moving about the country in trucks, will ride to Pine camp on Aug. 17 in taxicabs, Maj. Gen. Dennis E. Nolan announced today. This move was necessitated by a lack of transportation facilities. The army will hire 269 taxicabs, 50 one and one-half ton trucks, and 14 water tanks for use during the maneuvers at Pine camp. These will cost $90,715.

BEER UNION AGENT AND 6 ARRESTED; ROW AT BREWERY

H. J. Becker, 40 years old, 2250 West Madison street, business agent for the Bottled Beer Chauffeurs and Helpers' union, local 744, was arrested with six other men yesterday on a charge of threatening fifty drivers for the Anheuser-Busch plant, 2367 Logan boulevard. These drivers belong to the Brewery Workers' union.

According to police, Becker and his followers maintained that the American Federation of Labor had given jurisdiction to their local, which is affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, and the Anheuser-Busch men should belong to it rather than the brewery workers' group.

Becker and the other six were released on bond after being charged with disorderly conduct and will be arraigned in the Shakespeare avenue court Monday.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

THIS WAY TO MISERY.

The people of the United States have learned something in the last few weeks. They have learned that the costs of the New Deal can't be paid by the rich because they haven't that much money.

Almost every one had allowed himself to hope that a few thousand wealthy men and women could be made to foot the bill for the Roosevelt extravagances. We now know that no matter how high the rates on big incomes may be pushed by envy and malice the budget cannot be balanced by soaking the rich.

The deficit of the national government last year was 3½ billion dollars. The deficit this year will be 4 billion dollars. The Huey Long-Roosevelt taxes will yield, for all their ferocity, a mere 270 million dollars and that is an optimistic estimate. Last year's deficit was more than ten times as great even if the sinking fund is left out of the calculation.

The latest year for which the treasury's Statistics of Income is published is 1933. If every cent of net income of every person in the country with a net income of $5,000 or more had been confiscated by the government in that year, leaving the taxpayers nothing, the government would have collected a shade more than 4 billion dollars, or just about the amount of the current deficit. If a millionaire is defined as a person with a net income of $50,000 or more the government could have confiscated every penny of millionaires' incomes and obtained less than 900 million dollars, less than 25 per cent of this year's deficit.

The costs of the New Deal can't be paid by the rich. If the bill is to be paid the rest of the people down to the $3,000 income classes will—indeed, must—foot it. They have barely enough now to live decently and provide for their own needs in adversity and old age. They must expect to be taxed from 10 to 30 per cent of their incomes to pay for the Roosevelt profligacies and even these taxes will not yield adequate returns unless business shows a very marked improvement.

A $3,000 income will be taxed $300 a year. A $5,000 income will pay something like $700. A $10,000 income will have to pay $1,500 or more. The estimates are conservative. Taxation at lower rates will do no more than dent the deficit. The only alternative to taxes at this scale is prompt reduction of expenditures along the lines to which Franklin D. Roosevelt pledged himself in the campaign of 1932.

That lesson has been learned. Another and even more important one is being learned. To raise so insignificant a sum (in comparison with the government's expenditures and deficit) as 270 million dollars the government is forced to undermine the productive enterprises in the nation. By piling on top of crushing estate taxes the unprecedented weight of the new inheritance taxes the government is making altogether certain the forced liquidation of scores of businesses each year. Within a generation the reserves and the borrowing power of the bulk of corporations will be exhausted to satisfy the tax collector. In the process these businesses will be so enfeebled that they will be unable to withstand economic squalls, to say nothing of an economic storm such as we have been passing through in the last six years.

The wealthy will suffer, of course, but they will not be the only or by any means the principal victims. The rich will save enough from the wreck to live comfortably and independently. They may lose their businesses, but they will have something left. The real sufferers will be their employés and the families of these employés. Jobs will be imperiled. Work will be rendered irregular.

We have seen in recent years what an economic storm can do in the destruction of employment and pay rolls. With that experience before our eyes we can the more readily appreciate how much more devastating the storm would have been if all corporations had been obliged to face it without adequate financial reserves. It is that fate which Mr. Roosevelt under the guidance of Huey Long is preparing for the common people of this country.

THE TRIBUNE can only reiterate what has been said before in this place. We are not interested in the preservation of any one's right to inherit a million or ten million or a billion dollars. Experience shows that the inheritance of large fortunes generally does more harm than good to the individual who gets it. We think that with careful study a better means of disposing of enormous accumulations can be devised.

Meanwhile we are vitally concerned to preserve the only economic system which ever—in all the long history of mankind—has raised the common man above the terrors of hunger and cold. We know that the public good will not be served by freezing and starving millions merely to gratify the passions and ambitions of a larcenous company in and out of public office.

For the general welfare it is vital that going concerns be kept going. Their financial strength must be preserved to provide a margin of security between the wage earner and the loss of his job through business failure.

We do need legislation in this country governing inheritances, but it should not be hate-inspired and hasty. Its objective should be the keeping of the capital and surplus earnings of any business in that business. This end is served generally, though often imperfectly, by present practices, but they can be and should be improved. The test of any proposal for modifying inheritance laws is as simple as it is precise: If the proposed changes increase the margin of security for employés they are good changes. If not they are bad. The employés should not be placed at the mercy of dissolute stockholders or an even more profligate President of the United States.

A SQUARE DEAL FOR AVIATION NEEDED.

While we fully appreciate that some sort of air mail legislation must be passed at this session of congress if our efficient sky routes are to continue in operation, we cannot but protest the present attitude of both branches of congress toward this industry. Its present membership has either forgotten or is unacquainted with the history of flying the mails.

A few inquiries will elicit the information that mail service was first established by army aviators. Later certain commercial air lines were organized for the purpose of taking over the mail duties and at the same time offer passenger and express service as "by-products." Within five years not only had the cost to the taxpayer been reduced 50 per cent but the service had been tremendously improved. That showing would have been highly satisfactory to the average citizen, particularly when coupled with the knowledge that the United States was leading the world in air development, but not so to Mr. Farley. On a charge of "Collusion to defraud the government," that he has refused ever since to define or substantiate, he abruptly canceled the contracts with the air lines. Deprived of air mail pay, nearly half their revenues, the aviation companies faced the alternative of accepting some harsh temporary legislation or abandoning their investments. Now congress has the air lines by the thumbs and intends to apply the screws. The victims have learned to their sorrow to "put not your trust in princes"—or democratic government.

In the permanent legislation under advisement not only is it proposed to drive a sharp bargain for mail service but the opportunity is being taken thoroughly to establish burocratic domination for the future. Salaries of air line officials must be limited to $17,500 per annum. Total air mail payments are not to exceed 40 cents per airplane mile, irrespective of the load that may be offered. New competition on routes of high trafic density is to be forbidden. Schedules are to be dictated by the postoffice department with little or no regard for the passenger revenues that can be developed. Tyranny may be found in every section. We are convinced that the people of the United States do not wish to have air development threatened in this manner, and senators moved with real public interest should support amendments to strike from the bill these efforts to retard air progress.

SHARING THE FRUITS OF CRIME.

Ben Laska, a Denver lawyer criminal, has been sentenced to ten years' imprisonment following his conviction at Oklahoma City of having taken part of the Urschel kidnaping ransom to defend the kidnapers.

As in the case of the Chicago ally of the Dillinger gang, Piquett, Laska did his best to escape punishment by the claim of privilege in the lawyer-client relationship. As in the Chicago case, the jury and court held that there are limits to that protection.

The privilege of lawyers to hold communications of their clients secret was granted originally as a protection to the clients. It has been enlarged and distorted by the legal profession to serve a purpose for which it was never intended, and it is time to set reasonable limits upon it.

Federal courts and federal investigators, however, have shown what can be done to deal with the lawyer criminal even without statutory restriction of his most precious shield for his shady practices. The Laska case, in particular, sets a rule which must appeal to laymen, however it is regarded by lawyers—that the lawyer who shares in the fruit of the crime likewise shares the guilt of the criminal. Is there any reason, other than inattention or negligence on the part of the authorities, why this rule should not be applied in the state courts of Chicago to rid us of some more of our lawyer criminals?

FAULTY DIRIGIBLES.
[Battle Creek News.]

The charge, coming from a member of the commission appointed to investigate the cause of the wrecking of the dirigible Macon, that the navy was to blame for the accident requires further substantiation before it will carry much weight.

Nevertheless, the opinion has been held in naval as well as lay circles that America's disastrous experience with dirigibles has been due to faulty construction rather than to incompetent operation.

No evidence has been presented to show that the men who flew the ill-fated dirigibles were inefficient. On the contrary, the inquiries conducted following each accident have brought forth accounts of expert as well as courageous functioning of the crews of the ships.

England's similarly disastrous experience with dirigibles has been laid, too, to faulty construction.

Only Germany has had good luck with the lighter-than-air craft. The consistency with which Dr. Eckener flew here and there, across land or oceans, indicates more than mere luck.

The Germans were the first to develop the dirigible. They, apparently, know the secret of correct design and construction.

Whether the navy was remiss remains to be proved or disproved, but the fact that new weight is added to the belief that there has been something wrong with the construction of America's dirigibles casts added significance on the recent announcement that the dirigibles of the future will be made entirely of metal. This phophecy may herald advancement which does not seem possible for the dirigible along present lines.

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR Wake-Line: Back in the '80s P. D Armour the First left his south side home every morning to walk to his office in the loop, with his coachman driving his carriage slowly along by the curb. So if Mr. Armour became tired he could step into the carriage and ride, but on many, many days he walked the entire distance, and usually was the first one to arrive at the firm office in the morning.

There was a custom at the Armour office of giving each employé an order for a suit of clothes at Christmas. If the employé was accustomed to buying $60 suits with his own money and did so on the order presented it was all right. If $20 clothes, the employé was supposed to buy $20 clothes. But if the $20 fellow bought a $60 suit with the Christmas order he was severing his ties with the firm, although he did not know it at the time, for Mr Armour said he did not wish that kind of employés in the organization.

In 1892 the World Fair Dedication ball was held in the Auditorium theater. One room was reserved for foreign diplomats and distinguished guests. Some of our first citizens tried hard to enter without success. Mr. Armour gained admittance. How? By walking right into the room with Mrs. Potter Palmer on his arm. Mrs. Palmer, of course, was the social arbiter of the Fair and the big boss of its society functions. This yarn is authentic, as I was in charge of the room as an employé.

In 1875 the banking house of Felsenthal & Kozminski was in the half-basement (two or three steps down from the street level) of the Staats-Zeitung building at the northeast corner of Washington and Wells streets. The firm went out of business some years later, paying depositors and other creditors in full.

At different times both Felsenthal and Kozminski were members of the board of education and served as trustees of that body. Two large present day south side schools are named in their honor, the Herman Felsenthal and the Charles Kozminski schools.

How appropriate at this particular time to speak again of that coldest Chicago day, Jan. 1, 1861, when the thermometer dropped to 34 degrees below zero. We lived on State street about where the entrance to the Palmer house now is. Father wanted a paper and gave me a 25 cent silver piece to go to the newsstand of John R. Walsh at Postoffice alley and Madison street.

The price of the paper was 15 cents and the change was to be my reward for the trip. Mr. Walsh gave me a 10 cent silver piece in change. In trying to put it into my left hand mitten the silver piece fell on the floor and rolled under the counter. Mr. Walsh would not allow me to disturb things to recover my pay for going out on the coldest day Chicago had known. "53."

MY WAILING-WALL.

My pillow is my wailing-wall,
It has known bitterness and hate
And bafflement. My eyes recall
The tears my pillow had to bear,
But it has spared and it will spare
You, and you, my friends, and all
The weary ones who've come to take
My laughter as a parasol
To hold against the sun and rain.
A pillow is immune to pain.

HOW THOUGHTFUL OF RHL to so arrange that no colyum appears in the Sunday paper. He must have been thinking of our particular case and August. It makes possible for the temporary custodian a trip to Arlington Park this afternoon to see run the Futurity, in which will participate the best 2 year old thoroughbreds in the country; youngsters which will become our candidates for the Kentucky Derby, Preakness, American Derby, Belmont stakes, and Classic of 1936.

Getting away to go out there is all right, and one perhaps should be thankful for that, but RHL made no time arrangements for us to talk to the nags in advance, as per custom. So we cannot definitely forecast the winner for those who look to this source for misinformation. They're a nifty bunch of speedsters.

Sentiment should take us to Wise Duke and Deliberator, for we were well acquainted with their daddy, Wise Counsellor, and accumulated sundry simoleons in backing his chances when he was running. On the other hand, Forever Yours, Pelerine, and Coldstream have not been unkind financially, and there are those eastern aristocrats in addition. Oh well, it isn't the money; it's the principle of the thing—and the money.

PHYSICAL FACTORS IN CHILD BEHAVIOR.

WE cannot explain all the behavior difficulties of children on a psychological basis. Many of these upsets can be traced to definite organic causes. For example, we must not apply disciplinary measures to the correction of the persistent grimaces of a child who is suffering from chorea [St. Vitus dance]. Neither should we scold the youngster who, because of disease of the middle ear, holds his head a bit to one side.

Every child who presents a behavior problem should have a careful physical examination. In a surprising number of cases a physical basis for the difficulty will be discovered. We often charge to a bad disposition traits that are due to a poor food balance. Not long ago a school teacher told me about the "bad boy" in her class. He was always misbehaving and perpetually in trouble. She tried every possible appeal without success, even summoning to her aid a nine foot shelf of books on psychology. Finally in desperation she said, "John, what is it that makes you so unruly?" After a moment of hesitation he replied, "I guess it's because I'm so blamed hungry." And so it proved. After a few weeks of adequate meals he became a model student and a firm ally of his benefactor.

We are all familiar with the mental and physical retardation due to lack of thyroid secretion in childhood, and the remarkable effect in some instances of the administration of thyroid substance. Unfortunately the discovery of the importance of endocrine glands led to many false or exaggerated claims as to their curative powers. Not infrequently they were given for conditions that were not glandular in origin and hence were without effect, or even harmful. It has taken years to learn some elementary facts about the remedial value of the endocrines and many more years must elapse before we can tread with safety this mystic maze.

In a recent report L. A. Lurie notes that of a thousand children studied for behavior disorders in the child guidance home in Cincinnati, 20 per cent showed gland deficiencies of varying degrees of severity.

Lurie cites the case of a 15 year old boy who had become a ward of the Juvenile court because he had repeatedly stolen money from his parents, relatives, and friends. All sorts of disciplinary measures failed. Medical examination showed the boy was 2½ inches taller than the average and nearly 50 pounds heavier. His basic metabolic rate test was 15 per cent below normal. Here was a rapidly growing boy with a pituitary deficiency and an enormous craving for starches and sugars. In order to satisfy food demands money to buy extra food supplies had to be found. The lad was given extract of pituitary gland three times daily. Growth continued, but weight loss immediately followed. Secondary sex characteristics that had not previously appeared developed and there was a rapid return of the appetite to normal with cessation of stealing.

Another case was that of a girl aged 11 who had come under the jurisdiction of the Juvenile court because of truancy and a tendency to write highly emotional, imaginative love letters. She drank a tremendous amount of water and had a voracious appetite, especially for sweets. She was 40 pounds heavier and 11 inches taller than the average of her age. The body development was that of a girl of 15, and the mental age was 16. Pituitary gland extract was administered and mental and physical readjustments followed. She became happy, her day dreams vanished, and she graduated from high school with honors.

Perhaps these are special types, but Lurie makes out a good case for the study of behavioristic disorders and maladjustments from the glandular point of view. Naturally, gland therapy must be based on a correct diagnosis and the dosage of the particular substance and the length of treatment must be determined by the individual factors presented in each case.

REMOVING TEETH.

S. H. F. writes: Is there any danger to a prospective mother or to the child in having all the upper teeth removed during the first or second month of pregnancy?

REPLY.

Probably not if the teeth are not infected and if the shock is minimized by removing a few at a time. A number of infected teeth should not be removed at the same time. Many cases of infection or blood poisoning have followed the absorption resulting from such a procedure.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—One concrete result of the meeting in London of dominion and British statesmen has been the decision to enlarge the Singapore naval base and to make it the most powerful naval fortress in Asia. At that time the sultan of Johore offered $2,500,000 and a frontage of nearly three miles of his territory which is adjacent to Singapore.

Since then the dominions have agreed to contribute in the following ratio to Johore's sum:

Commonwealth of Australia	$10,000,000
New Zealand	1,250,000
Canada	1,500,000
India	5,000,000
Empire total	$20,250,000

This will enable the government to proceed with the original Singapore scheme, which was cut hard when the Socialist government came into power ten years ago and which has since suffered from the financial crisis. The new base will consist of 42 inner basins, some of which will be large enough to take a dreadnaught and others only a flotilla leader. The entire seven mile frontage of Singapore and Johore, now parks and gardens, will be taken over and converted into what probably will be the most powerful fortification in the world.

Steel forts are to be built in the bay and in front of the causeway that links Singapore with Johore. These forts are to be armed with the latest 17 inch guns, which will render it impossible for a powerful Asiatic fleet to slip through the Straits of Malacca and hold up European trade with the east.

Richard B. Bennett, Canadian premier, has promised, as soon as his electoral campaign permits, to try to induce the dominion government to make a larger contribution. India largely has done what she has been told to do. The fact that an obscure Malay sultan should give $2,500,000 to the British government to build a naval base has, it is said, duly impressed the Indian mind. No first rank prince of India has ever yet signed a check in favor of the British for even half that amount. There is a general question as to what he is going to get out of it.

Another question which is being taken up is the future contribution to be made to the royal navy by India, Ceylon, the Straits Settlements and the Pacific islands. At present India pays a meager $500,000 annually. Ceylon and the other crown colonies contribute nothing.

Negotiations are proceeding in London between the British government, the Indian princes and the Indian government for increasing the contribution of India to $2,500,000 annually. It is also proposed by the British government that Ceylon, the Straits and archipelago should provide between them another $2,500,000.

These decisions by the overseas and British ministers have carried a step further the recommendations made by their several experts last year at the time of the empire naval conference at Singapore. The object of that conference was to remove the whole burden of the Singapore base from the United Kingdom. This has now been achieved.

SETTLING ESTATE.

Chicago, July 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In the course of probating in California, what is the time requirement for filing an inventory with Probate court? Is it necessary to file an inventory in that state? It is my understanding that there is no specific time in which an estate has to be settled in California. If that is true, and there are no debts against the estate, can estate be settled as soon as possible? L. B.

Ordinarily the inventory should be filed early in the proceedings and the estate should be closed a little over a year from the commencement of the proceedings. If you will state the facts on which your question arises we will be in a better position to advise you.

SALABLE TITLE.

Chicago, July 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband died recently leaving a house in Ohio. He left a will giving me everything. We have no children. I'd like to sell the property. Must I first probate the will? Could I do so after I secure a buyer for the house? J. P.

Probate proceedings would be necessary in order to produce a salable title to real estate. We advise you to employ an attorney now.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

There is no well that supplies pure water. Some wells are much purer than others, but there are millions of germs in all drinking water. Water from deep wells is believed by many people to be absolutely pure because of its sparkling clearness, but such wells may be as badly contaminated as many of the shallow wells which produce cloudy water. The only way to determine the purity of water is to have it tested by the department of health or some other good agency.

TERMITES.

". . . These wretched insects, more than the bee or any other living creatures on earth, become the heralds, perhaps the precursors, of our own destiny.

"In the termitary, the gods of communism become insatiable Molochs. The more they are given, the more they require; and they persist in their demands until the individual is annihilated and his misery complete.

"The discipline is more ferocious than that of the Carmelites or Trappists; and the voluntary submission to laws or regulations proceeding one knows not whence is unparalleled in any human society. A new form of fatality, perhaps the cruelest of all, the social fatality to which we ourselves are drifting, has been added to those we have met already and thought quite enough. There is no rest except in the last sleep of all: illness is not tolerated, and feebleness carries with it its own sentence of death. Communism is pushed to the limits of cannibalism and coprophagy.

". . . compelling the sacrifice and misery of the many for the advantage or happiness of none—and all this in order that a kind of universal despair may be continued, renewed, and multiplied so long as the world shall last. These cities of insects, that appeared before we did, might almost serve as a caricature of ourselves, as a travesty of the earthly paradise to which most civilized people are tending.

"They used to have wings, they have them no more. They had eyes which they have surrendered. They had a sex; they have sacrificed it."

GABBY'S PLACE.

Chicago, July 30.—I am just wondering why our Gabby Hartnett is not included as one of the Big Six of baseball. While you show in this morning's Tribune his batting percentage as being .345, you have Mr. Cramer of the Athletics and Mr. Cochrane of the Tigers listed in the Big Six with batting percentages of .336. I always did figure .345 nine points higher than .336. A Cub Fan.

MESSAGES FROM DEAD MEN.

Houston, Tex., July 26.—A friend in Washington writes me some of the telegrams from dead men, protesting against the public utility act of 1935, were suppressed. He says that among the suppressed protests were telegrams from Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Jefferson Davis, Grover Cleveland, and Woodrow Wilson. I can't vouch for the accuracy of this, but it sounds reasonable. Frank Putnam.

BEAUTY PLUS.

Chicago, July 31.—In every Sunday issue of your valuable paper there is a section devoted to the doings of the society ladies of the city of Chicago. Many times their pictures appear accompanied by their favorite horses and dogs. They all appear to be very charming and intelligent, but, candidly, the great mass of the readers of The Sunday Tribune are not interested in them or what they do, and we cannot understand why you show this partiality.

If one goes into any one of the big department stores or office buildings or any other business in the loop one is amazed at the numerous feminine beauties employed in those numerous and varied enterprises. In any one of these big loop buildings any person with an eye for beauty could pick out on an average of five who would fill all the requirements for artists' models. These young ladies are also very efficient in the line of their duties, which proves that they have brains as well as beauty.

RADIOS ON HOT NIGHTS.

Chicago, July 30.—Why are people so thoughtless, especially in the summer time when it is so hard to get sleep on account of the heat and other noises, to play their radios until 2 in the morning and then start them up again at 6:30? I try to be considerate of others. Why don't radio announcers, after midnight and at 6:30 a. m., caution their listeners to tune down their radios as some one might be ill and exhausted from want of sleep? L. G.

FLAGS.

Cadillac, Mich., July 31.—Your editorial on flags for the administration departments is fine. Why not reproduce these emblems in full color in your rotogravure section some Sunday in the near future?

If your imagination doesn't break under the strain, the postoffice department with their big "surplus" shouldn't be forgotten, nor the President for trying to maim the constitution.

THE PUNSTER'S CORNER.

Chicago, July 31.—Recently there appeared in this department a letter signed B. W., telling of a new species of termites "at work on the main supporting framework of our government." Many believe that following the next presidential election these particular termites will be driven off the reservation. Would it, therefore, not be proper to refer to them as onetermites? L. J. K.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — [Special.] — One producer out here, with whom we talked about the English invasion, claims that English girls are made to order for the current tastes of movie-goers because they're so completely feminine, with a fresh faced wholesomeness of appearance that's a nice contrast to the definitly "typed," stylized look adopted by many American girls. And it's quite true that there is a naturalness about the Britishers that's refreshing.

Heather Angel is not the usual British type, but she is what she is with no attempt at dramatization. She's birdlike, really, small and very slim, with big brown eyes. Right now, in RKO's "The Three Musketeers," she spends her days in brocades and satins and looks for all the world like a fragile queen. Her fragility is deceptive though. She looks as though a good stiff breeze would waft her off the lot, but they tell us she's a perfect marvel at the tough game of polo. You'd never take her for an ardent sportswoman. She's so feminine, so dainty that athletics seem out of the picture. In appearance she's entirely unlike the breezy, streamlined girl who would go in heavily for sports.

She has one of the loveliest speaking voices in Hollywood, we'd say, and the clipped English accent is a further attraction when she speaks. Here again she scores over some of her American Hollywood sisters. What they do in imitation of an English accent is something appalling.

She believes in lots of sleep and gets it herself. She nearly always loses a good deal of weight in the course of a picture. The day we saw her, what with hard work and the heat, she'd touched a low of 98 pounds. She'll go back to normal as soon as she's finished by sleeping more than ever and eating enormously. She'll also indulge in a series of facials to remove the signs of wear and tear from her face. Her skin is delicate and needs coddling, particularly in the way of oiling. Religious brushing keeps her hair beautiful.

One thing about her which seems un-American is her serenity of manner. She doesn't fidget or swagger. Her voice is low pitched, her face calm and her poise truly restful. Come to think of it, it's this serenity that's the secret of her charm.

Colorless Pomade Is Perfect Foundation for Lipstick

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Did you ever try using a colorless lip pomade before using the lipstick?

Try it some time and see if it doesn't help a great deal in getting the coloring on more smoothly. I refer to the white pomade sticks for lip use. This year I have seen perfectly unholy lip burns from sun exposure that might have been prevented with the lip pomade treatment. In one case the woman was under medical treatment on account of her lip (and face) burns, arms, neck, back, and legs. But the lips swelled and were a perfectly ugly sight.

If you've been motoring all day you know how dry your lips feel from the hot winds. This might well be forestalled with the lip pomade. The summer sun and winds can do almost as devastating things to your lips as the bitter winter frost and winds.

Aside from the protective value of the lip pomade there is the matter of improving that surface base for your art work with the regular lipstick.

Women naturally will concentrate their efforts on building up a better lipstick foundation. You who have become expert with the cheek rouge know how much better this job is done, how much more evenly and smoothly the coloring goes on and is molded over a slight foundation base. And so it is with lipstick coloring.

If you use a pomade first your coloring is more manageable and it is easier to clear off the smudgy edges at the mouth corners and above and below the lip lines.

While we are on the subject of lipstick, don't overlook the little item of a usual need of a change in lipstick color, once you have joined the tanned sisterhood. That new lipstick to check up harmoniously with the darkened skin will require more yellow in it.

WEDDINGS

This afternoon at 4:30 Miss Elizabeth Read, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Read of 496 East Illinois road, Lake Forest, is to become the bride of Phillip Allen, son of Mrs. Charles R. Dean of Wilmette. It is to be a garden wedding, with Dr. Herbert MacComb Moore, president of Lake Forest college, officiating.

In the bridal party are Miss Elizabeth Krafft, maid of honor, and Mrs. Vanderbilt Straub of Albany, Mrs. Horton Dietz of Minneapolis, and Miss Read's cousin, Miss Kathryn Southwick of Chicago. Ross Allen will serve his brother as best man, and the ushers, former classmates of the bridegroom at Lake Forest college, are to be James Mitchell of Milwaukee, Donald Carter of Winnetka and Hobart Swan of Libertyville.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen will probably spend their honeymoon somewhere in Minnesota and on their return will make their home in Lake Forest.

Mrs. Ruth Smith Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Richard Smith of Pittsburgh, will be married to Cutler Robert Swanson of Winthrop avenue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Swanson of Gowrie, Ia., on Sept. 18. Mrs. Gordon attended the Pennsylvania College for Women. Mr. Swanson was graduated from Iowa State college.

Miss Helen Youngren of Milwaukee will become the bride of Henry Pruyn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel R. Pruyn of Chicago, on Aug. 10 at 4 o'clock in the home of her sister, Miss Hazel Youngren, on North Maryland avenue, Milwaukee. Mr. Pruyn and his bride will make their home in Chicago.

Miss Wheeler Selects Her Wedding Party

Ceremony to Take Place in Lake Forest.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE is nothing like a wedding for bringing together old friends whom marriage has taken to different cities, so society is looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to the wedding of Miss Eleanor Wheeler and Edward H. Lihme, for it means that several of Chicago's daughters who are living elsewhere will return to escort the popular "Ellie" down the aile to the altar of the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest.

The wedding is to take place on Sept. 21 and following the ceremony there will be a reception at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Wheeler.

Mrs. Edgar L. Marston II., the former Florence Carr, who was here earlier in the summer, will come west again from her home in New York to be in Miss Wheeler's wedding party, and the former Marjorie Horton, who with her husband, Winston Elting, is living in Washington, will spend a week here at the time of the nuptials. Miss Wheeler is hoping that Mrs. Eugene du Pont III., the former Margaret Chapman, will come from her home in Richmond, Va., to be a bridesmaid, and that Mrs. Alfred Uihlein [Paula Uihlein] will be able to come from Baltimore for the occasion. Mrs. Uihlein and her baby, Paula Melita, born Thursday at the Grant hospital, will be joining Dr. Uihlein in Baltimore in a few weeks.

Mrs. du Pont has a baby daughter, also, who may prevent her coming west, but hers is older, having been born on June 5, so her friends are hoping she will be able to come to Lake Forest for the wedding of her very good friend. Little Miss du Pont is named for her mother.

Miss Jane Brooks, Miss Edith Behr, and Mrs. John P. Porter will complete the quota of bridesmaids and Miss Christabel Wheeler will attend her sister as maid of honor.

Harold H. Lihme will serve his brother as best man. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. C. Bai Lihme of New York, formerly of Chicago, so the bridegroom has asked several Chicagoans to be among the ushers—namely, Mr. Porter, Philip B. Hosmer Jr., and W. Edwin Stanley Jr.

Dancing Party for Miss Davis.

Miss Isabel Davis and her mother, Mrs. Charles S. Davis, returned from their summer home at Northport Point, Mich., yesterday so that Miss Davis could attend a dinner-dance tonight that Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Donnelley and the Gaylord Donnelleys are giving at the Onwentsia for Isabel and her husband-to-be, John Drum.

On Monday morning Miss Davis and her mother will return to Northport Point, where the wedding is to take place on Aug. 17. The members of the bridal party will go to the point next Saturday and the next week will be filled with gay parties for the popular couple and their attendants. This coming Wednesday night Mrs. George B. Dryden will give a dinner at her home at Northport Point for Miss Davis.

The Thursday before the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Davis, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, will give a dinner-dance at the Park Place hotel in Traverse City.

On the day before the wedding Mrs. William W. Rockwood from Indianapolis will give a buffet luncheon, and that night Mrs. Charles S. Davis is to give the bridal dinner at her home. There are to be many other parties, whose final plans await the arrival at the point of the bridal party. One of them will be a cocktail party Mr. and Mrs. Paul Davies are to have on either Tuesday or Wednesday of the wedding week. There are also to be several parties aboard the Verano, the Davis' new yacht now at Northport.

Leavitt-Platt Nuptials Today.

Several Chicagoans are in St. Louis today for the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Leavitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Leavitt of that city, and Edward Vilas Platt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Platt of Chicago and Manitowoc, Wis. The Chicagoans include the bride's brother, David Leavitt; the bridegroom's parents and his sisters, Mrs. Baird Jacob and Miss Caroline Platt; Walter Frazier, Howard Raftery, and Shepard Vogelgesang.

The wedding will take place at 5:30 this afternoon in the Bossinger chapel of Christ church, Canon Remick officiating. Following the ceremony there will be a reception at the McPherson avenue residence of the bride's parents. Only relatives and a few intimate friends were invited to attend the wedding and reception. Mr. and Mrs. Platt will be at home after Oct. 1 at 43 East Division street.

Mrs. Harry Knox of Seattle, formerly of Chicago, is in town and is the center of a quiet round of entertaining. She is visiting Mrs. Horatio B. Hackett. Mr. Knox will arrive next week.

Mrs. Hackett gave a luncheon and bridge party for Mrs. Knox yesterday and Mrs. Charles W. McNear has planned a similar party for her next Tuesday. Mrs. Frederick Lawrence and Mrs. Roy Woodland will give luncheons next Thursday and Friday, respectively. Mrs. Knox will spend this week-end with the W. E. Macfarlanes in Lake Forest.

Col. Hackett is having an interesting trip across and around the United States inspecting PWA work. He and a staf of men are making the trip by airplane. He will arrive in Chicago a HANOVER, Germany.—Wandering under the fine old linden trees at Schloss Herrenhausen, where those Hanovers who came to the British throne had their home, one tries to recall history. It was from this palace that George Louis came reluctantly to St. James's palace, after the death of Queen Anne, bringing his ugly, elderly German favorites with him, to be the first of the four Georges.

Sophia, electress of Hanover, mother of George Louis, who would have been queen of England had she lived two months longer, lived here, and died on that very spot in the gardens marked by her statue. The statue gleams white down the vista of formal gardens, as we slowly approach it and sink down on a bench in the shade of the great trees of a driveway to reread what Clara Laughlin says, in her book on Germany, about Herrenhausen and these gardens. They were laid out by Le Notre soon after he planned those at Versailles, and are said to be the finest examples of French formal gardening in Germany. Miss Laughlin helpfully quotes part of Thackeray's lecture on the Four Georges. Miss Laughlin's books should accompany every traveler.

ROYAL Hanoverians once strolled down these paths and sat in the shade of these beautiful trees, but today a young mother in pink gingham wheels her baby up and down, and a second young woman embroiders a tea cloth, her flaxen head bent over her work. Few persons are to be seen and the gardens, although of surpassing beauty, have not been kept to perfection. The palace is closed to the public, but the work of renovation is under way, and it soon will be thrown open, we were told.

At the "Family museum," an annex to the schloss, an old man who had been a servant to the last queen of Hanover showed us the portraits and royal souvenirs. He had served her for 26 years in Austria, after the king was banished for throwing in his lot against Prussia in the Austro-Prussian war of 1866, he said. The old custodian wore a royal crown as a scarf pin, and he proudly showed us the full length portrait of the queen he had served so many years.

"I was her room servant," he said.

OUT in the green shade again, we chatted with a German who had been a soldier in the great war. He had small regard for royalty, or for Herr Hitler, for that matter. He was the first person we have conversed with in Germany—and we have drawn a number of average folk, who are little concerned with politics and diplomacy, into conversation—who spoke his mind freely. The others have side-stepped when asked point-blank their feeling for Hitler.

"We don't talk about it," said one, after an expressive gesture, when asked if he approved of Hitler. Others have said he had done some good for Germany but seemed to have little faith in what more he could do. The man in the park today wore a service button in his lapel. He had served three years in the war. Never again would he fight, he said. The average German has no stomach for war. Were there to be another war he and others would be ordered into service. They would go, but at the sound of the guns they would go back home. They would refuse to fight, he said. Why, even before the armistice in the great war they were so sick of it they hardly obeyed orders. The enemy had felt the same way about it. As for Hitler—no, no Hitler for him. Hitler had lost standing after the thirtieth of June incident, when he had had his friends—men who had helped him to power—shot to death.

Concerts Give New Idea of Public Taste

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It is a good thing for the soul to go out to the concerts in Grant park these evenings, particularly for the soul of the person who thinks he knows what kind of music the public wants. Last night's program was a brilliant example.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra played under the direction of Eric DeLamarter. The first part of the program was all Beethoven, the "Egmont" overture and the whole of the "Eroica" symphony. The second part began with the suite from Stravinsky's "Fire Bird," and continued with a movement from MacDowell's "Indian" suite and Dukas' "Sorcerer's Apprentice," concluding with Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody.

With the exception of the last number this was all wrong in the opinion of every one who ever talked about a popular program, since it was so decisively on the side of the lofty brows. But the result was one of the largest audiences not of a week-end or holiday that has assembled since the series began. Also at the end of the symphony Mr. DeLamarter and the orchestra received one of the heartiest ovations that have been tendered since the series began.

Wherefore a new set of theories would seem to be in order.

The same orchestra with the same conductor will play again tonight. John Weicher, the acting concert master of the organization, will be the violin soloist. The program:

1. Overture, "Le Carnaval Romain," opus 9 ..... Berlioz
2. Symphony, D minor ..... Franck
3. "Havanaise," opus 83 ..... Saint-Saëns [For violin and orchestra.]
4. Prelude to Act III., "Natoma" ..... Herbert
5. Suite, from "Mary Janos" ..... Kodaly

Paris Stylists Fail to Agree on Waistlines

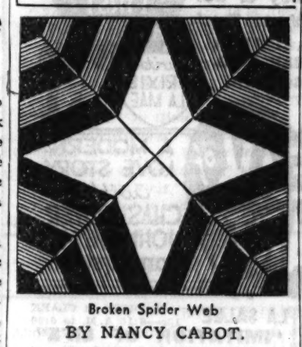
Most of the others held waists at the slenderized normal line of an inch or two below, but fashion observers were beginning to wonder just where the 1936 waistline was.

Dilkusha exhibited the longest street skirts shown this season. They reached to within five or seven inches of the ground.

Day frocks in the Dilkusha collection were designed with big sleeves and skirts, having decided fullness in front and back and falling in soft folds reminiscent of Russian frocks. They were fashioned of soft wools in black, emerald, and madonna blue and mahogany brown, and were trimmed with belts having Russian eagle clips of Persian turquoise buttons.

Winter coats launched by Heim furnished another fashion surprise with their very wide shoulders, sometimes extending two inches outside of the normal line. They were designed in black, brown, mulberry, and forest green wools with mutton leg sleeves and astrakhan collars.

Quilt Pattern Is Reminiscent of Quiet and Spooks



Broken Spider Web

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Broken Spider Web" definitly recalls the out of doors, early morning walks across dew laden grass, or deserted houses said to be haunted. The material used to create this illusion of broken webs is a fine red and white hair line striped gingham. The white in the center of the patch is a concession to the quilt maker, who is allowed to display her artistic ability or ingenuity. Fifteen pieced and plain blocks, measuring 15 inches square, are used for an entire coverlet. The border of the quilt is a narrow 3 inch band of solid red.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Good Morning!

The arena is a newspaper beat. The background—a newspaper setting, with scrawled caricatures of editors, reporters, copy boys, and other strange creatures connected with this fascinating profession of ours, running around loose. And the male and female who engage in conflict to the death [figuratively speaking] are the star reporter of one sheet and the cub sob sister of another who, on their every day human being side, are in love with each other.

Here you meet Ellen Garfield, who's never seen anything of the sort before, and Curt Devlin, who has tasted of the grisly waters of such horrors till his lips have ceased to shrink.

This seasoned, hard boiled representative of the press begs the slim, blonde, trembling, determined probationer to go off and lie down somewhere and let him "cover" for her. But no. Garfield sticks it out—and from then on the story is concerned with her efforts to prove to Devlin that she's every bit as able a newspaper man as he is, and to make him admit that fact. Or ELSE!

Or else—WHAT?

Or else she won't marry him.

Now when George Brent gets up on his ear—that's something. And when Bette Davis gets up on her ear—that is also something. So—if you don't believe the fur flies in this opus, why —see the piece, will you?

In it you have Mr. Brent at his best. It's plain to see that he liked both his rôle and his leading woman and he acts with vim most refreshing to behold. As for Bette, she proves that she's every bit as good at light comedy as she is portraying psychopathic cases just one hop from the insane asylum—which is being very, very good, indeed.

I don't know any other actress who has blossomed out so alluringly from a hard little bud as has she. She's proved one of the delightful surprises of my movie going life.

Able direction, a good supporting cast, dialog plummed with laughs and situations that are amusing and exciting, if not always plausible, make "Front Page Woman" aces as summer cinema fare.

Sally's Guests Enjoy Game at Sox Park

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Victory for the home team is not absolutely essential in order to have a good time at Comiskey park. I personally know one hundred children who gave proof of that yesterday afternoon.

Accompanied by fifty boys and fifty girls, who were J. Louis Comiskey's guests, we saw the game between the Chicago White Sox and the St. Louis Browns, and in spite of the unruly thermometer and the rain which threatened early in the day we had one swell time!

Box seats were provided for us—on the shady side of the field, too. Luke Sewell, the Sox catcher, came over to meet my small guests and chatted with them, answering questions and giving autographs during the few minutes he had before going to work.

Provided with pop, we settled back to watch the game, which was exciting. Do these young fans know their baseball! They'd call the plays immediately and accurately, even before most people seemed to know what was going on.

The game was close for the first half, which gave my guests plenty of chance to get excited and shout and applaud, which they naturally loved doing. After the sixth inning we had ice cream.

Although the game ended with the Browns on the long end of a score of 10 to 8, my guests were thrilled with having seen it, and are confident, so they told me, of the future progress of the Sox. Finally the youngsters all headed for home, grateful to Mr. Comiskey for a delightful afternoon.

The Husband Snatcher

By Elizabeth York Miller.

SYNOPSIS.

Nancy and Dick Heritage have been married for two years and are still greatly in love. Though Nancy is hated by Edith Heritage, her mother-in-law, she is coming to live with them in their little house in Primrose Dene, near London. There is a gap of four years in Nancy's life which she had not satisfactorily accounted for. Nancy receives a letter from Mr. Sam Digger, attorney, informing her that she had been remembered in the will of Miss Agnes Satchell, late governor of a girls' reformatory, where Nancy had been committed for four years. Nancy had been employed by a Mrs. Lane and was accused of theft. Sylvia, Mrs. Lane's daughter, was the real culprit. Sylvia threatened to kill herself if Nancy exposed her. Nancy foolishly took the blame, though she possessed a signed confession from Sylvia. Miss Satchell believed in Nancy's innocence. Nancy calls on Mr. Digger and receives a check for £5,000. Edith Heritage arrives and has a quarrel before dinner with Minnie, Nancy's maid.

INSTALMENT VI.

A HORRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Dick piled up the dishes on a tray, and Nancy brought the souffle from the kitchen and afterwards the coffee.

Mrs. Heritage said: "You look rather like a waiter, Dick—except, of course, your coat hasn't got tails. Aren't you getting a little bit fat, my dear? All this rich food. It can't be very good for you. And so expensive, I should think. That's why you're so hard up, I imagine. Perhaps Nancy is a wee bit extravagant. I thought so when I saw her get out of that taxi."

This, however, was said in a tone of good nature; it might even have passed for badinage.

Mrs. Heritage had enjoyed her dinner, although there had been moments when she pretended not to do so. She had enjoyed, too, the controversy over Minnie's baths and refusal to wear a cap.

They took the coffee tray on to the veranda, and then Nancy excused herself and hurried back to the kitchen.

She had to placate Minnie in some way and she was rather dreading it.

Minnie, sitting amidst the débris of dinner, was in tears and most of her defiance had evaporated.

Yes, she had been rude to Mrs. Heritage. She could see that plainly now; but she never would have done so if Mrs. Heritage hadn't first been rude to her.

Wear a cap—no, she couldn't!—not ever, for anybody.

"Mr. Heritage's mother seems to think it's rather important," Nancy said in a coaxing tone.

"I think it's important, too—the way I feel about it, ma'am. I always try to do my work properly and keep myself neat, and nobody's ever complained of me before."

"I'm not complaining of you now," Nancy said, her voice a little severe.

"No, ma'am, but my mother always said: 'Never take service in a house where there's more than one mistress.' So if you'll forgive me, ma'am, I think I'll be giving my notice. I can see it's not going to be very agreeable here. You've always been most kind, ma'am—you and the young master—and I do hope you don't think me ungrateful."

Nancy's temper flared up.

"So you're going to desert me, are you? At the very first upset. Yes, Minnie, I'm sorry to say I do think you are ungrateful. I expected something a little bit better from you."

And now it was Nancy who

She felt ashamed of herself almost at once, and might have gone back and tried to come to more friendly terms with Minnie, except for the fact that she heard Dick calling to her. His voice sounded queer—excited, and at the same time compassionate.

Dick had an evening paper in his hand and looked somewhat worried. Even his mother seemed to regard her daughter-in-law with a shade more of benevolence than Nancy had ever hoped to expect from her.

"Be careful, Dick. Break it to her gently," said Edith. "Sit down, Nancy. Dick's seen something in the paper that sounds like bad news. But of course, you never can tell, it may not be true. You can't believe everything you read."

What news in the paper could possibly affect her, thought Nancy.

Nevertheless, she was a little apprehensive as she questioned her husband.

It turned out, indeed, to be horrible news; it made her blood run cold, and for a moment she thought she was going to faint.

There had been one of those uprisings in northern China, and foreigners had been attacked, notably among them being the family of one Andrew Horsman, including himself, his wife, Laura Horsman, his son, Michael, and his daughter, Daphne.

Laura Horsman was Nancy Heritage's aunt. The report said that these people together with a doctor and a nurse attached to the mission, had all been assassinated.

Probably questions would be asked in parliament and a full investigation demanded.

All the same, as was the case with Miss Satchell, she felt a sense of loneliness mingled with her natural horror at the fate of her relatives.

Now, indeed, she had nobody in the world but Dick. This catastrophe in far off China had wiped out everybody else who had the remotest interest in Nancy Heritage.

There is one curious aspect of misfortune. It can make other people unexpectedly kind to the sufferer. Nancy suddenly found herself weeping. Her nerves were badly unhinged—so many strange things had happened that day—and she could let herself go on the strength of this tragedy which had carried away her aunt's family.

She wept not so much for the poor Horsmans as for Nancy Heritage, who seemed to have lost so much, who had a mother-in-law on her hands, whose capable servant had given notice, who had been left a legacy she dare not mention, and who very likely was going to have a baby. Indeed, the list of things to weep for was formidable.

But the mother-in-law suddenly became kind and produced a bottle of eau de Cologne to bathe Nancy's forehead; and Minnie dashed wildly out to a little shop in the High street which kept open late, and came back with something rather fearful and wonderful in the way of caps.

Minnie also apologized to Edith Heritage who gracefully accepted her amends, and it was tacitly admitted that the notice to leave had been rescinded.

The next morning it was raining and the weather had turned unexpectedly cold.

As a rule, Nancy was out of bed almost as soon as Minnie went downstairs, for once Dick got into the bathroom there was little hope for anybody else. This morning, however, a sensation of faintness overcame her when she raised her head from the pillow, and she had to lie down again, her heart beating rather fast as she realized the significance of this phenomenon.

It must be true, then; she was going to have a baby. Yesterday when she had run to the extravagance of that taxi, it had been because of the same sort of faintness. But this attack was worse than yesterday's; it was like acute sea sickness, and made her feel as though she wanted to die.

She lay there wondering how on earth she was going to get up, and how—if she didn't get up—the household would manage without her.

When she felt Dick stirring, Nancy closed her eyes and pretended to be asleep.

"Great Scott! Do you know what time it is?"

Nancy murmured something inarticulate.

"After eight. I say, hadn't you better get a move on you, old lady? There's a button come off my coat. I forgot to tell you last night. It's in the right hand pocket. What a day! Raining cats and dogs. And you might put out some fresh underwear for me. Do you think you can find a pair of socks that haven't been darned?" Dick yawned again. "I say, Nance, aren't you listening?"

"No," said Nancy with a groan.

Dick turned and looked at her in astonishment, and then he exclaimed: "What's the matter? Your face is all yellow."

"I don't feel very well," said Nancy.

"Then you'd better stay where you are," he said in a grudging tone.

Dick was a healthy young man and illness in other people got precious little sympathy from him.

Osage Orange Tree Added to Museum Wood Display

An exhibit of the Osage orange tree, whose wood was prized by Indians for making war clubs and bows, has been added to the Charles F. Millspaugh hall of North American woods at the Field Museum of Natural History. The first white men to know of the tree were 17th century French settlers in Louisiana, who named it bois d'arc [bow wood], said Llewelyn Williams, assistant curator of economic botany at the museum. The tree's natural range lies across Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Texas, but it also grows in Illinois and other central states.

The Child Needs Two Naps Daily Until He's Two

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

I always dislike laying down rules about children's schedules because children and conditions vary so, and particularly in regard to naps.

At the sixth month a baby should have a morning nap of one and one-half to two hours, and an afternoon nap from two to two and one-half hours.

From one to two years the morning nap may be shortened or changed into a rest time, but the afternoon nap should still be from one and one-half to two and one-half hours. If the morning nap is omitted it is well to arrange several fifteen minute rest periods, one particularly before the noon meal. Rest aids digestion and also, at this age, the body is proportionately heavy for the legs and getting a child off his feet is advisable.

From two to three years: Do not let him sleep more than two hours in the afternoon as he will not sleep so well at night. If he is getting too much sleep shorten the afternoon nap and let him go to bed a little later.

From three to five years: See that he still gets his morning rest even if he doesn't sleep, and his afternoon nap. If he is getting too much sleep shorten this latter, let him rest before his supper, and his bed time can be postponed somewhat.

From five to six years: School begins about this time for most children. Unfortunately, only a few schools provide rest periods for the children at this age, whether they attend for the full school day or the half day. Work in at least one rest period between school and your child's supper.

If the child goes to school in the morning only, he should have:

A rest before his midday meal.

A rest before his supper.

A longer sleep at night [if your child is of a type to feel the strain, tension, and excitement of school]. In any case it is often wise to arrange this until your child has become accustomed to school.

If the child goes to school for the full day, then it is only possible to arrange a rest time before the evening meal and to see that he has adequate sleep to compensate for the loss of naps and rests, and for the added excitement of school.

In planning the child's day it is important to so arrange it that fatigue, too, is prevented.

Remember that:

Naps, if possible, should be out of doors, and the eyes should be protected from the sun.

We are not stressing rest too much! That is hardly possible.

Author Ferber Is Disappointed in Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Edna Ferber, who is here collaborating on the screen form of her story, "Come and Get It," says she is disappointed in Hollywood, "because I expected to find it the silliest town in existence. But instead I have found it peopled with a great number of persons of good sense and genuine culture."

Her employer, Sam Goldwyn, producer, put Miss Ferber under orders not to give interviews about what she thinks or sees in Hollywood other than general sentiments such as the above; Goldwyn's reason is that Miss Ferber is supposed to be concentrating her ideas and expressions for her movie writing task.

Fred Stone's movie rôle was so well received at Radio studio, where he has just finished in support of Katharine Hepburn in "Alice Adams," that the studio jumped his salary and put him under renewed contract for long film service. He played Miss Hepburn's movie father.

Talking to a group after the local professional preview of his "The Crusades," which, incidentally, impressed this observer as the most vivid De Mille film ever made, C. B. De Mille stated that it would be impossible for him to make one of his semi-historic spectacles about a character whom he did not personally admire.

De Mille thinks the cavalry charge in which his Saracen army rides headlong into the galloping Christian knights in "The Crusades" represents one of the two spectacular high spots of his long career as a producer and director of movie hits, the other high spot being his division of the Red Sea for the Israelites in "The Ten Commandments," nearly 15 years ago.

The strangest hobby yet encountered in Hollywood is that of Frieda Innescourt and her husband, Ben Ray Redman, New York writer. They take each October off and go to Spain because they both are crazy about seeing the grand opening of the bull fight season.

"Cold Plates to Tempt Summer Appetites," a booklet of hot weather combination plates with recipes, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Much rather than embroiling ourselves in the weekly question flood, we'd like to talk [and think] about the newest addition to the booklet fold. It's "Cold Plates to Tempt Summer Appetites"—a collection of all sorts of refreshing summer plate meals. We planned the combinations with an eye to their ease of preparation, as well as their attractive appearance and flavor combination and, all in all, we'd just as soon stick to those very menus for all of our summer eating from now on!

But still there are numerous interesting questions piled on the desk, just as deserving in the way of attention. Here goes, on a few of them:

The first is an all absorbing one to mothers of small children. Mrs. I. S. of Chicago writes: "I have two small children who, I know, should eat cooked cereals. They are good about it, really, but they do tire of it. This is my problem: How can I use dry cereals, such as white and yellow cornmeal and oatmeal in cookie form?"

We sent several such cookie recipes to Mrs. S., but probably more interesting to the general reader would be a list of other suggestions for making cooked cereal more tempting. Rather than transforming it into a sweet, it's possible to dress it with honey or brown sugar or fruit [fresh, canned, or dried] for a substantial and wholesome breakfast dish; serve it hot in the place of mashed potatoes, with creamed chicken, meat, fish, or vegetables over the top; mix it with flaked fish and crisp celery or green pepper, shape it in a loaf, and chill to serve as a main course semi-salad, or combine it with dried fruit to serve with a hard sauce for dessert.

"How do you cook Canadian bacon?" queries E. R. R. Thin slices of Canadian bacon are broiled or pan broiled just as is regular bacon. If the bacon comes in a whole piece [it is nothing more than the loin of the pork, smoked and cured] it is possible to bake it just as you would bake ham, with a sugar glaze and fruit garnish.

Buffet Supper Tonight for Admiral Bassett.

A party on tonight's calendar is one Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Burnham are giving on the terrace of their Evanston home for Admiral Frederic Bassett, who is here visiting his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. Harney Bassett. The Burnhams are giving a buffet supper followed by music.

Members of the Chicago Golf club in Wheaton who are planning to dine and dance tonight at the annual swimming pool party are praying that it will be a nice night, for otherwise it will be an indoors party.

Up at Waukazoo, Mich., the highlight this week-end will be a horse show which is to take place this afternoon. There will be several Chicagoans participating, as well as numerous others in the sidelines who are members of various week-end house parties. Mrs. Roger Q. White, who is to be one of the riders, is entertaining Mr. and Mrs. John D. Ames and their small son, Johnny.

Dance Party Tonight at Flossmoor Club.

The Flossmoor Country club is holding a midsummer dance tonight following dinner. There will be a special bridge-luncheon this noon, followed by a lecture on bridge by Mrs. Richard Peyton. Golfing events have been arranged for men, with prizes for the winners in various handicapped flights.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron S. Harvey Jr. will arrive at home tomorrow from a vacation in California. They will move to Kansas City on Sept. 20. Mr. Harvey's mother, Mrs. Byron S. Harvey, accompanied her son and daughter-in-law as far west as New Mexico, where she still is.

END PLAY.

Personally I have always favored the squeeze, but those with whom I play admit to a fondness for strip or end plays. It is always possible to prepare the hand for an end play more or less mechanically; but a squeeze requires that you keep your wits about you. Along about 2 a. m., when the last yawning rubber is in process, mechanical plays are definitly leading the popularity contest.

1. Rather than give immediate support to the clubs, North takes the opportunity of showing the ace of diamonds at the game level.

2. Now he shows the king of clubs and the bidding is still under six. South can sign off at five spades, if he so chooses. Naturally South does not so choose.

West didn't know what to open. He was afraid of diamonds—ace, ten in dummy and king in the South hand—he was afraid of hearts, and he was terrified of clubs. Therefore he opened a trump. South won and set about the business of stripping the hand. One could never tell when a throw-in might come in handy.

A heart was led from the board and trumped. A diamond was played to the ace and another heart led back. South won by ruffing and played a spade to the jack in order to clear the last heart from the North hand. The play of the king and another diamond [trumped by North] disposed of the diamond suit in both hands. The stage was set.

South played the king of clubs and a small club. When East showed out, he simply ducked the club into the West hand with palpably fatal results for the defending team. All of which proves that too many precautions can never be taken in the play of a slam contract.

HONOLULU, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Shirley Temple, child movie actress, caused a 30 minute shutdown at a Honolulu pineapple cannery today. Hundreds of men and women workers of many races and racial mixtures stopped working to get a glimpse of the curly haired star, despite the fact the plant was in the middle of a rush season and running full blast.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Willa Cather Writes Idyl of Spiritual Love

"Lucy Gayheart" Makes Use of New Technique.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

APPARENTLY there is something lucky for me about Willa Cather's books. The last one, "Shadows on the Rock," I read on a heavenly lonely voyage back from Europe. Her newest one I read on a heavenly and far from lonely voyage to Quebec. It is really on account of "Shadows on the Rock" that we are on our way now to Quebec. It made me know that some day I must see Quebec . . . must approach it just as it was approached in that lovely record, from the sea.

And just so I shall see it for the first time, looming from the great river that loves the sea so deeply that it carries its salt savor for five hundred miles inland with it.

And how more appropriately could one approach Quebec than with "Lucy Gayheart"? Not that she ever approached it. Chicago was her city of dreams. From the soil of Nebraska to Chicago and back to the soil of Nebraska she made her beautiful and tragic way. Truly gay at heart, the gayety of youth essenced in her smile, the toss of her head, the eagerness in her eye, Lucy came to Chicago in 1902 to study music. She heard a great singer in concert and left the hall uplifted. By chance she became his practice accompanist and such love and passionate happiness in the relationship which grew up between them is rarely chronicled in a book, as it is rarely existent in life.

Immortal Lovers in Spiritual Sense.

Sebastian, disillusioned as he neared 50, saddened in love and in life, had a renascence of all of the things that make life worth the living in Lucy's love. Something delicate, fragile, and yet incomparably powerful joined their spirits. In the technical sense of the word they were never lovers. In the spiritual sense they were immortal ones.

The idyl of Lucy and Sebastian is one of the few real ones in modern literature. But it is not as an idyl that "Lucy Gayheart" will be read, loved, and remembered, but as a statement that the loveliest things are those which die . . . and also as a statement that it is not what one does about life so much as what one thinks that is indelible.

For the last third of the book is concerned with twenty-five years in the life of Harry Gordon, who had walked away from Lucy in the Auditorium hotel in 1902 because he believed her to be the mistress of Sebastian, and who had walked straight into a marriage which had given him material but not spiritual comfort. But for him Lucy Gayheart might not have died and, although he never admitted it to any one, for twenty-five years his life had been fundamentally influenced by that fact. The subtle power which Lucy exerted over him was not lessened by time, never would be until he, too, died, the reader knows.

There probably will be criticism of Miss Cather's technique in "Lucy Gayheart." It is composed of three books, the first of which is concerned with Lucy in her natural and unawakened youthful joy, the second with her romance and its tragic ending and her listless and futile struggle to find something to tie to in life, her discovery that life, not Sebastian, was destined to be her lover, and the sharp cutting off forever of that destiny. The third book is concerned with the deathless power which the dead Lucy exerted on Harry Gordon, who had loved her.

Technique Daring, but Successful!

It is a daring technique, but, as Miss Cather said to me when I saw her a few weeks ago, "I see no reason why one cannot write a novel as a composer writes a symphony," and that is almost exactly the form of "Lucy Gayheart."

I find Miss Cather's technical experimentations highly stimulating. Oddly enough, although she always has written books which are so characteristically her own as to be recognizably Willa Cather whatever her theme or technique, she has done more actual experimentation in technique than most of the so-called experimentalists.

That she writes a beautiful and classic prose does not mean at all that she uses always the classical novel form. She has taken the technique of music before for her model, notably in "The Professor's House." Even in "Shadows on the Rock," for it is such sheer ecstasy of prose as to be like a lovely, pure, clear melody. "My Mortal Enemy" is a tense contrapuntal exercise so deft that it is startling. "A Lost Lady," an aria echoed, re-echoed, worked over in overtones.

"Lucy Gayheart" is, like all of Willa Cather's books, written with distinction and beauty. In my opinion Miss Cather will be remembered in that mythical hundred years as the outstanding woman novelist of her generation.

MYSTERY OF THE WEEK

BY MORTIMER QUICK

Almost too obvious is the contrast between the name and the content of "The Rose Petal Murders" [Bobbs-Merrill], by Charles G. Givens. It will surprise you to hear that it's one of those tough egg newspaper stories, no moving tale of lost love, and that the corpse which lies smothered in flowers is an objectionable kind of an editor, not a fair young girl.

It is written throughout in the vernacular; everybody swears and drinks a great deal and the hearts of gold are deeply imbedded in bodies of brass, but on the whole it's pretty exciting and interesting.

Quite early in the book you begin to descry the murderer, proceed to the end wishful that you may be wrong to find to your sorrow you are right.

The theory of the book is that the really expert killer goes straight to the point without elaboration and that the bedizened murders herein described could only have been done by the rankest amateur. Mr. Givens crusades a little, too, for police and newspaper men, both so misunderstood by the common reader of mystery stories, and he preaches a little at both estates so that they won't feel too cocky. It's all smart, knowing and queerly absorbing. You'll read it with enormous interest if you read it at all.

In contrast is "Deathblow Hill [W. W. Norton & Co., Inc.], by Phoebe Atwood Taylor, recorder of Asey Mayo's bucolic exploits. If all the murders Asey unriddles really occurred on Cape Cod it would lose its rating as a nice, cool, quiet place to spend the summer and take rank as our premier school of crime, which makes it a little hard to believe that the goings on so ably described by Mrs. Taylor are anything but flights of fancy. Since, after all, most murder stories are no more than that, this is probably unfair criticism. Asey does not say a great many comical things in his native idiom and the scene is nicely set, so if, like the White Queen, you have learned to believe as many as six impossible things before breakfast you'll get befuddlement and amusement out of the book.

"What Do You Know About Crime?" [Stokes], by Edward Hale Bierstadt, will teach you more about crime and punishment in a scant hundred pages than all the reports of all the famous trials in history. It holds within its covers material for a thousand detective stories and unmasks the errors of a thousand detective story writers.

It also tests your knowledge of details, which you thought you knew all about, and reveals the fact that you can't put a name to them to save your life. If I wrote mystery stories instead of disparaging them, I would keep it ever before me for reference and restraint. It's a grand little book and should be added to your inspirational reading matter.

Doris Moore Pens Another Intense Novel

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—Some years ago an anonymous book appeared in London which caused a considerable amount of talk among all sorts of readers. It was called "The Technique of the Love Affair." The author was presently to be known by name as Miss Doris Langley Moore, and Miss Moore consolidated her reputation with an unusually candid biography of "E. Nesbit," the wife of Hubert Bland, and a character subsequently described by H. G. Wells with added piquancy in his "Experiment in Autobiography."

But Miss Moore has also written a novel of quality in "A Winter's Passion," published three or four years ago by Heinemann, and her second novel, "The Unknown Eros," is shortly to appear with Martin Secker.

Both novels have a peculiar graciousness and quietness which mark them out from the ordinary range of modern fiction. They are clear, subtle, and distinguished—the work of a woman of culture and great insight.

They deal with the life of men and women of leisure. They have certain affinities with the earlier novels of Henry James, but are better founded upon a knowledge of English social conditions, and despite the coolness of their presentation are full of intensity. This gives them a rareness which many readers may find distasteful but which other readers will welcome. I shall be surprised if "The Unknown Eros" does not make its mark upon fastidious minds.

A book which is being much praised here for its originality, albeit faintly damned also for its slightness, is Mr. [or Miss] D. M. Low's "This Sweet Work" [Chatto & Windus], a tale describing the emancipation by rather non-Victorian means of a young woman who was devoted to her widowed and daughter-destroying mother.

As a rule, translations from the French do not meet with much success in England, largely because the people who care for French novels can read them in French, and the people who do not read French prefer home products. But the prospects for "The Wolf at the Door" [Allen & Unwin] should be brighter. This is a long novel by a young Frenchman who uses the name "Robert Francis," and it was awarded the "Prix Femina" in 1934 when it was published under the title "La Grange aux Trois Belles."

It is partly fantasy and partly a realistic picture of French provincial life—an uncommon mixture which may have its literary influence on future writers. The author regards his literary forbears as Alain Fournier, Dickens, and Hans Andersen; is still well under thirty, and while he was writing this book was forced to undergo treatment at Venice in the sanitarium next to the one in which D. H. Lawrence stayed.

'Murder of Romanovs' Gives Account of Death of Czar

"The Murder of the Romanovs," by Capt. Paul Bulygin [McBride], is an authentic account of the incredible last days of the Romanovs. It is told with passion, unabated by sixteen years, by one who frantically tried to reach the imprisoned czar. A long record by Alexander Kerensky gives another view of "The Road to the Tragedy." The book classes as source material, and is introduced by Sir Bernard Pares.

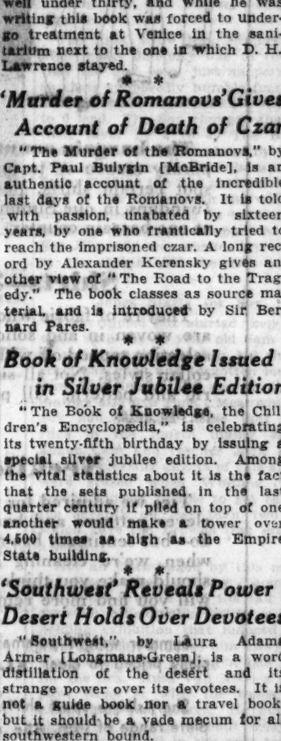
'Southwest' Reveals Power Desert Holds Over Devotees

"Southwest," by Laura Adams Armer [Longmans-Green], is a word distillation of the desert and its strange power over its devotees. It is not a guide book nor a travel book, but it should be a vade mecum for all southwestern bound.



Mysterious Author of 'Death Ship' Pens New Adventure Tale

The mysterious "B. Traven," whose "Death Ship" was one of last year's unsolved literary puzzles—was it fiction or autobiography, and who was the author?—has turned to land for his newest work, "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre" [Knopf].

This is frankly a thriller with Mexico as the locale and three of the most un-American Yankees who ever wandered through an adventure story as the principals. About the only bit of information that has leaked out about the baffling Mr. Traven is that he is a South American. That he is not an American is proven by the weird profanity, unintelligible slang and fantastic vernacular of this strange trio of treasure hunters.

If the reader isn't funny about these "Yankees" talking like foreigners from some unguessable country, he'll probably get quite a few thrills out of this peculiar story.

We believe, however, that the publishers should read copy more carefully on B. Traven's peculiarities; he transcends all good taste by using words never used in mixed society and seldom by male readers.

Roadside Bookstore Finds Tourists Take Time to Browse

Motorists driving near Traverse City, Mich., have come across an unusual roadside stand. Instead of gasoline, hot dogs, or frozen custard, it sells nothing but books and prints. Of a type common in Europe, especially Paris, this highway book stall is rare, indeed, in America. Its owner, J. C. 'SANDHOG HOLES THROUGH' IN BIG HUDSON TUNNEL

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—An ungainly looking, gray haired man, mud besmeared, and with even his spectacles dripping ooze, popped significantly out of a 2 foot pipe 75 feet under the Hudson river at 12:18 p. m. today.

Eager hands reached out for him as he flopped very much unlike the man on the flying trapese, for he was the premier danseur of the Midtown tunnel's opening matinee, the first man to hole through from New Jersey.

This was the culmination of the first important phase of the tunnel that will connect 39th street with Weehawken, a project that will cost $37,500,000. It will not be ready for trafic, however, until early in the winter of 1938.

Port Funds Are Used.

Started under PWA auspices with the full amount promised, the work is now being carried on wholly with funds raised by the port of New York authority, which expects to get along with this money for at least another year. The government was repaid recently the $12,300,000 it had advanced on account.

Today's occasion was a sort of dress rehearsal for newspaper men and photographers. Before approaching the tunnel they were made to bare their chests and a doctor listened to their hearts and tapped them to make sure they could resist the "bends" and the "blind staggers" after returning from the compressed air under the river.

After walking across a narrow plank bridge the visitors found themselves between the maw of the tunnel shaft, filled with huge gadgets, and a stretch of the river boiling with big air bubbles.

In Compressed Air Chamber.

There followed a 20 minute period in a compressed air chamber to accustom the visitors to the high pressure below and then they descended to the bottom. With them were Col. Charles S. Gleim, engineer in charge of construction for the port authority, and others.

Half a dozen "sandhogs" with helmets of black steel were working away around the steel bulkhead which, with the compressed air, kept out the river and the silt. There was a great din from drills, the hissing air kept at a pressure of 25 pounds, the rush of water in big hose and acetylene torches.

A workman applied a flame to the steel shield and in a short time had cut a hole three feet in diameter. Through this the connecting pipe, ten feet long, was shoved out and it quickly filled with ooze. Forty sandhogs, guided by mathematical calculations and a smaller connecting pipe, waited for the new tube in the 400 ton shield that had been pushing its way toward New York under the river since last Sept. 29.

Engineer First Through.

Finally it came through and was fitted into an opening. Without waiting to see light through it Harry Stripling, 50 years old, of Elmsford, N. Y., a master mechanic and hydraulic engineer, sprang up, arms stretched forward, and pushed his way into the mud filled opening. He just managed to keep his nose free. Willing hands pushed at his feet as he crawled through to achieve a sandhog's honor of heroes—to be first through a tunnel after months of work.

In a few minutes the gaping watchers on the New York side saw what appeared to be some river monster plop through the opening with a muddy grin. The spectacles reassured them. Col. Gleim, a short, jovial man, did not wait for Stripling to get on his feet. He took his muddy hand and shook it heartily.

JUDGE MAKES EFFORT TO SAVE MARRIAGE OF JEW AND CATHOLIC

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Supreme Court Justice Meier Steinbrink of Brooklyn fought valiantly today to keep a Catholic-Jewish marriage from going on the rocks.

"They still love each other and there is no reason why they cannot live out their lives normally, she to follow her faith devoutly, he his," said the justice, refusing to take the younger of two children away from the Irish mother and give it to the Jewish father.

Jacob Miller, and Helen White Miller were childhood sweethearts. On March 8, 1930, they stood before the altar in St. Gabriel's Roman Catholic church rectory and voiced the holy vows of matrimony.

Six weeks later they stood before Rabbi Louis D. Gross in Union Temple, and there new pledges were given to rear any children as orthodox Jews.

Five years went by, during which Dolores, now aged 4 years, and Robert, 2 months, were born. The religious question became more and more troublesome.

Justice Steinbrink held a long conference today with Father McGrath, Rabbi Gross and Miller's attorney, Edward Z. Jacobson.

"I find that the second promise had no legal validity," he said. "We are endeavoring to save this marriage from going on the rocks. Father McGrath and Rabbi Gross will coöperate."

Hymie Levine Back in City After Leavenworth Term

Hymie Levine, former collector for the Capone syndicate, returned to Chicago yesterday from Leavenworth penitentiary, where he was released Thursday after serving 14½ months of an 18 month sentence for income tax evasion. Levine's sentence was reduced 108 days for good behavior. He was required to report here to Walter K. Urich, government probation officer, in whose charge he will remain until Nov. 17, when his freedom becomes absolute.

NATIONAL GUARD TROOPS MOVING TO CAMP GRANT

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Seven thousand Illinois National Guardsmen will move into Camp Grant here tomorrow to open their annual encampment. The first troops will arrive at 2 a. m., followed hourly throughout the day by other companies.

With the exception of one downstate unit all troops will be moved to the camp over the highway in motor transports.

Tents Are Raised.

Close to 1,000 tents had been raised at the camp this afternoon, and advance details, clad in denims, were hurrying about completing final preparation for the arrival of the guardsmen.

Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, 65th brigade commander and acting commander of the 33d division through the inability of Major General of Militia Roy D. Keehn to be present, will arrive tomorrow morning. Capt. J. A. Reilly, aide to the commanding general, was here today to see that the camp was in readiness for the troops.

Plan Night Maneuvers.

Maneuvers this year will be far different from those of other years. Night maneuvers will be employed as a regular part of the training period for the first time. Forces will be taken to sections of the cantonment during the night to face various war problems. An elaborate machine gun and howitzer school will be conducted by Lieut. Col. Kenneth Buchanan of the 106th cavalry. A musketry school will be supervised by Brig. Gen. Hammond. "Governor's day" will be observed Aug. 15. "Visitor's day" will be Aug. 11.

LOCATE VESSEL BELIEVED SUNK CENTURIES AGO

[Special Correspondent.]

ABOARD SALVAGE SHIP ORPHIR, Aug. 2.—Low, clinging fog, choppy seas, and strong tides prevented the salvage ship Orphir, operating off the Old Head of Kinsale, Irish Free State, from returning to the 1,000 yard area charted yesterday, in which Capt. Henry Dell Russell believes the ill-fated Lusitania lies.

Despite the adverse weather condition Capt. Russell and his dripping crew worked on relentlessly in other areas. At 3:30 p. m. the outline of a wreck appeared on the graph in the control room. Anxiously we waited for the echo sounding apparatus to reveal more accurately the size of the submerged hull.

As we were tossed about mercilessly by the seas the graph recorded the outline of a small wreck buried deeply in the mud of the ocean floor. So completely covered with ocean debris was the vessel that it must have lain there for centuries. Capt. Russell ventured the opinion that it might be one of the twenty-five ships of the Spanish armada which were wrecked along the west coast of Ireland in 1588, or 347 years ago.

It may be one of the Spanish galleons of Philip II.'s armada which is known to have sailed into Kinsale. Perhaps it is the Santa de La Rosa, whose exact location has never been discovered. This vessel went down with all hands as it attempted to escape Sir Francis Drake's men of war.

The answer to these hypotheses is something for historians to investigate. In any event, the wreck was not the Lusitania, and it is the discovery of that alone with which this expedition is concerned.

The fog which delayed us in starting out this morning now descended in an ever thickening mantle. At 5 p. m. we were compelled to discontinue operations for the day and started back to Kinsale.

The Orphir has logged to date 700 miles, criss-crossing over an area of many miles. The section charted today blocks off another fragment of the designated area in which experts have agreed the Lusitania lies.

Tomorrow we hope to return to the 1,000 yard zone where the large hull, upon which our hopes are pinned, remains still buried in the recesses of the sea—a guard to its own secrets.

FAVOR MOVING AIR SCHOOL AT RANTOUL WEST

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Transfer of the Army Air Corps Technical school from Rantoul, Ill., Chanute field, to Denver, Colo., was approved today by the senate military affairs committee.

The subcommittee, headed by Senator Minton [Dem., Ind.], reported to the full committee it found "nothing to impeach the findings" of the special army investigation board which recommended the transfer.

Chairman Sheppard [Dem., Tex.] of the senate military committee said his group concurred unanimously in the report of the subcommittee and will submit it to the war department for action.

Minton's committee held hearings on the proposed transfer, at which members of the Illinois delegation protested against it. Claims and counterclaims were advanced by Illinois and Colorado setting forth advantages of the competing sites.

The committee report, will, in effect, authorize legislation to accomplish the transfer. Sheppard said he was not certain whether the transfer of an existing facility would require additional funds and an appropriation, but that question, he added, was up to the war department or the Colorado delegation.

Bachman Slips to Second Place.

BY ARCH WARD.

Edward Madigan of St. Mary's, Cal., takes the lead this morning in the poll that will decide the staf of coaches for the college All-American football team which meets the Bears Aug. 29 at Soldiers' field.

Madigan owes his lofty position to state-wide support in California, which never does anything half way in sport. In San Francisco alone Madigan yesterday received 94,670 votes. Tiny Thornhill of Stanford, for whom 15,975 were cast yesterday, has urged his friends in the remaining days of the poll to concentrate on Madigan, the only coast coach who appears to have a chance to win.

The San Francisco Chronicle reports that the "Vote for Madigan" organization now includes nearly every club in the bay district. Boosters for Madigan are picketing department store entrances and hardly a person enters who doesn't know that California is united behind the St. Mary's coach as its candidate for the All-Star staf.

Extend Drive to Suburbs.

Crews of Madigan supporters are combing the outlying district around Oakland and San Francisco and it is predicted that nearly 10 per cent of the total population of northern California will have voted for him before the balloting ends tomorrow at midnight.

This was yesterday's vote in San Francisco:

Madigan, St. Mary's	94,670
Thornhill, Stanford	15,975
Lewis, San Francisco U.	4,654
Allison, California	4,618
Smith, Santa Clara	1,206
Shaw, Santa Clara	486
Jones, Southern California	366

Gov. Paul V. McNutt, former dean of the Indiana university law school, spoke over radio station WIND, Gary, for Bo McMillin last night. J. Frank Lindsey, Chicago business man, addressed Indiana fans at the same hour. Fred E. Bryan, also of Chicago, sent word to Bloomington, Ind., last night that the Chicago club of Indiana university will hold a reception and dinner at the Lake Shore Athletic club for alumni who bring in votes for McMillin. A committee will be at the club until midnight tomorrow to accept votes.

"An Honor to State."

Gov. McNutt in his radio address said:

"As one citizen of Indiana speaking to another I am deeply interested in the All-Star charity football game sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. I have known Bo McMillin since he was a player at Centre college. Although he always was spectacular he never failed to play as a member of a team and he has brought the same color and brilliant leadership to the game as a coach.

"All Indiana would do honor to itself to support his candidacy in the national poll now being conducted by THE TRIBUNE and associated newspapers. When he finally is named coach of the College All-Stars, we all shall be proud. Contact your friends and see that they give McMillin a vote."

Bachman Continues Strong.

Charles Bachman of Michigan State, who dropped to second place in the face of the California landslide for Madigan, still is riding high through Michigan, Florida, Kansas and several midwest cities. Thousands of votes for Bachman reached this office yesterday from radio station WJR, Detroit, over which Gov. Frank Fitzgerald spoke in Bachman's behalf Wednesday night. The Florida Times Union of Jacksonville turned in 2,305 first place votes for Bachman yesterday and Grand Rapids added a thousand. The Press, which is handling the poll in Grand Rapids, expects to have at least 25,000 before the final precincts have been heard from. Several voting

From San Francisco's Chinatown yesterday came this ballot for Edward (Slip) Madigan as coach of the College All-Stars who will play the Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field Aug. 29. Translated, it says: "We live in San Francisco long enough to know the team of St. Mary's. It is the best team in the world. We know Slip Madigan the instructor. He is the best instructor in the world. We vote for him to be the instructor of the college stars that will fight against the Chicago Bears in August because he is the instructor that can beat them."

JOHNSON'S FATE WITH INDIANS UP TO DIRECTORS

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Walter Johnson was still manager of the Cleveland Indians tonight after he had conferred with Alva Bradley, president of the club, for two hours. But the possibility remained that Johnson will be relieved of his duties in the next few days.

Johnson said that the question of changing managers had been discussed.

"I told Mr. Bradley what I considered the trouble with his ball team, and where I thought it could be strengthened. He promised to lay my ideas before the directors' meeting tomorrow," he said.

Donie Bush, manager of the Minneapolis Millers of the American association, is regarded as No. 1 candidate to succeed Johnson. He recently conferred with Billy Evans, general manager of the Cleveland club.

ARLINGTON ENDS MEETING TODAY WITH FUTURITY

BY FRENCH LANE.

The Futurity, richest horse race of the year in Chicago, will be run at about 5 o'clock this afternoon, then the curtain will drop on the Arlington Park Jocky club's highly successful mid-summer racing season.

Overnight the Futurity field numbered 18. Fifteen of them were colts and the others fillies. It is expected that about every juvenile in the overnight field will accept. With 18 starters the race will have a gross value of $60,230. The share to the owner of the winner will be $49,230. It is the best Futurity field ever to go to the post in Chicago and ranks with the best that has ever striven for Belmont Park's slightly richer Futurity prize. Every 2 year old in America that has accomplished anything of note this year is named in the starting field.

Will Champion Emerge?

If truly run and the track is fast—it will be that way if the sun shines this morning—the two year old champion of he year should come a-gallopin' home as the winner.

The Arlington Classic brought forth the 3 year old champion Omaha. The Stares and Stripes and Arlington handicaps proved beyond all doubts that Discovery is the greatest handicap performer of the year. Should today's Futurity produce the 2 year old champion the season ending late this afternoon certainly will have been the greatest since the Arlington Park Jocky club came into existence.

As a speculative medium the Futurity is one of the most perplexing races ever run at Arlington or on any other track. No one was willing to gamble that he could even pick the colt or the filly that will be the post time favorite.

Favorite Hard to Forecast.

Odds quoters in Chicago last night were not even attempting to single out the favorite. Their odds showed three equal first choices all quoted at 4 to 1. These equal choices were Coldstream, Deliberator and the Milky Way farm's entry of The Fighter, Sangreal, and Forever Yours.

The second choices were Warren Wright's well bred colt, Sun Teddy, winner of his last two races at Arlington in a most impressive way, and Marshall Field's unbeaten Tintagal, shipped here from New York for the race.

Then the odds jumped to 10 to 1 against White Cockade, Snark, and Delphinium, all eastern challengers for the richest of all middle western 2 year old prizes.

Bold Venture at 12 to 1.

Bold Venture was at 12 to 1 and will race in the silks of Admiral Cary T. Grayson. He was shipped here for the race by M. L. Schwartz of New York. The mother of Owner Schwartz died at Stony Point, N. Y., yesterday and Admiral Grayson leased the speedy colt for the race.

Probable track conditions caused a great amount of worry among various owners and trainers. The racing strip was quite a bit "off" during the running of yesterday's program although it was improving rapidly throughout the afternoon.

In the event of showers today there is no telling what sort of a running strip will prevail at post time. Trainer Alex Gordon makes no bones about wanting a lightning fast track for Coldstream. Trainer Sherrill Ward believes Deliberator will run his race regardless of track conditions and Trainer Bob McGarvey is certain that he doesn't have to carry around a tailormade track for The Fighter and Sangreal.

Many Are Stake Winners.

White Cockade has done most of his winning on a fast track but his breeding indicates he will fancy an off track. The same holds true of Tintagal and Bold Venture.

TURF FANS LIKE HIM

Deliberator, with Jocky Lester Balaski up, will be one of the favorites in today's $60,000 Arlington Futurity, in which the greatest 2 year olds in the country will go after rich prize.

BROWNS HAMMER 3 SOX PITCHERS AND WIN, 10 TO 8

Jones, Wyatt, Kennedy Take Pounding.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Rogers Hornsby's St. Louis Browns are tail enders and all that goes with it, but they didn't know their place yesterday. They reached up into the first division, turned loose a large portion of batting power and walloped the third place White Sox, 10 to 8, in the opener of a four game series. By carrying on in such high handed fashion the cellar occupants dropped the Sox to two games behind the second place Yankees and five games in arrears of the leading champion Tigers.

The final score was reached only after great difficulty due to the fact that the Sox were just as persistent as their supposedly humble foes. The Browns made their first bid with a 4 to 0 lead. The Sox changed that into their favor by 5 to 4. The Browns tied it and later went ahead by 7 to 5. With encouragement in the shape of funny fielding the Sox grabbed it back by 8 to 7 in the seventh and with Vernon Kennedy coming in to finish the pitching job the rest appeared easy. But Kennedy was shaken by a blast in the eighth and the Sox couldn't bounce back.

Jones Starts for Sox.

The crippled Sox started their day's work with the 43 year old Sam Jones in charge of the pitching, but the veteran was gone and forgotten long before the finish. He stayed for six innings and five runs. Meanwhile the Sox had pounded home that many runs in the fourth inning against Sugar Cain and rescuer Jack Knott, but the pleasing effects of this splurge were erased when Whitlow Wyatt proved himself unable to get through the seventh on less than two runs which gave the Browns that much of a lead.

Not all discouraged by this mishap the Sox hopped on Fay Thomas in the home seventh and the tall youth assisted considerably with a crazy fielding exhibition that induced Manager Hornsby to chase him away from the scene. That proved a bad break for the Sox. Russ Van Atta, a southpaw, came in with the bases filled after three had scored. He not only closed the inning without delay but didn't yield a hit in the next two. In the meantime Sam West assured him the winning decision by poling a homer with one on and the tying run already across while Kennedy was pitching in the eighth.

Browns First to Score.

Due to a scarcity of hits the first three innings were run off in near record time. Nine of the Browns dropped in order although it was apparent that sooner or later their line drives off old Sam wouldn't all be directly into the hands of waiting fielders. Cain didn't drop nine of the Sox in order but at least came close to it. They broke the continuity with a single and pass in the second. Washington hit the single with one out and Hopkins walked after Appling had fouled to Hemsley. Sewell's best was a pop to Lary, ending the inning.

Jones' perfect performance was concluded when Lary led off in the fourth with a double to left. It didn't take the Browns long to run this into four tallies. Lary took third on Burns' bunt and scored on Solters' single over short. Dr. Pepper added two more on his homer into the left field seats. West followed with a double to left

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 2.—You good folks remember back in July when the Cubs lost three games while winning 24. Well, they've now lost three without winning any. And how magnificently they lost today—they took an 8 to 0 shutout, a four hit licking, at the hands of Gene Schott and associate Cincinnati Reds.

"And who is Gene Schott?" we hear a heckler demanding. Gene Schott is the 22 year old fellow who started a game against the Cubs on July 28. At the outset of that game he walked Augie Galan and Bill Herman, pitched a triple to Phil Cavarretta and a single to Gabby Hartnett. Then he went away. That was last Sunday.

No Hit Until Fifth.

How different it was today! Schott didn't allow a hit until one was out in the fifth inning. Then Chuck Klein broke through with a single. Bill Herman doubled with two out in the sixth and Stan Hack singled with two out in the seventh. O'Dea led off the ninth with a single, the fourth and last Cub hit.

Seven Cubs reached first, and Galan, who walked to start the game, was the only runner to get as far as third. One other, Klein, got as far as second.

In the meantime the Giants were pushing around the miserable Bostonese, so at the termination of the day's shellacking, which, incidentally, was their first scoreless game since July 5, the Cubs were two games behind the league leaders.

The Cubs lost with a degree of grace in Pittsburgh yesterday and the day before, but today they were a listless outfit. Bill Lee was the losing pitcher. It was his fifth setback of the year.

Reds Take Early Lead.

The Reds were leading 2 to 0 at the end of the first three innings, both Cincinnati runs being paced off by Byrd. Byrd reached second in the first inning when Jurges dropped his pop fly. Goodman flied to Galan, but Babe Herman singled over second, Byrd scoring. With two out in the third inning Byrd knocked the ball over the left field fence. This made it four straight games in which Lee has pitched his home run ball.

The Reds waited till two were out before they got going on the production of two runs in the fourth inning. Riggs beat out a hit over second and went to third when Lombardi caromed a single off Cavarretta's glove. Myers then hit a 405 foot triple against center field wall, scoring Riggs and Lombardi. Kampouris fanned.

Klein singled to center with one down in the fifth for the first hit off Schott. He was forced by Hack, after which Jurges flied to Goodman.

Herman Hits 37th Double.

With two out in the sixth Bill Herman knocked his 37th double of the year, the second Chicago hit. But it came to naught when Cavarretta popped to Bottomley.

With two out in the seventh, Klein walked and stopped at second on Hack's single. Jurges forced Klein, Riggs unassisted.

O'Dea led off the ninth with a single and promptly went out with Demaree in a double play. Klein grounded out to Kampouris, which ended the game.

LOUIS, LEVINSKY RETURN TO GLOVE PITCHING TODAY

BY WILFRID SMITH.

King Levinsky, quartered at Round Lake, Ill., and Joe Louis, training at the Savoy arena on Chicago's south side, declared a vacation yesterday in their preparations for the heavyweight scrap Wednesday night at Comiskey park. This afternoon they will swing into the final stretch for the battle which will add one more triumph to Loius' impressive record or save the King from dropping into the second flight of the heavyweight class.

Louis will work out in the ring today and tomorrow, it was announced by his board of directors. These will be gala days for south side fans, who plan to descend en masse on Comiskey park when the $2.40 seats go on sale Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. These tickets, incidentally, are reserved by sections only, and the first buyers are entitled to choice of location in those sections. This is a new wrinkle in the professional fight business and is a semi-reserved seat sale which should prove effective.

$85,000 in the Bank.

Sol Katz, ticket manager for Promoter Joe Foley, yesterday announced that $85,000 had been banked for this battle and that a conservative estimate placed the gross receipts at $200,000. Comiskey park has been scaled so that a sellout will gross $350,000.

Foley is more optimistic. He believes that Chicago will contribute at least $250,000. Of this sum, after taxes are deducted for state and federal governments, Levinsky will receive 20 per cent and Louis 30 per cent. This, on the basis of $160,000 net receipts, would pay Levinsky $32,000 and Louis $48,000. In the King's case that would be $13,000 more than he ever received before, and for Louis it would top by a few thousand his pay for the Carnera fight last June in New York.

There'll be Action Aplenty.

The ten rounds of fighting Wednesday night promise more action than Chicago has seen in recent years. Levinsky, so it is said, is ready to carry the attack to Louis. And the former Golden Gloves champion likes that kind of a fighter. He is at his best when he can counter. The only difficulty this entails to Louis is that Izzy Kline and Art Winch, who are permanent fixtures in the Barney Ross menage, are training the King to fight from a crouch. This position, they reason, affords Louis a mighty small target.

Louis' reputation as a knockerout, since he has won 19 of his 23 professional bouts in this manner, may suffer because of the King's defensive tactics. Levinsky isn't easy to hit, although Max Baer did drop him in the second round of an exhibition bout for a count of ten. Previously Baer had fought 30 rounds with Levinsky in two fights and both bouts had gone to a decision in favor of the former heavyweight champion.

Kline Big Help to King.

Perhaps the most important factor in the fight will be the presence of Kline in Levinsky's corner. Kline, one of the men who have conditioned the Golden Gloves teams and worked during the Tournament of Champions in which Louis won his championship, knows Louis. If there is any vulnerable point for Levinsky to attack, you may be sure that Kline has it spotted. And let us add that Jack Kranz and Adolph Wiater, two of the four men to finish their professional matches with Louis, although defeated by decision, were Golden Gloves boxers.

Triner Predicts Knockdowns.

Louis undoubtedly will be a top-heavy favorite to win. His record is worthy, but he also has gained public approval because he insists on fighting and does not digress as a clown or personality kid. Joe Triner, chairman of the Illinois athletic commission, who has seen both men in training, thinks that each will be on the floor. Packy McFarland, a member of the commission, has been more outspoken. He likes Louis from the first round to the end.

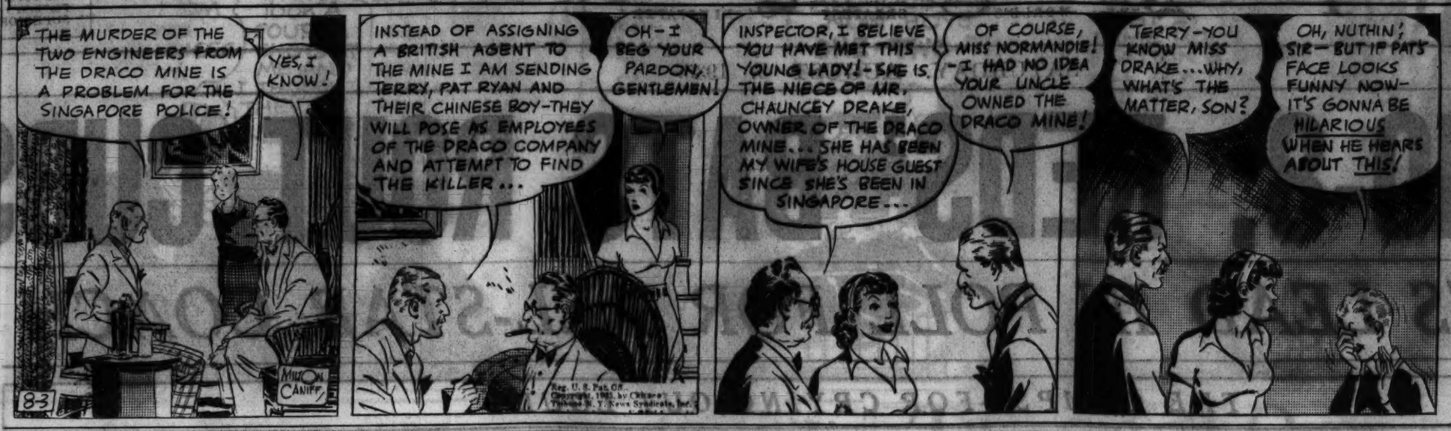
TERRY AND THE PIRATES — THAT WOMAN'S HERE AGAIN!



Handicap at Crete Draws 24 Sprinters

The fleetest field of sprinters that has come together at Lincoln Fields in several seasons was named yesterday for the $1,500 Will County handicap at six furlongs, which will open the 25 day summer meeting on Monday. Headed by C. N. Mooney's 5 year old Ted Clark, 24 thoroughbreds await the assigning today of weights for the feature by Racing Secretary Will Shelley.

The handicap will serve as the feature of an eight race card, all seven of the other races being for $1,000 purses. Lincoln Fields, as one of Chicago's major race courses, has guaranteed a $1,000 purse minimum and a weekly $5,000 added stake.

Horses Are Plentiful.

Entries for the opening day's card are expected to be unusually heavy, for the size of the purses being offered in Chicago this season is keeping so many stables here that there are more horses stabled at Crete than has been the case for some seasons past.

Every stall at Lincoln Fields has been reserved, and there already is an overflow of several hundred horses to nearby Washington Park.

Crete Is First Stakes.

The first of Lincoln Fields' stakes—the Crete handicap at six furlongs—will be run next Saturday. Other $5,000 added feature will be the Peabody Memorial handicap at a mile on Aug. 17, the Lincoln handicap at a mile and a sixteenth on Aug. 24, the Joliet handicap at six furlongs for 2 year olds on Aug. 31, and the Marquette handicap at a mile and a furlong on Labor day. Entries for the Will county handicap:

Transmutable	Dusky Devil
Cloud D'Or	Slim Rosie

Young Horses Flash Speed for Corbett

Jocky Charley Corbett was the riding star at Arlington Park yesterday when he was upon the winners of both 2 year old races.

He staged a spectacular stretch ride to win the second race with Sandy Boy. At the finish he was inches in front of Mrs. John Hertz' Her Reigh. The two youngsters had fought it out stubbornly all the way down the stretch.

Corbett was easily with Rustic Lassie when she beat Black Bess and Blind Pig without much effort. Sandy Boy was an odds on favorite, while Rustic Lassie paid off at $21.40.

The winning streak of the veteran sprinter Homer L. was broken when he lost a neck decision to Singing Heart in the fourth race. Before this trouncing Homer L. had won four races in a row.

Several Futurity candidates were asked for brief speed trials yesterday morning with the track slow. The following stepped three furlongs: Coldstream, :35 2-5 handily; Bright Light, :36 2-5 handily; Delphinium, :37 2-5 breezing; Pelerine, :38 2-5 breezing; Tintagal, :36 1-5 and Valevictorian, :40 2-5 breezing. Grand Slam was worked a half mile from the barrier in :48 3-5. Over the training track Deliberator was timed three-eights in :38 2-5 and Forever Yours went 6 furlongs in 1:16.

Supporting the Futurity today is the Glengowrie purse, which has attracted eight of the better 3 year olds for a dash of six furlongs.

Ghnouly Sees Breese Bout as Aid in Title Hunt

Joe Ghnouly of St. Louis, recognized as No. 1 lightweight contender by the Missouri boxing commission, yesterday mapped out a campaign which he hopes will lead to a title match with Tony Canzoneri, who won recognition as champion in New York by defeating Lou Ambers a few weeks ago.

Ghnouly, who weighed 132 pounds yesterday, will meet Bus Breese of Manhattan, Kas., Monday at Marigold Gardens and is confident of winning. Then he hopes to be able to draw Bobby Pacho into a match so as to demonstrate his alleged superiority over the California fighter before launching drills for his nontitle encounter with Canzoneri at St. Louis, Sept. 13. He believes he can whip Canzoneri and thus earn a title shot.

Jimmy Eliopoulos, Chicago 122 pound boxer, has been signed to oppose Scotty Scotten of Indianapolis, Ind., in the six round semi-final at Marigold.

Laddie Tonelli of Marseilles, Ill., who recently returned from a tour in California, yesterday sparred two rounds each with Joe Wiley and Davey White, both lightweights, at Madison Square loop gymnasium in preparation for his fight with Petey Mike at Western stadium Tuesday. . . . Dr. Frank A. Lagorio of the state boxing board yesterday announced that Izzy Lubansky, local lightweight, has recovered from a broken left arm, sustained in a battle more than a year ago. . . . Sam Goldman, manager of Tony Canzoneri, will slip into town tomorrow, to supervise the champion's workouts here for a ten round clash with Frank Klick at San Francisco, Cal., on Aug. 19. . . .

Rich Arlington Futurity to Be Held Today

spring juvenile event in New York. He finished second in the Flash stakes at Saratoga.

Coldstream captured the Hyde Park stakes at Arlington earlier in the meeting with a sensational effort. In May he won in the Bashford Manor at Churchhill Downs. He was a close third behind Maeriel and White Cockade in the Juvenile stakes at Belmont Park. White Cockade made a runaway of the Youthful stakes at Jamaica and was barely beaten by Delphinium in the National Stallion.

Expect Crowd of 30,000.

Snark's stake success was in the Great American at Aqueduct, while Valevictorian captured the Woodward stakes at Detroit after being a bang-up third in the Nationaly Stallion. One of Deliberator's five victories was in the Nursery stakes at Hialeah Park. Grand Slam displayed his prowess in annexing the Prairie State stakes at Washington Park, and Bright Light came into prominence in taking the Kindergarten at Bowie.

Forever Yours, one of the three fillies in the Futurity, won a fortune by leading home a select band of horses in the Arlington Lassie stakes. She has the chance to become the first filly to score a Lassie-Futurity double.

Futurity day always has been one of the biggest of the year at Arlington, so officials were going ahead yesterday with plans to handle a gathering of 30,000 or more. It will wind up an Arlington season that ranks with the best since the track was built. Attendance and totalizer betting figures are about 30 per cent higher than they were last year.

CHARLESTON AND POSEY LEAD IN MANAGERS' POLL

Either Cum Posey of the Homestead Grays or Oscar Charleston of the Pittsburgh Crawfords will manage the West's team in the third annual all-star game of the Negro National league at Comiskey park Aug. 11, early returns in the managers' poll indicated yesterday.

Leading choices to lead the eastern all-stars are Webster [Submarine] McDonald of the Philadelphia Stars and George Giles of the Brooklyn Eagles. McDonald gets his nickname, Submarine, from the fact that he is an underhand pitcher.

Picard, Revolta Lead Round Robin Team Tournament

Toledo, O., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Denny Shute of Chicago and Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., today shot a best ball of 62, nine under par, and forced Sam Parks, national open champion, and Ky Laffoon out of the lead in the round robin match play in which 16 of America's leading pros are participating.

Parks and Laffoon, who started the match with a "plus five" edge as a result of their first two matches, were eight down to the former British open champion and Ghezzi, and wound up the day with a "minus three" standing.

The open champion and his mate didn't have a chance. They halved the first five holes in par figures and then Shute slipped in with a birdie three to take the sixth. Ghezzi's putter began working on the next two and he was in with a birdie three and a birdie two to take both. Shute and Ghezzi had birdie fours on the ninth to take that. The tenth was halved, and then Shute came through with a birdie to take the 12th. Then Ghezzi went on another rampage to count four more birdies in a row, only one of them being matched by Parks and Laffoon.

Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., and Johnny Revolta of Milwaukee took the lead at the end of the day's play with a plus four total for the first three 18 hole matches, in which each of the eight twosomes are being paired against each other.

Picard and Revolta built up their plus four score at the expense of Leo Diegel of Philadelphia and Jimmy Thompson of Ridgewood, N. Y., this morning, and then held it through the afternoon as they broke even with Tommy Armour of Chicago and Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, Va.

Al Espinosa of Akron and Billy Burke of Cleveland, who were minus one after going three down to Laffoon and Parks this morning, cut back into the running with a two up victory over Walter Hagen and Al Watrous of Detroit this afternoon.

Diegel and Thompson, after going four down to Picard and Revolta this morning, were two up over Harry Cooper of Chicago and Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill., this afternoon.

Picard and Revolta, plus 4; Ghezzi and Shute, plus 2; Espinosa and Burke, plus 1; Cooper and Smith, even; Hagen and Watrous, even; Armour and Cruickshank, minus 2; Diegel and Thompson, minus 2; Laffoon and Parks, minus 3.

Coria to Play Strafaci for Links Crown

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Joe Coria, park policeman from St. Paul, and Frankie Strafaci, 18 year old high school boy from the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn, will battle for the National Public links golf championship tomorrow.

The two little shot makers, neither weighing over 135 pounds, alternately hobbled and raced into the finals with decisive victories today. Coria, limping and stumbling with ailing feet, defeated Bill Russell, home town pride of Indianapolis, 4 and 2, while Strafaci romped in to join him with an 11 and 9 victory over Bob Tomes of Long Beach, Cal.

Play 36 Holes Today.

Their battle for the crown will be over 36 holes with morning and afternoon rounds on the Charles E. Coffin course, a tree infested links that has taken a heavy toll of shots since the tournament opened with 195 starters Monday.

Russell, a fireman's son who played with some of his caddies' sticks, gave Coria a hard fight right down to the finish. Although in great physical pain, with blisters and corns on each foot, Joe hobbled along in the morning and finished with a three up lead.

Dr. Harry Anderson, Indianapolis foot specialist, then was called to the clubhouse. He opened the blisters and cut the corns, giving Coria relief. After halving the first hole of the afternoon, Joe stopped play, ripped the heavier bandages off his feet and, with the aid of a cane, staggered on to victory.

Easy for Strafaci.

Good approaches and Russell's sporadic wildness with tee shots, that landed among the many spruce and elm trees, carried Coria to victory. He finally won on the 34th, when Russell attempted to slip past a dead stymie and knocked his ball into the cup for a birdie 3.

Strafaci, a protégé of Whiffy Cox, had an even easier breeze than his top heavy margin indicated. He won the first three holes in even par—his 19th in succession in two days—and led from that point on by an increasing margin, finishing the first nine 5 up and the morning round 6 up.

RIGGS, HARMON REACH FINAL IN JUNIOR TENNIS

Delafield, Wis., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Robert Riggs of Los Angeles won the right to meet Robert Harmon, also of Los Angeles, in the junior finals of the western junior and boys' teams tournament today by defeating his Los Angeles doubles mate, Joseph Hunt, 6-2, 6-7, 6-2.

Harmon defeated Don Leavens of Milwaukee, 6-2, 7-5, to enter the finals.

C. D. G. A. DEFERS CLUB TITLE PLAY UNTIL AUG. 23

Three Teams to Compete for Championship.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The question of what member club of the Chicago District Golf association will hold the team championship for the ensuing year will not be settled tomorrow, as scheduled, but on Aug. 23, according to an announcement by Joe Davis, secretary of the organization. Postponement of the 36 hole play off of the triple tie at Medinah among Bob o' Link, 1934 champions; Edgewood Valley and Glen Oak was made necessary by the absence of several players of the three teams, all of whom finished the regulation tournament on July 28 deadlocked.

A special golf Derby, with a field of 32 starters, will feature the dedication today of the new watering system at the Mohawk Country club. Lew Waldron, the club professional, also announces a late afternoon demonstration of shots by Jock Hutchison of Glen View and Bob MacDonald of MacDonald's driving range.

The Chicago city amateur championship, oldest golf tournament in our town, will have a new sponsor—the Chicago park district—when it opens over the Jackson park links Monday morning. Harold Mathisen of Big Run, a member of the 1935 national public links team, will defend the title in the six day all match play event. Ten trophies are being offered to the winners and runnersup in the five flights. A player's flight will be determined by his handicap, the championship bracket admitting those with allowances of from scratch to 10 strokes. Tom Walsh, director of golf for the park district, will supervise the tournament.

The 15th renewal of Silver Tassel day, annual invitational highlight of the North Shore Golf club, will be held on Aug. 21. The event was postponed from earlier in the season. The program calls for 36 holes of golf, luncheon, dinner, and entertainment, with a large variety of prizes. Fred T. Steingraber is chairman of the sports and pastimes committee.

GIANTS CONQUER BRAVES, 4-1, AND INCREASE MARGIN

Ott, Moore Hit Home Runs —Lead by Two Games.

New York, Aug. 2.—(AP)—With Clydell Castleman and Allyn Stout combining to pitch five hit ball, the New York Giants strengthened their position at the top of the National league today by defeating the Boston Braves, 4 to 1, in the opener of a four game series.

In turning in his tenth victory of the season, Castleman held the Braves to four hits before pulling up with a lame arm in the sixth after Bill Urbanski singled and Baxter Jordan drew a pass. Stout then came in, and Thompson's infield out and Wally Berger's fly sent Urbanski home with the Braves' only run.

Mel Ott led the Giants' 12 hit attack off Bob Smith and Huck Betts. He smashed his 24th homer into the upper right field stands in the second and hit a double in the sixth to send Bill Terry across the plate and run his total of runs driven in to 83 for the season. Joe Moore also came through with a homer, No. 14, in the fifth with the bases empty. Score:

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Scoring four of their runs in the first inning without hitting a ball out of the infield, the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Phillies, 8 to 3, in the opening game of the series today.

Ralph Boyle, who in the sixth hit a homer, got the only hit of the first inning, and it was an infield hopper to Gomez. Bucky Walter and his successor, John Pezzullo, handed out two passes, Dolph Camilli made three errors and the Dodgers worked a double steal to score their runs.

Sam Leslie led Brooklyn's eleven hit attack on five pitchers with three hits in four times at bat as George Earnshaw and Leslie Munns limited the Phils to seven safe blows. Score:

NEW YORK FOES OF C. Y. O. RING TEAM GO HOME

Their spirits undimmed by the 10 to 6 defeat administered to them by the C. Y. O. boys Wednesday night at Wrigley field before 35,000, twenty New York Catholic Boys' Clubs boxers left from the Illinois Central station last night for New York. Accompanying them were the Rev. Robert E. Moore, the Rev. James C. Hogan, Daniel P. Higgins, and George F. Denniston.

Officials of the Catholic Youth organization were at the station. Leading the C. Y. O. delegation was the Most Rev. Bernard J. Shell, D. D., V. G., senior auxiliary bishop of Chicago and director general of the C. Y. O.

Although no official announcement has been made, it is expected that Chicago again will be the scene of the 1936 intercity matches with New York. Thereafter the cities will alternate.

French Starts for Cubs Today, Nelson for Reds

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 2.—Larry French, who got knocked out without accomplishing a putout in his last start at Pittsburgh, today was gritting his teeth, working up determination to pitch one of his good games tomorrow. Ramrod Nelson is scheduled to pitch for the Reds.

The fiesta which had been planned for Monday has been called off for fear of a recurrence of the mob demonstration put on here Wednesday at the night game between the Reds and Cards. The game will be played in the afternoon and there will be no sideshows.

Yankee Bill Jurges and Rebel Wally Stephenson had breakfast together here this morning. Over their coffee they agreed that the civil war was a draw.

Clyde [Duster] Shonn, Birmingham left handed pitcher who was to have reported to the Cubs next spring, will join up here Sunday. The hurry up came when the young man recently pitched two shutouts and one game with an unearned run in three successive starts.

By the way, today was Grimm's third anniversary as Cub boss.

SIGN HER UP, CUBS!

Paul Dean may be a star pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals but his throws are easy to hit, says Kitty Burke, 25 year old blues singer. In a night game at Cincinnati Wednesday the crowd overflowed on the field and Miss Burke was standing near home plate. In the 7th inning she took Jim Bottomley's bat and hit Dean's first pitch into the infield. She started to run to first, but, seeing Dean field the ball, stopped. Miss Burke performed her batting feat on a dare from Joe Medwick, who said she couldn't hit the ball with an elephant.

Browns Pound Sox Pitchers; Win, 10 to 8

Sox Take Lead.

Conlan walked to start the home fourth and also had the pleasure of making the third out, but in between there was plenty of action. After the ticket to Conlan, Bonura fouled out. Washington singled past Carey, Conlan going to third. Appling singled over short, Conlan scoring. Hopkins also singled and Washington counted. Out went Cain and in came Knott. Sewell's drive caromed off Carey's forearm for a single, Appling scoring. Jones sacrificed and Radcliff was purposely passed, filling the bags. Piet resented this and declared himself by singling, Hopkins and Sewell going home, Conlan then ended the baby riot by forcing Piet.

Jones recovered sufficiently to get by safely in the fifth, but the Browns caught up with him again in the sixth and scored once to tie up the argument at 5 apiece. Clift singled to left after the first two men had been retired. Carey lined a double into the right field corner and Clift rode around to the plate. Coleman was sent up to bat for Knott, but Jones got around this menace by giving the pinch man a pass. Lary then bounced to Hopkins who stepped on third to force Carey.

Wyatt Has Trouble.

Wyatt got Burns out of the way in the seventh before tumbling into difficulties that weren't adjusted until after the Browns had scored two runs. Solters singled to right, although trying to dodge the pitch, and Pepper walked. West singled to center, Solters scoring and Pepper taking third. Hemsley singled to left, Pepper counting. Wyatt slapped down Clift's line drive and threw him out. Carey was given free passage, filling the bases, and the incident was concluded by serving three strikes to Thomas.

The home seventh when the Sox picked up three runs and resumed the lead didn't get funny until after Conlan had beaten out a bunt, gone to third on a wild pitch by Thomas, and scored on Bonura's double to center. Washington walked and Bonura stole third, which probably was the thing that upset the Browns. It was only Zeke's third burglary of the season.

Appling grounded to Carey, whose throw to Hemsley trapped Bonura between third and home. Zeke jockeyed back and forth until Hemsley dropped a throw from Cliff whereupon Zeke broke for the plate. Hemsley recovered and Bonura would have been out at the plate if Thomas hadn't dropped the throw. Thomas offended again a moment later. He threw wild to first on Hopkins' bunt and Washington scored, putting the Sox ahead by 8 to 7.

Van Atta Goes in to Pitch.

Manager Hornsby yanked Thomas in a hurry and turned the pitching over to Van Atta. The latter walked Sewell, filling the bases. Manager Dykes withdrew Wyatt and let Simmons do the batting but the Milwaukee Duke did nothing of account. He popped to Carey. Then Van Atta fanned both Radcliff and Piet.

The first man Kennedy faced in the disasterous eighth was Lary and the ex-Yankee slapped a two bagger down the right field line. He went to third on Burns' long fly and home on Solters' infield out. That tied it up at 8 apiece. Pepper singled to right but this wasn't regarded as harmful at the time. However, it became a run an instant later when West homerunned into the right field stand for his ninth circuit smash of the year. Kennedy then fanned Hemsley.

John Henderson Whitehead, who started the season at a terrific pace and then was slowed down by his mates' failure to furnish him with runs, will try for his eleventh victory in the second of the series with the Browns today. Since his winning streak of eight was broken Whitehead has won only two while losing nine. Dick Coffman will start for the Browns.

Al Simmons' ailing leg felt good yesterday so he did a few turns at batting practice and then sprinted around the park for exercise. He thinks he'll be available for regular work when the Sox open at Cleveland next Monday. Manager Dykes, who has a charley horse, took his exercise by pitching to batters.

Rip Radcliff, left fielder, is ailing with a kidney infection but doesn't believe it will force him out of the lineup. If he does have to take a vacation and Simmons is still ailing, the left field job will be given to Tony Piet and Jack Hayes will go to second.

About 12,000 women fans made use of the Friday free gate. The paying customers numbered around 5,000.

Yankees Whip Senators, 9-4; Gain in Race

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—The New York Yankees snapped out of their hitting slump today, fell on three Washington pitchers for 13 hits and defeated the Senators, 9 to 4, to gain a half game on the pace setting Detroit Tigers. The victory reduced the Tigers' advantage to three games, and boosted the Yanks' margin over the third place White Sox to two games.

Bump Hadley, Leen Pettit and Jack Russell took turns as the Yankees scored eight of their runs in clusters of two each. Hadley was pummeled for eight hits and six runs, including home runs by Tony Lazzeri and Jesse Hill in the third, before giving way for a pinch hitter in the fifth.

Johnny Broaca went the route for the Yanks to score his ninth victory of the season. He gave up eight hits and never was in serious trouble. Score:

New Backing for Braves Is Lined Up

Boston, Mass., Aug. 2.—(AP)—The early dumping of enough new money into the Boston Braves baseball club to improve its finances and playing strength appeared assured today when Ford Frick, youthful National league president, emerged from a seven hour conference with Charles F. Adams, who assumed control of the club when Emil Fuchs stepped out.

Line Up New Investors.

Adams, however, revealed that most of his time with Frick was spent lining up a new Braves organization which will be headed by Bill McKechnie, Braves manager since 1930. He predicted that a new group was ready to make a heavy investment in the Braves and that the first of next week would see some activity along that line.

McKechnie had the assurances of both Adams and Frick that his attempts to gain new strength would be backed to the limit.

Adams Stays In.

Adams, despite his many other interests, which include a huge grocery chain, ownership of two professional hockey clubs and the Suffolk Downs race track, told Frick he was willing to continue his investment in the Braves, which now amounts to control of 9,500 out of the club's 14,000 odd shares.

"I'll stay here as long as you need me and want me," McKechnie told Adams.

MAKES OFFER TO ADAMS.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—George Preston Marshall, former publisher, said tonight that a group, which included himself, had offered to buy over control of the Boston Braves from Charles F. Adams.

The tentative offer, Marshall said, was made in a telephone conversation today with Adams.

Marshall, declining to say who was in the group with him, did disclose that there were four others, with himself the only Washingtonian.

"It is one of those things that will have to be negotiated," Marshall said when asked if a figure had been discussed. "I think that Mr. Adams has had one or two other offers."

FORMER MAJOR LEAGUE SCOUT, MOFFETT, DIES

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Frank Moffett, 62, former major league baseball player, and former scout for the Detroit Tigers, died today after an illness of nine months from a throat infection.

In 1912 Moffett sent five players out of the Appalachian league to the majors, including Billy Meyers, who went to the Philadelphia Athletics, and Nick Cullop, who went to the New York Yankees. Players who went to the Detroit Tigers in recent years on recommendation of Moffett were Tommy Bridges, Johnny Stone, and Dale Alexander.

He was connected with the sport for nearly 40 years, starting his baseball career as a player with the Boston National league club.

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune.]

JOE LOUIS' feet have grown considerably since he was a Golden Gloves champion a year ago. . . . He wore size 11 shoes then. . . . He now wears 12s, the same as King Levinsky. . . . The sudden development of Outfielder Julius Solters as a hitter after his transfer from the Boston Red Sox to the St. Louis Browns is attributed to pointers given him by Rogers Hornsby. . . . Solters has copied Hornsby's stance at the plate. . . . Pat Page may land a job on the Wisconsin coaching staf next season. . . . Lorenzo Lovings, Chicago International Golden Gloves champion, has fought his last amateur bout. . . . He intends to turn professional. . . . The other colored boys—Lorenzo Pack, Clinton Bridges, and Dave Clark—who won their bouts against Italy, previously had turned professional. . . . The Cubs say that they will go to the world series at Comiskey park in an armored truck and suggest that the Sox use the same type of vehicle when they go to Wrigley field. . . . They expect partisanship to be that rabid. . . . At first it was thought that there had been no actual injuries in the Jurges-Stephenson renewal of the civil war, but Jurges showed up next day with a big lump on his jaw. . . . Max Baer will be here for the Louis-Levinsky match. . . .

Milton Bocek, who last year had a tryout with the White Sox and was farmed out, is the regular right fielder for the Cedar Rapids club of the Western league. . . . He is batting about .320. . . . This department has been deluged with inquiries why Gabby Hartnett has not been included in the daily standings of the "Big Six." . . . The reason is that the "Big Six" is made up of the three leading hitters in each league. . . . Wayne Millner, left end on the Notre Dame eleven, is driving a coke truck in Salem, Mass., this summer. . . . Two veteran pitchers are making good as minor league managers. . . . Jack Quinn has Johnstown, Pa., at the top of the Mid-Atlantic league and Burleigh Grimes' Bloomington club is leading the Three Eye. . . . Johnny McDonough, who recently won the Harris Trust golf tournament, was University of Chicago's quarter back in 1927. . . . He scored the point after touchdown that gave the Maroons their last victory over Purdue, 7 to 6. . . .

José Gomez, new Philly infielder, is a Mexican who came into the country recently as a member of a Mexican semi-pro team. . . . Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Sporting club is negotiating for a bout between Don McCorkindale, who has changed his mind about retiring from the ring, and Buddy Baer. . . . Joe Louis pays his sparring partners $5 a round. . . . When Bob McKee played Bob McCrary, Iowa champion, in the Trans-Mississippi tournament at Des Moines he took a newspaper with him to read. . . . McCrary is known for the time he consumes taking practice swings and sighting putts. . . . The New York Giants football team will have twins in their lineup this fall. . . . Milt and Walt Singer of Syracuse have been signed. . . . There is no rest for the printers. . . . Their jubilation over the release of Chester Dziubakiewicz of Duluth has been offset by the rise of Brusie Ogrodowski, Columbus catcher, who next year undoubtedly will be in the majors. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—The Pirates increased their hold on first place by defeating Philadelphia twice. . . . Sheriff Blake pitched the Cubs to a 7 to 4 victory over Brooklyn. . . . Jimmy Slattery postponed his bout with Maxie Rosenbloom on account of a cold. . . . The White Sox lost a twelve inning battle to Philadelphia, 3 to 2. . . . Max Brick, with Jocky A. Mortenson up, won the Washington handicap at Hawthorne.

GEMINI'S SPEED AT FINISH WINS YACHT TROPHY

A full sail breeze sent Gemini, star class sloop owned by Samuel C. Pirie Jr. and Lockwood Pirie, around the Sheridan Shore Yacht club's course yesterday afternoon to victory on the last leg of the race for the Commodore Wesley Bowman trophy.

Yesterday was probably the first time in local yachting history that a race has been started from out in the lake and headed shoreward. A strong west wind was blowing and, to abide by the rule of windward starts, the fleet of 26 was started by the cruiser Chance three miles out. A nine mile course was sailed. The first three legs saw I. Raymond's Dolphin in the lead, but on the beat to windward on the home stretch, Gemini outsailed Dolphin by 24 seconds to win.

Votes for Spears Pour In.

Wisconsin is supporting Dr. C. W. Spears with equal enthusiasm. From Madison alone yesterday came 26,355 votes for the Badger coach. The figure included returns from La Crosse and many smaller towns. Two voting booths have been opened in Madison's business district. Frank Thomas of Alabama was second choice on nearly all the Spears' ballots and Jock Sutherland of Pittsburgh was third.

No state or section of the country is more loyal to its favorite than is Alabama to Coach Thomas. He yesterday pulled 49,002 first place votes in the poll conducted by the Birmingham News and Age Herald, making his total from that source 169,615. Zipp Newman, sports editor, reports that the state is in a frenzy over the poll. Thomas yesterday polled more than 20,000 in East Chicago, Gary,

PRINCE MDIVANI LINKED IN DEATH TO NEW ROMANCE

Baroness, Companion in Auto Crash, Named.

GERONA, Spain, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Rumors of another romance involving him rode with Prince Alexis Mdivani, one of international society's most colorful figures, into death today.

The 31 year old Georgian prince, erstwhile husband of Barbara Hutton and Louise Astor Van Alen, was killed last night when the roadster he was driving at high speed hurtled off the road and turned over twice near this village.

The woman with him, the Baroness Maud von Thyssen, 26 years old, was seriously injured. Late today she was still unconscious, her life in the balance.

Refuses Comment on Rumors.

Rumors linking Prince Mdivani with the baroness began circulating after the accident, but Jose Sert, Spanish painter and husband of Prince Mdivani's sister, would not comment upon them.

Mdivani and the baroness had been house guests at the palatial Sert residence at Palamos on the Mediterranean coast for the last week.

At 5 p. m. today the blonde baroness, who was residing at Perpignan, France, had been unconscious nearly 18 hours. Her skull was fractured and an emergency operation was performed. The slender noblewoman, with sharply chiseled features, had been seen often of late with the prince.

At the Sert residence it was said that Mdivani's funeral would be held tomorrow, with interment at Palamos.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—Baroness Maud von Thyssen, companion of Prince Alexis Mdivani on the latter's death ride last night, is one of the most spectacular women of beauty Germany's night life has known in decades.

Maud was reared in a poor section of Berlin, the daughter of a postman. She started as a midinette [shopgirl], earning almost nothing and sharing the little she earned with her widowed mother. It was a great day for her when she was picked as an apprentice mannequin.

The German-Jewish director of the branch of an American company in Germany befriended the girl, helped her acquire the air of a lady. Maud was an excellent pupil and she was frequently seen with a string of men prominent in night life circles, switching gaily from business men to moneyed aristocrats.

She finally married the elderly but immensely wealthy Baron von Thyssen, who put millions at her feet with a palace in The Hague and castles in Hungary and Germany. Maud kept in touch with Berlin, where she returned frequently. Count Henkel von Donnersmark and Baron Gottfried von Cramm, the tennis player, were her escorts to Berlin's gay spots last winter.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Melvin Purvis, former "G man," is scheduled to be the headliner on Rudy Vallee's Varieties to be broadcast from Chicago NBC studios at 7 o'clock next Thursday evening. The nature of Purvis' contribution to the program has not yet been disclosed. It will be the former government agent's first appearance on a sponsored program. Purvis recently left the government service after a reported split with J. Edgar Hoover, his chief. Vallee is appearing at the Chicago theater this week.

The Purvis engagement on the Vallee program is for one time only. But there are said to be several sponsors seeking the former federal agent's services regularly.

Another hightlight of the broadcast will be an interview with King Levinsky and Leaping Lena, his sister, by Paul Gallico, New York News columnist. We're betting they can't keep the King from doing a little crooning. He is anything but microphone shy.

Topping off the hour will be contributions by members of the Dixiana Show Boat troupe and Gus Van, comedy singer.

Backstage Wife, W-G-N serial, will become a feature of the Mutual network beginning Monday. It will be heard at 9:45 a. m. Monday through Friday. Vivian Fridell plays the feminine lead and Ken Griffin the male lead.

Pat Barnes, formerly W-G-N actor, narrator, and announcer, who has been in New York for a year, is returning to Chicago to open a program of his own over NBC on Sept. 2. Larry Larsen, organist, will be heard with him.

Johnny Hamp's orchestra will open the fall season at the Edgewater Beach and be heard over CBS beginning Sept. 9, succeeding Ted Flo-Rito. Eddie Varzos' concert ensemble will be heard on Sundays. Flo-Rito or Herbie Kay probably will get the call for the winter season.

The harmonizing Mills Brothers, foremost colored radio entertainers, will be back on the air after an absence of more than six months Friday, Oct. 4, over NBC. Formerly they have been heard over CBS, the last time with Bing Crosby. That well known Elgin watchmaker will pay the bills. An orchestra and sports commentator will be heard with them.

New York's CBS studios were thrown into confusion the other day when a man walked in and began beating himself on the head with a club. As studio attendants leaped to overpower him he explained: "I'm Jim Mandy, world's champion billygoat butter." He wanted to appear as a guest on Kate Smith's hour. Kate is thinking it over.

AIR LINES OF U. S. PAY $600,000 IN GAS TAX YEARLY

Commercial air lines of the United States pay more than $600,000 in federal and state gasoline taxes upon the 18,000,000 gallons of high test gasoline which their engines consume every twelve months, it was disclosed here yesterday. The federal tax is 1 cent a gallon, but the state taxes, levied by fourteen states, range from a minimum of 2½ cents to a maximum of 7 cents a gallon.

Those states in which a gasoline tax is levied upon fuel destined for consumption by airlines, and the amount of tax levied in each case are: Alabama, 6 cents; Florida, 7; Idaho, 2½; Kentucky, 5; Louisiana, 5; Michigan, 3; Nebraska, 5; Oklahoma, 4; Pennsylvania, 3; South Carolina, 6; Tennessee, 7; Utah, 4; Vermont, 4, and Wyoming, 4. In Arkansas, Connecticut, and New Jersey airplane fuel is entirely exempt from taxation. In the remaining states the same gasoline tax paid by motorists is collected but is refunded to the airlines.

The air lines also pay sales taxes in all states within which such levies are made, and in addition to the gasoline taxes also pay taxes on lubricating oils. These levies are small, however, and since the consumption of lubricating oil also is small, the taxes are relatively light. In most of the states where aviation gasoline is taxed the revenues are turned into the general treasury.

CIVIC GROUP ASSAILS COUNTY FUNDING PLAN

Charge Chance to Cut Taxes Missed.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The $48,000,000 bond refunding plan adopted by the county board last week was severely criticized yesterday by John O. Rees, director of the committee on public expenditures. He charged that by procrastination and failure to adopt a sound program the board had missed the opportunity to effect a substantial abatement in the 1934 county tax levy. The proposed program will not result in refunding the county's debt and will not prevent further defaults, he asserted.

JOHN O. REES.

The refunding contract which the board entered into with two investment houses, A. C. Allyn & Co. and Stifel, Nicolaus & Co., has not yet been approved by Clayton Smith, president of the county board. Smith still had the matter under advisement last night. It was uncertain whether he would veto it or allow it to become effective today without his signature.

Two Dissent on Plan.

The plan was approved last week by the board by a vote of 11 to 2, with Smith and Commissioner Peter M. Kelly dissenting. If Smith should veto the board's action it would take a vote of 12 commissioners to override his action. Without his signature the contract would become effective automatically after today.

Opposition of the committee on public expenditures to the contract is based largely on the method by which the county would attempt to refund the $38,000,000 of unmatured bonds.

Under the Allyn-Nicolaus plan the two investment houses would receive a flat fee of $50,000 for acting as refunding agents. The commissioners in adopting the program rejected a proposal of the five loop banks for a straight exchange plan similar to that in which the banks are acting as refunding agents for the sanitary district.

Given Purchase Option.

The contract also gives an option to the two investment firms to purchase $10,000,000 of additional bonds, the proceeds of which will be used to clean up the county's defaulted principal and interest payments. The interest rate on the $10,000,000 issue will depend on the percentage of the holders of the $38,000,000 of unmatured bonds which the two firms are successful in exchanging. The less successful the refunding of the $38,000,000 proves to be the higher the interest rate will be on the $10,000,000 issue.

It was this feature of the contract which was the chief target of Rees' criticisms.

"The contract," he declared, "puts a premium upon lack of success in refunding the unmatured bonds, whereas a sound proposal would place a premium upon success in carrying out a sound plan."

Explain Interest Scale.

If less than 75 per cent of the present unmatured bonds are secured for refunding under the program within sixty days, the interest rate is to be 4 per cent on the $10,000,000 issue. If 75 to 85 per cent are secured in 60 days, the interest rate is to be 3¾ per cent, and if 85 per cent are secured, it is to be 3½ per cent. Rees asserts that under a straight refunding plan such as that adopted by the sanitary district, it would be possible to obtain a better interest rate than 4 per cent by the selling of the $10,000,000 of new bonds on a competitive basis.

The cost to the county if the five loop banks were to undertake the exchange is estimated at $200,000, compared with the flat $50,000 fee which the two investment houses are to receive. The savings which the investment house plan appears to offer is more apparent than real, according to Rees.

"Securing the most favorable interest rates on the $10,000,000 issue makes the compensation to be paid a refunding agent decidedly secondary so long as it is reasonable and a sound plan is carried out successfully," Rees declared.

Doubts Success of Refunding.

"It is now proposed," he added, "to refund such bonds as can be secured for exchange without making any refunding conditional on the agreement of a sufficient majority of all the bondholders to make the entire plan successful."

Officials of A. C. Allyn & Co. and Stifel, Nicholaus & Co. declare that the contract they had entered into with the county will bring the county out of default and protect it against further defaults.

"The refunding plan," the investment houses said in a statement issued yesterday, "provides for a sliding scale of interest on the bonds sold to pay past due principal and interest. Therefore, it is of material interest to bondholders to deposit their bonds in that deposits will have the effect of raising the market value of all Cook county bonds."

The city council yesterday authorized City Controler Robert B. Upham to advertise for bids for $9,647,000 in refunding bonds bearing an interest rate of 3½ per cent a year.

Of the total, $5,000,000 of the bonds will mature in 1953, but will be callable Jan. 1, 1946, or any interest date thereafter. The other $4,647,000 will mature in 1955 and will be callable on or after Jan. 1, 1951.

The city has $10,647,000 in outstanding bonds that fall due on Jan. 1, 1936. The city has on hand $1,000,000 to meet these bonds and will use the proceeds from the sale of the new issue to retire the rest.

Soak the Rich Tax Also to 'Soak' Women

BY HOWARD WOOD.

President Roosevelt's proposed new social reform tax bill does more than "soak the rich." It also "soaks the women."

Mary Sydney Branch, instructor in economics at Western college, Oxford, O., in a book entitled "Women and Wealth," published last year by the University of Chicago Press, disclosed some important information about the proportion of the national wealth and income possessed by women. Her figures were the result of studies of reports by the bureau of internal revnue, probate records, and other factual information.

1. Women are beneficiaries of 63 per cent of all property left at time of death.

2. Women constitute 43 per cent of the number of stockholders and own approximately 22 per cent of the stock of corporations.

3. Women are annually the recipients of 80 per cent or more of the death claims paid by life insurance companies and are named beneficiaries of about 87,200 million dollars of the 190,000 million dollars of life insurance outstanding.

4. Women constitute about 65 per cent of the beneficiaries of estates left in trust.

5. Women, in 1928, received approximately 38 per cent, or more than 9,000 million dollars, of the income reported to the federal government under the income tax law.

6. About one out of every five customers of investment houses is a woman.

The proposed federal inheritance taxes and increased levies on personal and corporate incomes, therefore, will fall heavily on the women of the United States.

The Roosevelt "soak the rich" tax bill as reported to the house of representatives by its ways and means committee contains a provision which would include the proceeds of life insurance in the property taxable under the proposed new inheritance tax.

How this would affect the widow of modest means is shown by the following example:

A husband dies leaving an estate worth $150,000. Conservatively invested in long term United States government bonds at prevailing rates of interest of about 2½ per cent, this estate would produce an annual income of $3,750 to support the widow and any children she might have.

But she doesn't get the full $150,000. Under the present laws she would get something between $144,400 and $147,800, depending upon whether the estate contained any insurance money. Under the present estate tax law there is a $50,000 lump exemption on any estate and an additional maximum of $40,000 for insurance.

The proposed new inheritance tax would be an additional charge placed on top the estate tax. It provides no exemption for insurance. The widow, therefore, would be forced to pay the tax collector an additional $15,600 for inheritance tax, in addition to the $2,200 to $5,600 estate tax.

After the two sets of tax collectors had each taken a whack at her money, therefore, she would have left not $150,000, but something between $128,800 and $132,200, depending upon the amount of the estate represented by insurance.

Her $128,800 conservatively invested in the above mentioned government bonds at the going rate of 2¼ per cent would yield her an annual income of only $3,220 instead of the $3,750 which she would have got on the full $150,000. The tax collectors' whittling would have cost her $530 each year in income.

A $21,200 tax on a $150,000 estate is a levy of more than 14 per cent. And a woman with an annual income of $3,220 can hardly be included in the ranks of the "rich."

She will, however, have contributed her share to the new tax, total annual receipts from which will produce only enough additional revenues to cover the current government deficit for about two weeks.

INSULL DENIES MAKING FIGHT TO RESTORE HIS $21,000 IN PENSIONS

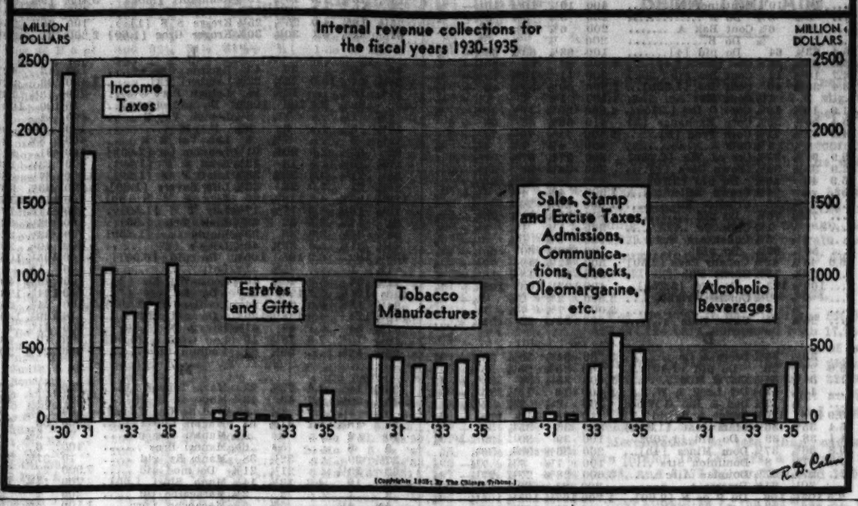
Whatever the directorate or management of his former big Chicago utility companies are considering in regard to restoration of his $21,000 annual pensions, Samuel Insull said yesterday that he neither has asked nor plans to ask for their reinstatement.

"Any talk about my making a fight for the pensions is pure bunk," asserted the 75 year old deposed head of the former 2 billion dollar utility "empire." The assertion was part of a written statement which Insull handed to reporters yesterday immediately upon his return from a vacation on Mackinac Island. He called reporters to his room at the Seneca hotel for his denial, but refused to amplify or comment on the statement.

"Reports that I have made any application or demand upon the Commonwealth Edison company, Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, or the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company for the reinstatement of pension payments to me are wholly incorrect," the statement read. "I have not taken any action in the matter and do not plan to take any."

After being deposed from control of the companies, Insull originally drew $50,000 a year in pensions, but this was reduced to $21,000—$6,000 from each of the three and $3,000 from Peoples Gas Subsidiary corporation. Payments were discontinued in 1934, but it was learned several days ago that heads of the three concerns are considering their reinstatement soon.

Principal Sources of Internal Revenue for Six Years Compared



West. Pacific Submits Plan to Reorganize

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Joining the growing list of railroads seeking capital relief, the Western Pacific today submitted a plan for reorganization to the interstate commerce commission simultaneously with the filing of a petition under the bankruptcy act in a California federal court.

The petition, filed over the signature of President Charles S. Elsey, asserted interest on its securities, due and unpaid up to June 30, totaled $2,883,335 and asked the commission to set an early date for consideration of the company's reorganization plan.

It was the twenty-second railroad to petition the commission for reorganization and the fifth of these to offer a plan for readjustment of its capital structure.

Plans to Cut Capitalization.

The proposal for reorganization would reduce the Western Pacific's capitalization from $147,240,343 to $75,643,954 and 300,000 shares of stock. Fixed charges would be cut from the present $3,177,302 to $1,027,036 annually.

The road proposes to exchange its outstanding first mortgage 5 per cent bond issue of $49,290,000, due in 1946, for three new bond issues as follows: $14,787,000 in new first mortgage 30 year 4 per cent bonds; $17,251,550 in new series "A" 5½ per cent 50 year income bonds, and the same amount in series "B" 5½ per cent 50 year convertible income bonds.

The reorganization plan contemplates a loan of $10,000,000 in new funds from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. It would leave undisturbed the road's $2,994,065 in equipment trust certificates.

File Plea in San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 2.—(AP)—A petition for reorganization was filed today by the Western Pacific railroad. Federal Judge A. F. St. Sure appointed the present management as trustee pending hearings before the interstate commerce commission in Washington.

Judge St. Sure's order enjoined the railroad's three principal creditors from selling bonds which they hold as collateral security on promissory notes. Those affected by the order include the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the Railroad Credit corporation and the A. C. James Co.

The reorganization petition shower total debts in excess of $71,440,345. This includes bonds, equipment trusts, leases and advances and deferred interest. Total capitalization was set at $147,240,343, and approximate value of the road and its subsidiaries at $143,500,000.

Urges Delaying Rail Plans.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—A warning to the interstate commerce commission not to approve any railroad reorganizations until the senate has had a chance to see whether corporate "insiders" were trying to retain control today came from Senator Wheeler [De..., Mont.].

There were indications, however, that the commission would not depart from its policy of acting on reorganization proposals as expeditiously as possible. It was said officially at the interstate commerce commission that its hearing of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific's application for reorganization would begin here Monday as scheduled, notwithstanding Senator Wheeler's communication.

As chairman of the interstate commerce committee about to investigate railroad financing, Wheeler wrote Acting Chairman Balthasar H. Meyer of the commission saying independent bondholders' committees and investors had protested against pending reorganizations going forward until the senate committee had "looked into and disclosed the underlying facts."

ILLINOIS HOLC FILES THIRD SUIT TO FORECLOSE

For the third time this year foreclosure proceedings have been filed in Illinois by the Home Owners' Loan corporation against home owners. A suit was instituted yesterday in the Superior court against Charles and Anna Slawnikowski, owners of a bungalow and garage at 8106 Merrill avenue.

The bill states that the loan of $6,100 was made Jan. 4, 1934, on the condition that the defendants pay $48.24 per month on principal and interest. There is now due $426 in interest and taxes for 1933 of $67, the bill states.

The two previous foreclosure suits brought by the state HOLC office in more than 55,000 loans were filed in the Superior court May 8 and July 30.

U. S. THREATENS SHIP CONTRACTS AS STRIKES DELAY CONSTRUCTION

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt indicated today that the government had made a conditional threat to cancel its $50,000,000 naval contracts with the New York Shipbuilding company of Camden, N. J., unless the company adopted some policy that would deliver the ordered ships and end the strike of 3,900 workers.

The threat is understood to have been conveyed in a letter from the navy department which Roosevelt said contained an arbitration proposal under which the dispute would be referred to three arbitrators selected by the government. This suggestion was similar to one made several weeks ago by Secretary Perkins, whose proposal was rejected by the company. The method of selecting the arbitrators set forth in the navy department letter is understood to have differed somewhat from that suggested by Secretary Perkins.

It is reported that the arrangement for the ships provides that they shall be delivered on a certain day. In government circles there is a disposition to include the strike period since May 13 as part of the time in which the contracts are to be fulfilled. If this policy is adopted by the navy department, the shipbuilding company would have to end the strike soon to complete the contracts by the given date. However, the President said today that in the letter to the company no specific time limit had been given for reply.

BRITISH IDLE LOWEST SINCE MIDDLE OF 1930

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Proof that Great Britain is not only steadily climbing the road to prosperity, but is slowly combating the unemployment problem also, is shown by the official unemployment figures.

For the first time since the middle of 1930 the unemployment figures are less than 2,000,000. While the figures will not be officially published until next Wednesday, it is learned the new total is about 1,970,000. The figure for last month was 2,000,110.

The last time the figure fell below two million was June, 1930, when the total of registered unemployed was 1,890,000. Thereafter it rose to a peak of 2,903,000 in January, 1933.

The Federation of British Industries, noted for the caution of their pronouncements, last night made the sensational prophecy that if all goes well, the major part of the British unemployment problem should solve itself within less than ten years.

It also was announced that note circulation of the Bank of England has reached a new high record for all time, of £408,262,000.

SURFACE LINES, "L" SHOW DROP IN JULY TRAFIC

Decreases from 1934 in revenue passengers carried during July were reported yesterday by the Chicago Surface Lines and the Chicago Rapid Transit company. Abnormally heavy trafic last year during the World's Fair largely accounts for the decline.

The total for the surface lines was 52,273,690, a drop of 1,582,187, or 2.94 per cent, from the corresponding month of last year. In June of this year the lines carried 53,169,105 passengers. The decline from a year ago was considerable less than that shown during June, when the decrease was 4.76 per cent.

From the beginning of the company's fiscal year on Feb. 1 to July 31 the surface lines carried 330,679,876 passengers, a drop of 6,357,581, or 1.90 per cent, from the corresponding period of 1934.

Passenger trafic on the "L" was little changed from a year ago during July, the decline amounting to only 0.85 per cent, despite last summer's heavy trafic. For the first seven months of this year 2.79 per cent more people have traveled on the elevated than a year ago.

Roosevelt to Hold Parley on Oil Regulation Bill

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—President Roosevelt is planning a conference Monday with Secretary Ickes and legislative leaders interested in an oil regulation bill. Among those invited to the conference were Chairman Rayburn of the house interstate commerce committee and Representatives Cole of Maryland and Disney of Oklahoma. Mr. Roosevelt said he had had no chance to read the latest proposals on oil regulation.

U. S. to Accept Republic Steel Merger Decree

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The United States government will not appeal the adverse decision rendered against it in the anti-trust case against the Republic Steel corporation, the Corrigan-McKinney Steel company and four other corporations, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings announced today.

Republic Steel had arranged to purchase the Corrigan-McKinney company's assets and those of two subsidiaries with bonds and stock, which were to have been distributed among the stockholders of the concerns taken over. The government attacked the setup on the grounds that it violated the Clayton anti-trust act.

Court Refuses to Bar Merger.

Early this year a federal district court in northern Ohio refused to heed the government's request that the companies be enjoined from effecting the merger.

The department of justice today issued a formal statement as follows: "This case was brought in order that the agreement should be submitted to judicial scrutiny. It was fully tried and, under the facts as found, the court pronounced the proposed transaction legal. In view of this holding as to the particular situation developed at the trial, it has been concluded that an appeal would be unavailing."

Vote on Merger Aug. 15.

Republic Steel stockholders are scheduled to meet on Aug. 15 to ratify formally the proposed merger with Corrigan-McKinney Steel and the Truscon Steel company. Stockholders of Corrigan-McKinney Steel have already ratified the contemplated move.

Federal Judge Fred M. Raymond, in ruling against the government on practically all points last May, mentioned that mere size was not to be condemned. He ruled the government had failed to furnish sufficient proof that the merger would cause "any substantial lessening of competition" or would result in "any probable injury to the public."

NEW YORK STOCK VALUES CLIMB SHARPLY IN JULY

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The upward climb of stock prices in July lifted the total value of all equities listed on the New York Stock exchange $2,686,022,655 to $38,913,092,273, according to a monthly tabulation released by the exchange today. Average price per share of all stocks Aug. 1 was $29.76, compared with $27.78 at the beginning of July.

On Aug. 1 there were 1,174 issues listed, aggregating 1,307,662,401 shares, compared with 1,184 issues July 1, aggregating 1,304,145,173 shares and having a total market value of $36,227,069,618.

GOODRICH POSTPONES INDEFINITLY PLANS TO MAKE BOND OFFERING

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The B. F. Goodrich company has postponed indefinitly plans for creation of a new $45,000,000 first mortgage as a basis for refinancing, it was learned today. This action follows close on the heels of a stockholders' proxy battle, and protests to the securities and exchange commission over the manner in which the company conducted its affairs.

On June 6 the company announced it sought the approval of its shareholders to issue $28,000,000 in new first mortgage bonds to refinance outstanding issues carrying coupons ranging from 5½ to 7 per cent. The new bonds were to be on a 4½ per cent basis. A special meeting of stockholders was called to authorize the issue. Proxies were solicited in opposition to the plan by Otis & Co. of Cleveland. The latter claimed that Goodrich had not supplied sufficient information on which the shareholders might make an intelligent judgment.

Under the by-laws of the rubber company at least 75 per cent of each class of its stock must approve any new financing. Goodrich was successful in obtaining the required percentages after a protracted struggle, although counsel for the opposition challenged several thousand share proxies.

Goldman, Sachs & Co., the bankers who were to underwrite the new bonds, said today that the financing was postponed indefinitly "until this whole affair blows over." The "affair" was the action taken by W. H. Hunt, a stockholder, in writing yesterday to the SEC asking that the commission intervene in the matter.

UTILITY STOCKS RISE TO NEW HIGHS FOR YEAR

Profit Taking Upsets Other Divisions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 2.—Power and light shares again preempted the limelight in today's dealings on the stock exchange. The group rose to new high levels for the year on buying stimulated by the house rejection of the "death sentence" clause in the holding company bill. Elsewhere the market was under the strain of week-end profit taking and losses of 1 and 2 points were numerous. Selling was heaviest in the steels and rails. Trading volume totaled 1,515,910 shares.

The bulk of activity was in utilities. Several large blocks of Consolidated Gas, Public Service, and other trading favorites appeared on the tape at intervals, particularly in early trading. Final prices were shaved from the peaks of the day, but such issues as American and Foreign Power, American Power and Light, Standard Gas, Public Service, United Corporation, Pacific Gas, North American, United Gas Improvement, Louisville Gas and Electric, National Power and Light, and Electric Power and Light went into the overnight record displaying gains ranging from a small fraction to a point.

Peoples Gas and Brooklyn Union were two exceptions to the group strength, both yielding a point or more.

Upturn from March Lows Broad.

Since bumping their 1935 lows around the middle of March when the blasts from Washington were most destructive to investors' confidence, the utilities have recovered more than 60 per cent. Some of the lower priced issues have trebled and even quadrupled their mid-March valuation figures.

Atchison was an outstanding target in the carrier division and at one time was floundering some 2 points below its previous close. Smaller losses were suffered by New York Central, Lackawanna, Pennsylvania, Union Pacific and others. Gains in five classifications compared with a year ago were insufficient to offset a severe drop in railroad loadings of grains and live stock last week.

In the steel share department Republic offered stouter resistance than some of its companions, thanks to the announcement by the department of justice that it would not appeal the recent anti-trust ruling against the government in the Corrigan-McKinney merger case. Bethlehem dropped nearly two points and U. S. Steel half as much.

Reports Aid Store Stocks.

Merchandising stocks got a little support from the optimistic summaries of retail trade conditions carried in the week-end trade reviews.

New York traction issues were given one of their periodic fillips on a revival of the perennial report that an agreement on unification of the city's transit lines is about to be announced.

Gains of 1 to 3 points were made by American Coal, Celanese, General American Transportation, Greyhound, Industrial Rayon, Ingersoll-Rand, Neisner Brothers, and U. S. Freight. The first sale in National Dairy Products preferred A stock since listing brought no change from the closing sale on the curb. Canada Dry, on a poor earnings statement, dipped a point.

Lower prices were the rule in the food, amusement, tobacco, rubber, motor, and equipment stocks.

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES WEAKEN; 10 HIT NEW TOPS

Prices weakened on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, although 10 issues pushed on to new high ground for the year. Most of these, however, were of the more inactive group. Price movements as a whole were narrow. Trading totaled 49,000 shares. Houdaille B opened strong and finished even with Thursday's close, but others of the motor group were lower. Bendix was down only fractionally and Borg-Warner lost more than a point of its recent husky rise.

Butler Brothers sank to 5⅞, a new low for the year. Crane slipped under 16 for the first time in several days. Cord and both Chicago corporation issues were steady. Independent Pneumatic Tool closed down a quarter for the day after making a new high. Zenith was steady in fair turnover. Packers were firm and rather inactive.

The steel group was mixed. Keystone and Continental fell back fractionally, while Ryerson advanced a half. Sivyer and both issues of Signode Steel were buoyant at further new highs—a regular thing with them lately.

Utilities went in both directions. Commonwealth Edison lost early firmness to drop a half point. Public Service of Northern Illinois also weakened. Penn Gas and Electric made another new top in active bidding, Central and Southwest held steady, Central Illinois Public Service finished strong, while Kentucky Utilities showed weakness throughout.

July Sales Tax Collections in Illinois Top 4 Millions

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 2.—(AP)—The state collected $4,034,947 in sales taxes for July and $2,862,359 in motor fuel taxes, M. L. Ames Jr., director of the department of finance, announced today. In announcing the 4 million dollar mark had only been passed once before in sales tax collections, Ames said the increase in the amount of the tax from 2 to 3 per cent would not be reflected in the total until the next return. The motor fuel collections were higher than for July, when $2,775,500 was taken in.

Bearish Crop Figures Force Wheat Lower

Wheat prices dropped sharply here yesterday as traders who had anticipated the estimates by local statisticians would reveal an extremely small crop this season were disappointed when the figures were issued. An average of 603,000,000 bushels was shown. This was 128,000,00 bushels under the government's estimate of a month ago, and the smallest crop since 1904 with the exception of 1933 and 1934.

Selling orders quickly poured into the pit, forcing prices steadily lower until the September delivery dropped about 3 cents from the finish of the previous day. The close was near lowest levels of the day, with September wheat showing the greatest loss. Hedging sales are going largely into the latter delivery, which accelerated the recession.

Price Trend Ignores Damage.

Despite the tremendous damage which has occurred in the spring wheat territory during the last month as the result of black rust, heat, and drouth, September wheat at the close was only 2⅞ cents above the July 1 level when rust talk first became a market factor.

Damage reports continued to appear yesterday from the American and Canadian northwest. The three prairie provinces of Canada received rain, and fears were expressed for a return to higher temperatures which would result in rust developing more rapidly. However, the Winnipeg wheat market weakened along with Chicago. Prices here lost 1⅞ to 2¾ cents, Kansas City declined 2½ to 3 cents, Minneapolis 2⅝ to 2⅞ cents, and Winnipeg ⅝ cent.

Closing prices on September futures here, with comparative quotations, follow:

	Yesterday.	Thursday.	Week ago.
Wheat	$ .90⅞	$ .93¾	$ .89⅝
Corn	.78⅛	.77⅞	.84
Oats	.32⅛	.32⅞	.33¼
Rye	.44¼	.45	.46⅜

Await Action of Wheat Board.

Messages from Winnipeg indicated the probable appointment of a new Canadian wheat board within two weeks. It was said that as soon as the board had fixed the minimum price, trading in October contracts would be permitted.

Rumors were current yesterday that American mills had purchased further quantities of Canadian cash wheat for shipment to Buffalo.

September corn held up well and closed within a fraction of the top with a net advance of about a cent a bushel. New crop months were steady to fractionally lower. Local experts forecast a crop of 2,298,000,000 bushels, or 253,000,000 in excess of the last government figures. Good rains were received over parts of the belt. The December delivery went to a discount of 16¾ cents under the September against 14¾ cents on Thursday.

Nearly 750,000 bushels of cash oats were said to have been bought recently by a leading cereal interest from the government. This represents grain which was secured last winter and this spring to be sold to farmers for seed purposes, but which was not needed. The price paid was not disclosed. Hedging pressure brought about a lower price range in both oats and rye futures.

DOLLAR LOSES GROUND AGAINST GOLD CURRENCIES

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Renewed strength was shown in gold bloc currencies today, with guilders leading the advance by rising 13 points to 67.88 cents and French francs surpassing parity with the dollar for the first time in two weeks. The guilder also improved in London, closing at 7.30⅝ guilders to the pound, compared with 7.31¼ yesterday.

Rising 1⅛ points to 6.63½ cents in New York, the franc caused a reduction in the value of the dollar against francs to 99.98 cents from $1.0015 yesterday. Based upon the old parity of the franc, the dollar was worth 59.05 cents, against 59.15 cents yesterday. Swiss francs were up 6 points to 32.79 cents. German marks gained 2 points to 40.37 cents, and Canadian dollars were 3⅛ points higher at 99.90⅝ cents. The Italian lira, sterling, and the belga were unchanged.

The Reichsbank statement of July 31, released yesterday, showed an increase of 48,000 reichsmarks in gold and bullion. Total gold holdings were 93,996,000 reichsmarks, with a note coverage of 2.57 per cent.

Bar gold in London advanced ½ penny to 140 shillings 10 pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.90, at which price £202,000 of gold was bought in the open market. Additional arrivals of gold from Holland today amounted to $1,669,900, according to the New York Federal Reserve bank.

PRIVATE AWARDS RISE AS PUBLIC BUILDING DROPS

Private engineering construction awards continued to expand this week, but a further drop in public awards carried the combined total down to $21,054,000 from $25,294,000 last week, according to the Engineering News-Record. Awards for the corresponding week a year ago totaled $19,825,000.

The current week's total is made up of $7,447,000 of private awards, $3,608,000 federal, and $9,969,000 state and municipal. Last week's private awards were $5,596,000, federal $6,262,000, and state and municipal $14,066,000. A year ago the figures were as follows: Private, $2,153,000; federal, $2,668,000, and state and municipal $15,004,000.

WHEAT SUPPLY IS SMALLEST IN MANY YEARS

Experts See Third Short Crop.

The supply of domestic wheat available for consumption during the current season is the smallest in several years. Two years of short crops have reduced carryover stocks of wheat to the lowest level since 1928. Now the country is harvesting its third consecutive deficient crop.

This season's indicated crop of 603 million bushels, plus an estimated 155 million bushels left over from last year make total supplies of 758 million bushels. An examination of records of the department of agriculture shows that this is the smallest total supply since 1917.

Carryover Larger in 1933-34.

In 1933 and 1934, although the production was smaller than this year's indicated crop, carryover supplies were much larger. Total supplies of wheat in those years were 932 million and 797 million bushels, respectively. The country drew on these reserve stocks to make up the deficiency in the growing crops.

Another factor which enters into the situation this year is the low quality of much of the wheat now being harvested. Test weights shown on the first samples of spring wheat suggest that it will take more wheat to make a barrel of flour than in normal seasons. Ordinarily 4½ bushels of wheat will make a barrel of flour. As much as six bushels of this year's spring wheat may be needed for each barrel, according to some estimates.

Statistically the country will have enough domestic wheat to meet all requirements. Actually, however, it may be necessary to import high grade varieties from Canada to mix with low quality domestic grain in order to maintain the quality of the flour.

Experts Estimate Crop.

The estimate of 603 million bushels for this year's crop is based on the average of private forecasts, the last of which were made public yesterday. The following table details the private estimates which are based on crop conditions on Aug. 1, last six ciphers omitted:

	Wheat— Winter.	Spring.	Corn.	Oats.
R. O. Cromwell		184	.....	.....
Nat C. Murray	415	176	2,344	1,233
B. W. Snow	411	238	2,370	1,269
H. C. Donovan	420	170	2,290	1,240
E. H. Miller	407	182	2,189	1,163
Aug. average	413	190	2,398	1,226
July average	451	256	2,151	1,288
Govt. July	458	273	2,045	1,266
Final, 1934	405	91	1,377	526
Final, 1933	351	178	2,352	732
1928-'32 average	618	242	2,562	1,218

Three Canadian provinces, all wheat—Murray, 297,000,000 bu; Donovan, 285,000,000 bu; average, 291,000,000. Month ago average, 373,000,000 bu. Final, 1934, 264,000,000 bu.

Government Figures Due Aug. 9.

The official report of the department of agriculture will not be made public until Aug. 9. The government's appraisal will be based on Aug. 1 conditions and will not reflect such changes as take place in the meantime.

There is a good deal of variations in the reports of private agencies. The Santa Fe railroad has estimated total production for Kansas at 70 million bushels, which is 15 million bushels above most of the other forecasts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Aug. 2.—Japanese exports to Panama are increasing with United States exports showing a steady decline, government officials here announced today. Since 1930, Japanese exports have increased from less than $200,000 to nearly $750,000 and are still climbing. During 1930 the United States sold Panama more than $11,000,000 worth of goods, but during 1934 it was $3,750,000.

Japan is now second only to the United States, displacing Great Britain, and is fast closing up on the leader. Yet Panama sells absolutely nothing to Japan while Panama purchased during the last year more than $5,000,000 worth of American merchandise.

Takao Arai, representing the Yokohama specie banks, is here after a trip to the south and has intimated Japan is after the bulk of the Latin-American business as well as banking, shipping, and colonization.

BLAME NEW DEAL FOR DECLINE IN CANADA DRY NET

Company Assails Anti-Business Legislation.

Damaging influences of government experimentation were blamed yesterday by Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc., for a sharp drop in earnings during the three and nine months ended June 30. The company's report showed a net loss of $85,810 for the June quarter, which compares with a net income of $80,871 in the preceding three months and net of $139,242 in the corresponding quarter of last year. For the nine months the company had a net profit of only $10,640, or 2 cents a share, against $398,739, or 77 cents a share, in the nine months ended June 30, 1934.

Part of the blame for the decline in profits may be attributed, the report of B. W. Moore, president, said, "to an increase in operating expenditures brought on by new and ever-increasing anti-business legislation, by the changing social order, and by government experiments of one kind or another, which no business enterprise has been able to escape, and a continuation of which may make corporate profits improbable if not impossible.

Assail Theory of New Taxes.

"The new corporate taxes now under consideration by congress," the report continues, "are not designed as much in the interest of raising revenue for the retirement of the public debt as they are in the interest of social change—taking away from investors who depend on corporate earnings for their sustenance, and placing their just share of such earnings in the hands of political forces to be expended in other unsound experiments."

During the fiscal year to date government levies have cost stockholders of the company $102,421, he said.

Hupp Motor Car corporation showed a June quarter net loss of $1,402,203, including a book loss of $963,501 from the sale of a portion of an unused plant at Cleveland, compared with a deficit of $688,253 in the preceding quarter and a loss of $736,841 in the June quarter of last year.

For the first half year the company's net loss totaled $2,090,455, compared with a deficit of $1,479,367 in the corresponding six months of last year.

Childs Co. Report Deficit.

Childs company and subsidiaries reported a net loss of $38,056 for the second quarter of this year, compared with a net profit of $15,586 or 41 cents a share on 37,321 shares of preferred stock in the preceding quarter and net income of $14,453 or 39 cents a share on the preferred in the June quarter of 1934. FORECLOSURES SHOW DECLINE IN COOK COUNTY

Suits During July Fewest Since May, 1931.

BY AL CHASE.

Foreclosures filed in the Superior and Circuit courts of Cook county during July were the lowest in number for any month since May, 1931. Last month 714 bills were filed, compared with 714 in the preceding month and 1,038 in July of 1934. In May, 1931, there 675 bills filed.

The total consideration on foreclosures of trust deeds in Cook county during July was $9,399,357. This compares with $9,859,522 last year; $21,536,996 in 1933; $50,155,565 in 1932; $54,696,313 in 1931, and $20,496,300 in 1930. Foreclosures during July, this year, also were considerably less than the preceding month, when they totaled $13,111,279.

Seven Months' Record Better.

Comparison of the first seven months of 1935 with the same period in previous years shows a decided decrease in the consideration on foreclosures. So far this year the total consideration is $69,327,000. Last year at this time it was $96,261,000. In 1933 it was $244,885,000 and in 1932 it had reached a record total of $289,091,000. The year previous to that, 1931, it was $231,148.

Peter De Met of the Public Club Cafeteria, Inc., has leased the 25x75 store at the northeast corner of State and Harrison streets, from Hall & Ellis, agents, for five years at a graduated rental, and will open another restaurant at that location. Gus C. Manos of the Gus C. Manos company was broker for the lessee.

Two outlying leases, both on the south side, were reported yesterday by J. E. Ehrenhalt & Co. The Gray Goose Self Service Shoe stores have rented from the Reliance Mutual Life Insurance Company of Illinois the premises at 7450 Cottage Grove avenue for a term of years on a minimum guarantee rental and percentage basis.

Millinery Firm Leases Store.

The Goldstein Millinery company has leased the store at 941 East 63d street for a term of years, also on a minimum guaranteed rental and percentage of gross profits, from the Ellis-Ingleside Building corporation.

Mawer-Gulden-Annis, Inc., of Brooklyn yesterday leased space for a branch plant in the building at 589 East Illinois street from the North Pier Terminal company for a term of years. Hart & Whetston, brokers, also report having leased the building at 3115-23 Carroll avenue to General Laminated Products, Inc.

The Better Values Shops, Inc., which operate a chain of fifteen wearing apparel shops, have leased the store at 7186 Grand avenue from the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, trustee, for five years. The premises are being remodeled. S. E. Terman & Co. and Henry F. Darre were brokers.

FIRST DIVIDEND ON COMMON PAID BY VAN RAALTE

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Van Raalte Co., Inc., today declared an initial dividend of 25 cents on the common stock, payable Sept. 1. This is the first common dividend since incorporation of the company in 1919. Irving K. Hessberg, president, stated this is not to be regarded as the inauguration of a regular dividend policy, although the directors will consider the company's earnings each quarter in connection with future declarations.

The company last year cleared up all of its accumulated dividends on the 7 per cent first preferred stock, which is now on the regular basis of $7 annually.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company today declared the usual extra dividend of 25 cents on the common stock in addition to the regular quarterly disbursement of $1.50. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 was declared on the preferred stock.

The Hazeltine corporation has declared an extra dividend of 25 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the capital stock. The EWA Plantation company has increased its quarterly dividend rate from 60 cents to $1.20.

The Waialua Agriculture Co., Ltd., has increased its quarterly dividend rate to $1.20.

VAN SWERINGEN MISSOURI PACIFIC PLAN IS OPPOSED

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—A committee for $224,000,000 of Missouri Pacific 5 per cent first and refunding mortgage bonds prepared today to attack the plan of reorganization for the railroad proposed by O. P. Van Sweringen, president of the Alleghany corporation, majority stockholder in the 12,000 mile line. A formal announcement of the bondholders' move is to be made next week. Following are several points on which the committee will oppose the Van Sweringen proposal:

The proposal that the holders of the $224,000,000 of first and refunding bonds, which largely comprise insurance companies and savings banks, accept new first mortgage bonds for 25 per cent of their holdings and 75 per cent in convertible 5 per cent income bonds for the remainder.

The retention of a 40.9 per cent common stock equity and of from 19 to 26 per cent preferred stock equity by the Alleghany corporation in the Missouri Pacific.

The acceptance of 75 per cent of income bonds by the first and refunding bondholders would require too great a sacrifice by the senior investors, it is held by the committee.

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Trading in bonds dropped to a dull pace today as speculative interest showed signs of lagging. Transfers aggregated $9,201,000, par value, compared with $12,146,000 the day before.

Medium grade rail issues gave ground, although losses were held within a point in most cases. A good sized block of low priced rail bonds sold a trifle lower along with other issues of various classifications. Among others losing ground were obligations of Baltimore and Ohio, Cleveland Union Terminal, Great Northern, Southern Railway, and Bethlehem Steel.

Utilities Show Firmness.

Utilities showed firmness in view of the second defeat for the "death clause" in Washington. Holding company issues were supported and some fractional gains were registered.

New York City traction bonds were bid up sharply to new highs during the forenoon, but later were subjected to considerable profit taking and gave up most of their early advantage. Substantially higher prices were paid for International Paper 6s, International Hydro 6s, B. F. Keith 6s, New Orleans Public Service 5s, New York Dock 4s and Morris and Essex 4½s.

Federal Group Is Dull.

Only about half of the government issues listed had more than one sale during the day. The treasury 2⅞s settled down to 101.18, which is the average price at which the goernment allotted the latest additional block of $106,482,000 early in the week. Other loans backed and filled in a narrow range and ended 3 32ds lower to 2-32ds higher.

Another relapse in Italian bonds was the only outstanding development in the foreign division. At one time during the session losses of more than a point were recorded in the government 7s, Rome 6½s, Milan 6½s and Pirelli 7s. There was some improvement in most of them before the close.

Standard Oil Company of Kansas.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly supply me with information regarding Standard Oil Company of Kansas? Thank you in advance.—L. F.

Answer: Standard Oil Company of Kansas [a Delaware corporation] was incorporated in 1932 to succeed Standard Oil Company of Kansas [Kas.]. The Delaware corporation was formed to take over only the old company's producing facilities, because the refining division proved unprofitable.

The present company owns producing acreage in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas and undeveloped leases and royalties in Louisiana.

Sales during the first quarter of 1935 were $202,000 and net income was $61,000. This compared with sales of $194,000 and net income of $132,000 for the first quarter of 1934.

Sales in 1934 were $803,000, against $538,000 in 1933 and $225,000 for the nine months to Dec. 31, 1932. Net income in 1934 was $367,000, or $2.50 per share, against net income of $78,000, or 52 cents a share, for 1933. For the nine months to Dec. 31, 1932, net income was $62,000, or 23 cents a share.

At the close of 1934 current assets, including only $18,000 cash, totaled $95,000 and current liabilities, including $250,000 notes payable, were $368,000.

Capitalization consists solely of 146,542 shares of $10 par capital stock. Dividends have never been paid at any regular rate. In 1934 they totaled $2 a share. On April 30, 1935, the management said that no dividend action had been taken nor was any contemplated in the near future.

Louisiana Power and Light.

Investors' Guide: The writer would appreciate your opinion of Louisiana Power and Light company first 5s. Thank you.—G. E. A.

Answer: Louisiana Power and Light company is an operating unit controled by Electric Power and Light corporation. It engages in a general public utility business, mostly distribution of electricity, principally in northern and eastern Louisiana. It serves a population of 222,000.

Operating revenues for the 12 months to May 31, 1935, increased slightly to $5,606,000 from $5,408,000 for the preceding 12 months. Fixed charges, however, were covered only 1.85 times, against 1.93 times in the preceding 12 months.

During 1934 operating revenues increased to $5,598,000 from the $5,251,000 reported for 1933. Fixed charges were earned 1.91 times in 1934, 1.94 times in 1933, 2.43 times in 1932 and 3.20 times in 1931.

On Dec. 31, 1934, current assets were $2,887,000 and current liabilities were $985,000. Funded debt was $17,500,000, consisting entirely of the first 5s, due 1957.

Although interest on the bonds has been covered by wide margins over a long period and current position appears adequate, the consistently downward trend of earnings makes the position of the bonds somewhat weak.

EXPANDING TRADE VOLUME GAINS FURTHER IN WEEK

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Spurred by an unexpected expansion in the rate of operations for various basic industries, well in advance of the normal fall period, the rising trend of business has broadened measurably this week, according to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

The further advance in industrial operations, says the trade survey, has lifted the average range of activity from 15 to 25 per cent above levels prevailing in the corresponding period a year ago.

Employment, it is found, has remained steady with slight gains at isolated centers, although the increase was not fully in keeping with the rising rate of activity.

"With the exception of car loadings, which declined and were below the comparative total of a year ago for the sixth consecutive week, leading industrial indices," says the review, "made further headway in recovering the ground lost during the the second quarter."

"Trade continued at an excellent pace, although the estimated gain in sales for the country was held to a range of 10 to 20 per cent over 1934, due to the rising trend a year ago.

"General volume of wholesale orders continued to rise by a larger percentage over the comparative showing of last year.

"Continuous high temperatures and new heat waves in some parts of the country gave retailers an opportunity to clear the remaining stocks of summer merchandise, making substantial sums of cash available for investment in fall inventories."
